Dubinsky and Hochman. He Missed Both Wives. Murder in a Blanket. Salute Swastika, or —

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

WHOEVER arranged for Grover Whalen, formerly New York City's police commissioner, to take charge of NRA activities in New York, gave him real work.

For long hours yesterday, urbane, bland, conciliatory talking to employers and strikers, in New York's garment war, that called out 60,000 employes, Mr. Whalen tried to persuade the men to go back to work, and to persuade employers to make it worth while for the men to return.

After hours of talk the job of persuasion was to start again at eight o'clock last night.

VERY INTERESTING were the faces of the employers and employed in the garment industry, one of the greatest in the country. The employers, as a rule, looked tired.

Some of them have money, and that makes you tired in these days, watching it. Striking workers have no money, most of them, but they have terrific energy and use it.

IT WAS a delight to watch and to hear David Dubinsky, head of the International Ladies Garment Workers, as he took the floor, beginning always mildly, ending otherwise with, "We don't want to wait to eat pie in the sky." Or:

"It takes five weeks to make a man's coat in the garment industry. It will take longer than that to clear this thing up in Washington. And after we finish there they will have to ventilate Washington. We mean to tell things."

Julius Hochman, head of another garment union, with a head bigger than that of the late Bourke Cockran, a deep voice and powerful eyes that might have made him a genius on the Shakespearan stage, should be "written up." What power in that small crowd. If it ever breaks loose, look out.

TEN MINUTES listening to the employers and the talkers for 60,000 strikers make you realize that the NRA eagle will add gigantically to the strength of organized labor.

You may, with government pressure, coerce the head of a great industry. But you can't coerce the millions that work for the great industries, if they choose to strike.

IT IS a pity that there is not room to describe Mr. Dubinsky and Mr. Hochman, the latter at discreet intervals whispering to Mr. Dubinsky:

"Go a little easy."

Such terrific energy is in Mr. Dubinsky, so much menace in his voice, with a powerful foreign accent, that if you are a little old and a little weary, looking at him and listening to him for five minutes is violent exercise.

His spine is bent at the top from years of working over machines turning out "garments," that others wear. But he rises, shakes his small hand, with soft round fingers. Although he is only five feet four, he looks like a giant.

JOHN SZABO, shoemaker, had two wives and missed them both. One died seven years ago and one four years ago. He buried them side by side and when, 65 years old, he missed them too much, he shot himself so that his body would drop on both their graves. His request to an undertaker to bury him near them cannot be granted. That graveyard does not accept suicides.

He is with them now, perhaps, or perhaps with only one, depending on the rule concerning those that have two or more wives in the better land. Perhaps the number does not matter, where they are just spirits. How would Solomon manage?

A NEW kind of gang murder in New York. A truck driver is found wrapped in a brown blanket, his necktie showed that as he struggled he was compelled to strangle himself.

Nothing like that since a caliph, told of by Marco Polo, tied a neighboring chieftain whom he had just conquered in an Oriental rug and had him trampled to death by horses, thus "avoiding bloodshed."

YOU ARE safe in Germany if you see a German flag going along with a swastika, on it, sort of an imitation pinwheel, provided you raise your arm and give the best imitation you can of a Nazi salute.

Dr. Daniel Mulvihill, of Brooklyn, N. Y., studying under Dr. Sauerbruch in Berlin, forgot about saluting the swastika when a parade went by. A Nazi in uniform hit him on the side of the head violently to teach him better manners, and causing deafness.

That is new, since Kessler's hat.

MR. MEDALIE, United States prosecuting officer, says he can name four or six important political leaders that work under control of gangsters and cooperate with them.

Thereupon a grand jury asked a judge whether he thinks it would be quite all right to send for Mr. Medalie and ask him who the leaders are. The judge says he thinks it would be all right.

If Mr. Medalie had said he knew some half-starved poor devil, who stole a loaf of bread or an overcoat, the police would have asked "Who is it?", and would have had the man in jail an hour later.

WE ARE probably a little nearer to so-called "inflation," which would mean making dollars more plentiful.

Since putting the dollar off the gold basis has cut its value by twenty-five per cent in the markets of the world, it would

SEEK TO LINK KIDNAPER TO LINDY CASE

U. S. Sleuths to Stay On Trail If It Takes Lifetime

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 18.—(AP.)—The kidnaping of the infant son of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh in 1932, and an attempt to escape jail today had become entwined in the round-up of a wide-spreading kidnap and robber gang whose reputed leader, Harvey Bailey, is in jail here under heavy guard.

Federal operatives neither confirmed nor denied reports published in the Rocky Mountain News, at Denver, that two of its agents had been assigned "for life," if necessary, to determine if Bailey or Albert L. Bates, a confederate held prisoner in Denver, had any connection with the abduction and death of the flier's son.

GUARD INCREASED

The police guard over Bates was increased to eight machine gunners after Chief of Police Albert T. Clark discovered three bars of his cell had been hacked through and a weapon-like metal pipe was within his reach.

Bailey, charged with the abduction of Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma oil millionaire, also has been named by the Department of Justice as the operator of a machine gun which mowed down four officers and their prisoner, Frank Nash, at Kansas City, June 17, in an attempt to free Nash.

The four under arrest with Bailey were R. G. Shannon, at whose isolated farm in Wise County Bailey was arrested last Saturday; Shannon's wife, their son, Armon, and Armon's wife.

BOND PROTESTED

The Shannons were anxious to post the $50,000 bond set for each, but protested it was more than they could raise. Bailey's bond was set at $100,000.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 18.—(INS.)—Harvey Bailey, notorious gangster held in jail in Dallas in connection with several crimes, was at large at the time the small son of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh was kidnaped and murdered, a check of his record revealed today.

JERSEY CHIEF MUM

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Maj. Charles H. Schoeffel, of the New Jersey state police, said today no information had been forwarded here as to Harvey Bailey's possible connection with the Lindbergh kidnaping. He added:

"Until that time questions cannot be answered."

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Gov. Lehman's anti-kidnaping bill, calling for a death penalty for convicted kidnapers when the kidnaped person has not been returned prior to the trial, was passed last night by the New York Senate and sent to the Assembly for concurrence.

Herron Predicts No 'Deflation' in Tax Assessments

By MARK SHIELDS

Deflation in real estate values will not be recognized by city assessors in fixing a taxable value on real estate, just as inflation during the boom years did not result in unjustified inflation.

This was one of the outstanding economic pronouncements of Mayor John S. Herron in opening his campaign for the Republican mayoralty nomination last night at a huge mass meeting in North Side Carnegie Hall.

At the same time the Mayor told the thousands who listened that he would summon a meeting of mayors and burgesses of the tri-state region to consider flood control measures which not only would materially benefit the district, but would put thousands of men to work.

STICKS TO ECONOMIES

In an atmosphere redolent of politics, before a crowd which had jeered insinuating references to candidates opposed to Herron and his ticket and had cheered the name of every candidate on that ticket, Herron directed his appeal entirely to economics and the betterment of conditions in Pittsburgh, and toured no political bypaths.

He declared that crime in Pittsburgh had been controlled, so far as was humanly possible, that improvement programs had been adopted, that he had put the direction of the Department of Public Safety and the City Treasury in the hands of men non-political as soon as he took office last April.

It was a measured speech, directed as much to the radio audience as to the 2,000 persons who jammed the hall and the like

Senator Blames Hoover Administration for Illegal Banking

International News Service.

DETROIT, Aug. 18. — The United States Treasury Department "acted illegally" for months following the market crash, in allowing strong banks to keep insolvent ones open, Senator James Couzens charged today.

Couzens resumed his testimony before Judge Harry B. Keidan, who, as a one-man grand jury, is investigating the Detroit bank collapse that started the national bank crisis of last March.

He named former Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Under Secretary Ogden Mills as responsible for the alleged "illegal action."

Couzens explained:

"All during the years of the depression following the collapse, while the administration was in the hands of my good friends Mr. Mellon and Mr. Mills, they made use of purely discretionary policy in dealing with shaky banks. And all the time they were violating the law.

GLASS 'OUTRAGES'

U. S. INSISTS ON PACTS BY TOMORROW

NRA Bans Open Shop At Auto Hearing; Oil Protests Vain

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Steel, coal and oil absorbed the concentrated efforts of President Roosevelt's Recovery Administration today after a big automobile gathering from which Henry Ford was absent heard Hugh S. Johnson's blunt warning there would be "no exceptions, whether large or small."

Johnson told the automobile men:

"This code, when approved, will be administered without fear or favor. It is a matter of regret that the recommended code does not include 100 per cent of the manufacturers, and I hope that condition will not long continue."

Immediately afterward, Johnson told his press conference:

"I haven't even thought yet of the disciplinary powers in the law."

But he added they were put there to be used if necessary, and would be if occasion arose. Federal licensing could be applied under the law.

LAST CHANCE FOR COAL

Johnson said the NRA would attempt to have the nation's bituminous coal operators get together on an agreement of their own before the administration handed them its ready-made code.

When asked whether he was going to place a code written by the administration before representatives of the industry this afternoon, he said:

"I'm going to try to get them to put one down in front of me."

Nevertheless, deputy Administrator Kenneth M. Simpson continued work on an administration code. He refused to disclose its provisions.

With President Roosevelt urging that the code be ready for his approval tomorrow night, the administration was prepared to bend every effort in getting recalcitrant operators into line. The industry has submitted 29 different codes.

The chief disagreement among the operators have been on the open shop, maximum hours, minimum wages and wage differentials.

OPEN SHOP BARRED

The President told one group of producers yesterday that an open shop clause in the code was out of the question. He also was understood to have suggested maximum hours as short as possible as a means of returning more idle miners to their jobs.

The recovery chieftain said he still planned to take the production-curbing, price-supervising oil code to President Roosevelt today but was ready to correct any mistakes pointed out by oil men during the morning in numerous complaints filed with him. Such corrections in the charter, he indicated, would be only minor changes after a night of "proof-reading" by the industry.

Johnson said steel men had not, up to the present time, reached a final agreement among themselves, adding that wages and working hours were the stumbling points.

Conferences with both steel and coal men were on Johnson's

HERRON SCORES DEFICIT SCARE

Mayor Herron today replied to the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board's prediction of a possible deficit of $2,500,000 for the city in 193? by questioning the board's motives. The board yesterday warned Council that unless immediate retrenchments were effected the city would wind up the year "in the red."

The Mayor said:

"I am afraid the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board's letter was timed to try to becloud the real issue. We thought they were satisfied that we were trying to do something constructive, but why their letter should be released so as to appear in the newspaper simultaneously with the report of our mass meeting last night seems to me should be explained.

"Regular communications to City Council are reserved for regular meetings, which are always held on Mondays, and as the secretary of the Real Estate Board is conversant with that practice, I am just wondering what the motive was.

"We have lived within our budget and because large numbers are paying monthly and some not at all, a 5 per cent falling off in collections at this time of the year is not at all surprising, and no cause for alarm, especially in view of the upturn in business and employment."

STATE NEARLY OUT OF CASH

HARRISBURG, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Auditor General Charles A. Waters today said Pennsylvania, spending more money than it receives, will be "in the red in two more weeks and absolutely unable to meet its obligations in two more months" unless some "extraordinary revenues" are found.

To meet the situation which he said is caused by heavy payments for unemployment relief, Waters said the commonwealth is making large withdrawals from all inactive deposits in banks.

Waters said:

"With our revenues falling behind our expenditures of general fund approximately $14,500,000 since June 1 of this year, and large road and school payments due September 1, it has become necessary to notify inactive depositories of heavy withdfawals to meet the state's obligations.

"We have seen our general fund balance shrink from $50,000,000 at the start of the last biennium to a little over $6,000,000 today, and our motor fund from approximately $27,000,000 a year ago to $11,000,000 today, and the total in all funds dwindle from $80,000,000 to $39,000,000.

Carol Has Measles, Son Also Stricken

BUCHAREST, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—King Carol, already suffering from an attack of the flu, has contracted the measles, apparently from close contact with his son, the Crown Prince Michael, who has been a measles patient several days.

Physicians issued a bulletin saying that the King's condition was generally good. He was running a temperature of 101 degrees.

Pavilion Collapses, Hurls Crowd in Lake

BRIDGETON, N. J., Aug. 18.—(AP.)—One woman and a small group of children were thrown into Sunset Lake last night when one corner of an old pavilion collapsed during an entertainment.

The victims all were hauled from the shallow water by police and spectators and physicians said none was injured.

Two painters were overcome, one by trying to rescue the other today in the Eberhardt and Ober Brewery, Troy Hill road. Fumes from paint were blamed.

Frank Oberleitner, 34, of 1314 Federal street, was found unconscious in the carbonating tank in the cooling room by Urban W. Stapf, 20, of Forty-fourth street.

When Stapf tried to carry out Oberleitner, he, too, was overcome. Both were rescued by other workmen.

Police applied pulmoters to the two. Later at Allegheny General Hospital they were reported recovering.

PREACHER, GIRL UNDER ARREST

ANGOLA, Ind., Aug. 18.—(AP.)—The Rev. Sidney H. Beauchamp, 26, former pastor of the Nine Mile United Brethren Church in Allen County, was held in the Steuben County Jail today on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a 17-year-old girl.

The girl, Miss Geneva Bradbury, also was held on charges of delinquency. The minister's wife, Mrs. Phyllis Beauchamp, 26, also was charged with contributing to delinquency, but was free under bond.

The charges against the three were contained in an affidavit sworn out by Miss Bradbury's mother. They were arrested at a Lake Gage cottage where they were living together. No date has been set for their hearings.

Mr. Beauchamp was alleged to have professed his love for the girl. His wife told authorities she had refused to complain publicly, fearing for her husband's reputation as a minister. He has been conducting revival meetings since resigning his pastorate.

Wales 'Cute,' Says His 'Cute' Golf Nemesis

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Beatrice Gottlieb, the tiny American miss who beat the Prince of Wales playing golf, returned today from England on the President with the spoils of her victory—seven golf balls and a score card signed in a bold hand "Edward, P."

She won the balls the day she defeated the English heir to the throne seven and six in an 18-hole match. She said:

"He is awfully nice, with an awful cute walk and the cutest blue eyes."

Miss Gottlieb is "awfully cute" herself, with blonde hair, tanned skin and tiny, compact figure.

One day the prince asked Archie Compston, his private golf tutor, the identity of the little girl playing behind him on the course and when he learned it was Miss Gottlieb he invited her to join them.

Two of the matches were drawn and the other she won.

She said:

"I guess I was awfully naughty once. When I missed a shot I said 'nerts,' but the prince just laughed."

Miss Gottlieb said she also played a round with the Duke of Manchester, the score of which she did not divulge, and added:

"I was giving all the royal family a break."

'First Lady' on Secret Visits to Mine Towns

The President's wife was accompanied by a woman companion and field workers of the American Friends' Society.

During two days in the mining camps, Mrs. Roosevelt visited miners' homes and questioned them about working conditions, wages paid and their problems in general.

She was particularly impressed by the subsistence gardens cultivated by unemployed miners.

Mrs. Roosevelt asked that her visit be given no publicity in order that she might tour the district without ostentation.

U. S. DRIVING STEEL AND COAL INTO NRA FOLD TOMORROW

BAN OPEN SHOP AT AUTO CODE HEARING

schedule in the intense drive to bring both huge industries into NRA membership by tomorrow night. Johnson was asked:

"Are you going to put a code before the coal people today?"

He laughed and replied:

"I hope they'll put one before me."

He left no doubt that both the steel and coal negotiations were due for a swift climax.

ROOSEVELT DEMAND

President Roosevelt served notice on the coal men yesterday, at a conference with four leaders of the large Eastern non-union group, that he wanted a code on his desk ready for approval by Saturday night.

Johnson looked for a steel agreement today and was hopeful over the coal outlook. Both industries understood that Mr. Roosevelt wanted their codes on his desk before leaving for Hyde Park tomorrow.

But still underlying the situation was the feeling caused by steel's recent refusal to confer with William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and Green's interpretation that this was representative of steel's inherent opposition to organization of its workers.

Labor questions also provided the sore-thumb in coal. Bituminous operators had from Mr. Roosevelt himself a request for a single trade code that should contain no open-shop clause. Despite the presidential admonition, some of the operators reiterated their insistence upon the open shop.

AUTO HEARING ON

A 30-hour week and a minimum of 60 cents an hour were demanded of the automobile manufacturing industry today by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, at the hearing on the code proposed by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

The manufacturers had proposed a minimum wage rate ranging from 41 to 43 cents an hour, dependent upon the size of the city in which the industry was located. They also had proposed an average 35-hour week and a maximum of 48 hours in seasonal periods.

Gen. Johnson, NRA Administrator, opened hearings on the automobile manufacturing code with a statement apparently directed at least in part at Henry Ford, that no exceptions would be made in its administration, whether the manufacturers not concurring are small or large.

RAP AT FORD

Without mentioning Ford by name, but with his meaning pointed by Ford's declination thus far to subscribe to the code presented by others of the industry, Johnson said:

"It is a matter of regret that the industry as represented here does not include 100 per cent of automobile manufacturers; because, certain it is, that in the administration of this law and the distribution of the Blue Eagle, no exception can be made in favor of any manufacturer whether his output be great or small.

"We shall execute this law as we find it, without fear and without favor."

In addition to the absence of Ford from the list of manufacturers supporting the code, interest in the hearing centered upon its labor provisions declaring in favor of the open shop.

After setting forth that employes shall have the right to organize and bargain collectively through representatives chosen by themselves without interference or coercion the code says:

"Under the foregoing provisions, the employers in the industry may continue the open shop policy under which the selection, retention and advancement of employes will be on the basis of individual merit without regard to their affiliation or non-affiliation with any labor or other organization."

RICHBERG PROTESTS

Donald Richberg, counsel to the Recovery Administration, urged the elimination of the "open-shop" reference from the code, saying it "may be easily construed as the declaration of a policy of refusing to comply with the law."

Alvin Macauley, president of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce and president of the Packard Motor Car Company reviewed the effects of the depression upon the industry and its present condition. He said that since April 1, the 47 members of the chamber which, he added, does not include the Ford company, have increased the number of workers employed by over 37,000 or approximately 40 per cent. Wages, he added, have been increased by members of the chamber as much, in some cases, as 20 per cent.

Under the code, he said chamber members estimated that they would increase employment by from 41,000 to 152,000, depending upon the total production.

OIL MEN FIGHT

Indications that the great oil industry's trade code would go to President Roosevelt with few changes were given today by Johnson after strong criticisms of it had been lodged with him by petroleum leaders.

Johnson said the submission of the code to the industry by the NRA and administration "was not a high-handed proposition because these people have had every chance to represent any possible views."

Johnson indicated some slight revisions might be made in the program before he sent it to the White House, but indicated it would definitely go to the President today.

The production control section, which stipulates the government shall exercise its power over interstate commerce to prevent the "pouring out of unmanageable oil that nearly ruined a great industry," Johnson said, "is based on the most constitutional provision of any law." He said:

"The only penalty for the states (that exceed their quota) is that they will have to float in their own oil."

TEXAS 'KEY STATE'

He expressed the view that if oil production in Texas alone could be regulated adequately the question of production control nationally would be simple.

Johnson said he himself wrote the section of the code's regulating price provision stipulating as a basis that a barrel of crude oil should cost 18½ times the price of a gallon of gasoline at refinery according to quality of each.

This provision does not satisfy the majority of the industry demanding rigid price supervision, whose spokesmen took their appeal direct to Mr. Roosevelt today.

Asked if he planned to license the oil industry, Johnson said the NRA would if necesary, but that "that looks like it is a long way off, if ever."

OIL SUMMARY

Effective in two weeks after approval by President, expected by Sunday.

Clerical employes in drilling, production, refinery and pipeline operations, 40-hour week; other employes, 72 hours in 14 days; pay rates from 45 cents to 52 cents an hour.

Marketing operation employes, except filling station workers, 40-hour week with pay from 40 to 47 cents; filling station employes, 48-hour week, pay from $12 to $15 weekly.

Federal agency to allocate production to meet demand; states to divide production within borders, government regulating interstate movements to prevent shipments in excess of quota, whether or not divided by state.

Machinery for supervising prices on a general basis of the price of crude oil a barrel being 18.5 times the cost of gasoline per gallon at refinery, according to quality of oil and gasoline.

Authorizes President Roosevelt to designate federal agency for administration, with a co-ordinating and planning committee of 12, nine to be appointed by him from nominees of the industry and three from the NRA.

Ford Co. Denies 'Clash,' Raps Auto Code

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 18.—(Universal.)—Denying the reported "clash" between Henry Ford and the NRA administration, William Cameron, spokesman for the Ford Motor Company, declared yesterday, however, that the proposed code for the automobile industry "nullifies the recovery program in every paragraph."

The circulated report that 'a clash was imminent between the noted manufacturer and NRA officials brought from Gen. Hugh S. Johnson the statement that if Ford declined to come under the code, he would be "treated like any other industrialist.

Cameron asserted that, in fact, "there is no automobile code, but only a proposal." This proposal he declared, defeated the purposes of the recovery program. He added:

"There is no clash between Henry Ford and the NRA. Any announcement for the Ford Motor Company at this time is premature. All statements about a 'clash' are mere conjecture and surmise."

NRA Leaves Utility Rate Changes to States

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—(INS.)—The National Recovery Administration today refused to take any responsibility for demands for increased gas and electric rates which may result from acceptance of utility codes.

The viewpoint of the NRA on the subject was given out at the office of Dudley Cates, deputy recovery administrator, in reply to an assertion by Robert T. Higgins, chairman of the Connecticut Public Utilities Commission, that rate increases would be necessary for gas and electric companies under the present code.

Cates said:

"It is up to the public utilities commissions of the various states to consider rate increase applications by gas and electric companies operating under the NRA code. If the rates applied for seem excessive, the state commissions can deny the applications."

SOUTH INSISTS ON CURRENCY INFLATION

Senate Agriculture Committee Head Urges Printing

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Pressure upon President Roosevelt to exercise some of the inflationary powers granted him by Congress has increased enormously this week.

It has come mainly from the inflationist group in Congress. They insist that without expansion of currency the National Recovery Act cannot be made to function to its maximum efficiency.

The cotton-growing South particularly has been insistent that Mr. Roosevelt take the rubber-band off the government's bank roll and provide new money to finance the commodity structure.

FULL AMOUNT ASKED

Senator Smith (Dem.), South Carolina, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, joined Senator Elmer Thomas (Dem.), of Oklahoma, and Senator George (Dem.), of Georgia, in the most vigorous appeal for inflation. Smith proposed that Mr. Roosevelt utilize the printing presses to turn out at once the entire $3,300,000,000 allowed under the National Recovery Act. Smith said:

"That would provide sound money, backed by the government, in sufficient quantity to provide a firm foundation for the recovery program. We must have increased commodity prices, else where will our recovery program be?"

The southerners complain that notwithstanding the wide inflationary powers granted the President there has not been as yet any new money put into circulation. On the other hand, recent Treasury and Reserve Board figures disclose actually less money in circulation now than some months ago.

ROOSEVELT SILENT

Mr. Roosevelt for the present, at least, is non-committal on the issue. Whether his reluctance to use the power vested in him is due to natural distrust of inflation, or a feeling that the time is not yet ripe remains his own secret. But the pressure is growing steadily heavier, and one of the callers who discussed the matter with him predicted today an executive declaration of policy within a few days.

The increased pressure from the cotton sections was ascribed to the fact the new cotton crop is about ready for marketing. Pressure from the wheat sections for inflation has softened somewhat since a great deal of the crop has already been marketed.

Too, wheat is considered in a better economic position than cotton. The pending wheat acreage production is a three-year arrangement, while the cotton reduction was worked out only for this year's crop. Also there is top-heavy cotton surplus overhanging the market, while the wheat surplus, thanks to a bad year, shows steady reduction.

The President has managed thus far to parry all questions as to when and to what extent he plans to exercise the vast inflationary powers with which he has been vested. He returns a smiling noncommittal answer to them all.

The impression obtains that he prefers to await the first results of the NRA movement before definitely making up his mind how much inflation, if any, is needed. That some will be needed no one here doubts, but the extent is a matter of keen conjecture.

U. S. APPROVES $65,000,000 PROJECTS

Jobs for 20,000 Seen By New Grant in Many States

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Upwards of 20,000 new jobs were seen today by the public works administration through its approval of $65,000,000 more for expenditure on construction.

It figured, for instance, that the spending of $44,200,000 on a tri-borough bridge project in New York—$37,000,000 a loan, the rest a direct grant—would give 18,000 men jobs for a full year.

As the administration approved the allocation of funds to this project, which is the erection of a huge bridge connecting the boroughs of Manhattan, Queens and Bronx, it also set aside $11,527,499 for 29 public buildings in 22 states and nearly $10,000,000 for slum-erasing housing projects.

JOB ESTIMATES

It picked just three of the latter for job estimates. The Queens Borough, New York, project, it said, should provide 18 months' jobs for 800 men; that in Neptune Gardens, Boston, 1,000 jobs for a year; that in Hutchinson, Kan., 35 six-month jobs. The Queens Borough work got a loan of $3,210,000; Neptune Gardens, $3,500,000; Hutchinson, $40,000.

Many more jobs, the administration said, would be provided indirectly.

For the other housing projects, it made no specific estimate of employment. For the 291 public buildings, it said simply:

"Construction will begin as soon as contracts can be awarded. Large numbers of men now unemployed will be given work."

WAGES FIXED

As it approved these, the administration also set minimum wages for the things to be built under its jurisdiction. These would guarantee:

Southern Zone—Skilled labor, $1 an hour, unskilled, 40 cents. Central Zone—Skilled, $1.10; unskilled, 45 cents. Northern Zone—Skilled, $1.20; unskilled, 50 cents.

These schedules, said Secretary Ickes, were drawn to "carry out the mandate of Congress that wage rates shall be sufficient to provide a standard of living in decency and comfort."

Food Prices Boost Here 9 Per Cent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Retail food prices are increasing in Pennsylvania and are now higher than they were a year ago.

The Labor Department reports that during the month ending July 15, they went up 10 per cent in Scranton, 9 per cent in Pittsburgh and 7 per cent in Philadelphia. The respective increases over the previous July 15 were 5, 5 and 1 per cent.

be only reasonable to increase the number of dollars by twenty-five per cent.

YESTERDAY the dollar dropped, and stocks and grains went up, wheat bouncing around like a rubber ball. The rule forbids wheat to drop more than five cents a bushel in any one day, which is, in the opinion of grain speculators, something like having a fireman holding a net under you while you are balancing on the window ledge.

It's a new thing to know the worst that can happen in twenty-four hours.

COAL STRIKERS OFFER PEACE

told how he had been kept from going to work until all of the men had gone into the mine, following which he said, the pit boss informed him:

"You're fired for being drunk."

Pittsburgh Coal Company officials deny firing Bell.

Patton, asserting he had made several attempts to iron out differences between the men and company officials, told the Federal investigators he had been continually rebuffed. He said:

"I called William Phillips, the superintendent, and asked him to meet with me. He told me, 'I'll meet you as a man but not as a representative of the United Mine Workers.'

"I told him that was all right with me, but when I asked him, "Will you put these men back to work?', he just refused to answer."

PEAGE URGED

Andrews, explaining his mission in the coal fields, told the strikers:

"Less labor trouble will give the people of this country more confidence in what we are trying to accomplish through the National Recovery Act. That's the reason Mr. Dewey and I've been sent out here—to settle your differences."

Before leaving Uniontown, Andrews said he was confident misunderstandings between miners and operators could be ironed out satisfactorily. He spent all day yesterday in a preliminary survey. He held conferences both with union leaders and company officials.

Thomas Moses, president of the H. C. Frick Coke Company, denied charges of the miners that discrimination was practiced against men active in organizing for the United Mine Workers, in violation of the truce in the strike two weeks ago.

ALLEGE MELLON BROKE LAWS

ator Glass declaring that testimony before the Senate subcommittee showed that if the law were literally enforced the government would have to close half the banks of the country. In the statement Senator Glass declared the comptroller's department had acted illicitly and almost paralyzed "the entire business community of the nation."

It was this "discretionary" policy toward shaky banks, Senator Couzens said, that prompted the government to refrain from taking action which would have closed the two Detroit national banks long before the crash came.

These banks had loaned millions of dollars with their own stock as security, he charged, "in violation of the law."

The government, he said, knew of these alleged illegal loans, and might have ordered them written off. But this, he said, would have resulted in immediate closing of the banks and "sometimes the government decides it is better to carry such banks along in the hope that the situation will clear up."

Couzens flatly denied the testimony of officers of the closed First National and Guardian National banks that the crash was a surprise to Detroit bankers.

He said that officers, directors, employes and corporations in which directors were interested, were indebted more than $22,000,000 to the First National Bank when it closed.

NEEDLE STRIKE ENDS, UNION RECOGNIZED

Employers of 60,000 Won to NRA by Whalen Plea

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The strike of 60,000 dress workers virtually ended at 1 p. m. today when employers voted with a cheer to adopt collective bargaining agreements.

By this action, sweatshop wages and hours of work were swept out of existence.

It was unionism's greatest victory in the history of the garment industry.

Grover A. Whalen, mediator for the National Recovery Administration, was given full credit for the agreement.

After a conference between labor and employer factions at NRA headquarters, which lasted until 4 o'clock this morning, no one expected him to appear at the meeting of the National Dress Manufacturers Association at noon.

DRAMATIC SCENE

But promptly at noon, Whalen made a dramatic entrance and took over command of the badly handled situation. The association members, numbering about 400 and all of them open shop jobbers who were out of sympathy with the union, seemed unable to reach an agreement.

Whalen made a brief but stinging address, in which he insisted that collective bargaining was the heart of the NRA movement. He cautioned the jobbers that President and Mrs. Roosevelt were watching the dress strike, that the President would invoke the licensing provisions of the National Recovery Act if necessary and that affiliation with unions would be a strong bulwark against communism.

YIELD ON UNIONS

In a tense silence, Alfred W. Lasher, chairman of the association, arose. He said:

"Gentlemen, you have heard Mr. Whalen. Shall we adopt the collective bargaining provision with the union?"

There was a thunderous chorus of "yea" and, to make the matter complete, about 90 per cent of thos present jumped to their feet. The "nays" were drowned out in a second sweeping tumult of applause, and the jobbers, somewhat bewildered by the suddenness with which they had given in on the cardinal point of their fight, shouted in their enthusiasm. Whalen then declared:

"You have done a fine, patriotic job and I congratulate you. We'll all go back to work Monday. The strike is all over but the shouting."

Bricks and Ash Cans Fly In Phila. Strike Disorders

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Bricks and ash cans were thrown through windows of cleaners' and dyers' retail shops, and 11 persons were arrested in minor disorders in strikes of nine industries in Philadelphia yesterday.

While a federal mediator sought to bring about an agreement between operators of cleaning and dyeing establishments and striking employes, five show windows were smashed. Seven women pickets were arrested.

The arrest of three girls and a man, pickets at a handbag manufacturing plant precipitated a city-wide strike of 400 persons employed in this industry.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Secretary Perkins, of the Labor Department, announced last night that through the efforts of the department two strikes in Pennsylvania industries had been ended. An agreement to arbitrate wages took 600 neckwear employes back to their jobs in Philadelphia. The Sun Shipbuilding Corporation gave 200 burners and laborers at its Chester plant a six-cents-an-hour pay raise to end a strike there.

40-Hour Week for Stage Gets Roosevelt's O. K.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—A code of fair competition, aimed at restoring the American theater, was approved yesterday by President Roosevelt for the legitimate stage.

The code, which fixes maximum hours and minimum wages for actors, chorus girls, musicians and other employes, applies to dramatic and musical plays.

Separate codes are to be worked out for motion pictures, vaudeville, burlesque, tent shows and other performing groups.

Actors with more than two years' experience will receive a minimum wage of $50 weekly when the top box-office price is $4.50 or more. The minimum scale ranges down to $40 where the box-office price is $3 and less.

Actors with less than two years' experience will receive a minimum of $25. Members of the chorus will get no less than $30 weekly.

A 40-hour week is fixed for all actors, with the stipulation that this limit shall not be binding during rehearsals.

The code becomes operative August 27.

Minimum wages for musicians, moving picture operators and those "employes asasociated with organizations of or performing the duties of theatrical stage employes," was established at $30 weekly.

Ushers and ticket takers were guaranteed a minimum of 30 cents an hour. Electrical workers, engineers, firemen and other skilled mechanics are to get a minimum of $30 weekly for 40 hours.

Separate wage provisions were contained in the code for stock company actors. These will range from $15 to $40.

Scotland Yard's Girls Make Good as Sleuths

LONDON, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Scotland Yard, with the appointment of the first women detectives in its history, is linking to the French police axiom "Cherchez la femme" (seek the woman), a new one: "Set a woman to catch a woman."

Unmarried, athletic and shrewd, the three new women operatives are as much at home wearing evening gowns at a night club as masquerading in disguises befitting the underworld. This trio, whose ages are between the upper twenties and the lower thirties, are the Misses Burn, Stratton and Ettridge.

Before their appointment, they were given trials in actual cases in which all three were instrumental in obtaining important arrests.

Miss Ettridge, for instance, donned an evening dress, paid visits to a shady night club and single-handed procured information leading to a raid.

The women will be used particularly in the glittering West End, where criminal conditions run a gamut from high society with its attendant "smart crooks" to shoplifting, narcotic smuggling and the operation of such enterprises as white slave traffic with Bohemian resort "fronts."

'POISON PICNIC' LAWYER IN TEARS AT WORD FROM WIFE

RETAINS CALM AS HE VIEWS VICTIMS

Girl Denies Blackmail Charges, Asked Cash Due Colley

International News Service.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 18.—The stony indifference that has characterized the attitude of Mark H. Shank, Akron, (O.), attorney and confessed poisoner of four held here without bond, was broken for the first time today as Shank broke into tears at news from his wife.

Although during a trip to the morgue Shank looked without batting an eyelash upon the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Colley, and their two young sons, whom he has confessed poisoning, Shank broke down during a conversation with an Akron friend in which Mrs. Shank's impending visit here was discussed.

WIFE ON WAY

Shank's wife has wired that she is en route from Akron, accompanied by an attorney to join her husband.

Mrs. Shank is first expected to go to Hot Springs and then come to Little Rock.

Because officers yesterday attempted to throw a blanket of secrecy about Shank's destination following his appearance at Benton, where he waived preliminary hearing and pleaded not guilty, it is probable Mrs. Shank does not yet know that her husband was brought here instead of being returned to Hot Springs.

Although it was first announced that he would be taken to the state penitentiary here for safe keeping, he was finally lodged in the Pulaski County Jail.

GIRL QUESTIONED

AKRON, O., Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Detective Chief Fred Deisz yesterday said Miss Peggy O'Neil appeared voluntarily before him and made an oral statement purporting to clear up blackmail charges made by Mark H. Shank, Akron attorney and accused poisoner of four persons in Arkansas.

Chief Deisz quoted Miss O'Neil as saying the $400 Shank referred to in his confession in Arkansas was money he had promised to Alvin Colley, one of the victims, for stealing documents.

Chief Deisz said Miss O'Neil would not be taken into custody.

"Shank owed Colley the money and Alvin said he would rather go to the penitentiary than see his children starve."

SHANK DUNNED

She asserted, the chief said, that Shank had offered Colley $500 to steal the documentary evidence from the prosecutor's office last May and that Colley accepted the offer. The girl was quoted as saying:

"I telephoned Shank in the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Colley, and told him that if he didn't pay Alvin we would make it hot for him."

Answering Shank's charge that he had given her $10 to "keep quiet," Miss O'Neil was quoted as saying:

"That was not for me, but was for Alvin. Alvin gave me a note to Shank asking for $10 to have his car fixed. I got the money and gave it to Alvin."

Chief Deisz said the woman told him that Shank paid Colley $100 of the $500 in installments of two and three dollars.

Levine, Ocean Flier, Held for Bogus Bill

HOBOKEN, N. J., Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Charles Levine, who made the trans-Atlantic flight with Clarence Chamberlin in 1927, was held in $2,500 bail yesterday for the action of the federal grand jury by United States Commissioner Edward R. Stanton on a charge of attempting to pass a counterfeit $100 bill August 11 at a railroad ticket office in Jersey City.

Levine said he was unaware that the bill was spurious.

Lancaster Nudist Pens Self Threat

LANCASTER, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—County authorities today said Alfred Bennecht, 50-year-old school teacher, whose plan for a nudist colony collapsed, has admitted he penned a note threatening his own life. They also reported the West Cocalico Township School Board has demanded Bennecht's resignation.

DEMAND KELLY QUIT AS MAYOR

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—The income tax revelations involving Mayor Edward J. Kelly evoked a flurry of discussion all over Chicago today.

From some quarters came a demand that the Mayor resign. He has been in office only a few months—having been chosen by the City Council as Mayor to fill out the term of the late Mayor Anton J. Cermak, who was fatally wounded by an assassin's bullet in Miami, Fla.

Certain civic leaders were outspoken in their comments. One alderman suggested Chicago is in need of an investigation of the Seabury type such as was started in New York City and resulted in the resignation of Mayor James J. Walker.

The revelation which has so shocked many Chicagoans was that Mayor Kelly, in May, 1932, was forced to pay the United States government between $105,000 and $110,000 in taxes and penalties on income he failed to report for the years 1926, 1927 and 1928. This was in addition to taxes he paid on the income he first reported for these three years.

Put on the defensive, Mayor Kelly today was preparing to issue a second statement. Yesterday he made public a lengthy explanation of the situation. When this was digested there quickly arose a demand that he "explain the explanation."

CHIROPRACTORS HERE NEXT YEAR

Pittsburgh was selected today for the convention of the National Chiropractic Association next year. It will be held simultaneously with the International Chiropractic Congress, a combined delegation of 2,000 members.

Mark Egan, convention department manager of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, was advised of the selection by Dr. H. C. Long, of Pittsburgh, attending the national session in Denver. He is vice president of the group.

E. W. THOMPSON, AUTO MOTOR MAKER, DIES

Prominent Democrat Was Close Friend Of Taggart

Eugene Woolson Thompson, 67, pioneer in the development of the automobile engine, died today in St. Petersburg, Fla., according to word received by his sons here.

He was formerly vice president of the Model Engine Company, general manager of the Garrison alley plant of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, and superintendent of works of the East Pittsburgh plant.

FRIEND OF TAGGART

Prominent in Ohio and Indiana Democratic circles, he was a close friend of Thomas Taggart, Indiana leader, and the late Vice President Thomas Marshall. President Woodrow Wilson had been his guest during his campaigns through Indiana.

He was a graduate of Ohio State University, specializing in mechanical engineering, and had already done pioneering work on automobile engines before he came to Pittsburgh in 1914 to become vice president of the Model Engine Company. He was also a consulting engineer for International Harvester Company, in developing tractor motors.

LEAVES 5 CHILDREN

Mr. Thompson leaves, besides his widow, Mary Elizabeth Thompson, three sons, Charles Woolson, Eugene Newton and George David Thompson, of Pittsburgh, and two daughters, Mrs. Robert McMonigal, of New York, and Mrs. Louis Arnold, of Peru, Ind.

The body will be returned here for funeral services.

HORSE 'DOPING' INDICTS TEN

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Ten race horse owners, managers, trainers and employes were indicted by the federal grand jury today on charges that they violated narcotic laws in "doping" horses.

Among the principal defendants were A. A. Baroni, described as an owner of race horses; Jack Howard, manager for a stable owned by his wife, and Benjamin Creech, also manager for a stable owned by his wife.

The indictments followed investigations at Chicago race tracks by federal government agents. Three minor defendants in the case have pleaded guilty and were sentenced to penitentiary terms on charges that they violated the Harrison anti-narcotic act by supplying "dope" to owners and trainers.

YOUTH, 16, HELD AS HI-JACKER

Sam Sylok, 16, of Main street, alleged member of a gang of youthful "truck pirates," was arraigned in Morals Court today, after he had been captured in Arsenal Park last night.

Patrolman Joseph Flick, who arrested the youth after a chase, testified he and 20 others had attacked the driver and helper of a truck, bound with merchandise from Pittsburgh to New Jersey, at Fortieth and Davidson streets. The others escaped.

Patrolman Flick said raids on trucks had become frequent in the last few months. Sylok was held over by Magistrate T. D. Jones, until other alleged members of the gang can be rounded up.

Bulgaria Bomb Plot Kills Officer, Hurts 20

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Aug. 18.—(INS.)—A policeman was killed and 20 demonstrators injured today in a clash at Philippopolis which occurred as an aftermath of a bomb attempt on the life of former Premier Zankoff.

Eighty-four persons, including 24 women, were arrested when police raided a Communist organization at Gabrovo.

FOUND BY GIRL, BURGLARS FLEE

Mrs. Mary Gray, 65, of 3423 Liberty avenue, concluded thieves who entered her first-floor apartment early today weren't hungry.

They left untouched three pies—two huckleberry and one apple—fresh baked, on the kitchen table. The only thing missing was an iron.

The prowlers fled when Mrs. Gray's daughter, Mamie, heard them and peered into the hallway. They had entered through a window that had been left open and fled through the kitchen door.

SLAIN DOCTOR'S STENOGRAPHER GRILLED

Pretty Brunette Tells Of Midnight Visit, Boat Ride

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 18.—(AP.)—The pretty young brunette woman held in the Dr. James I. Gaines murder case was revealed by police yesterday as Mrs. Harriette Andrew, his stenographer.

Mrs. Andrew was detained for questioning after it was learned Dr. Gaines, wealthy sportsman and drugless practitioner, spent two hours in her fashionable South Side apartment just before he was shot to death by a mysterious assailant early Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Andrew said Gaines visited her apartment before midnight Monday after returning from a boating trip on Lake Coeur d'Alene, in Idaho, with her 17-year-old sister. He left shortly before 1:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, and was shot as he stepped from his automobile in the driveway of his home.

Detective Capt. James McCarry said he was convinced Mrs. Andrew had no connection with the actual slaying, but he was holding her in the city jail as a "material witness." McCarry also questioned the woman's young sister and then released her.

FASHIONABLE APARTMENT

Mrs. Andrew informed McCarry she met Dr. Gaines three weeks ago when she applied to him for work. Soon after, she said, she rented the fashionable apartment, where Gaines visited her "five or six times a week."

On August 8, Mrs. Andrew filed suit for divorce from John E. Andrew, a railroad man, charging him with being quarrelsome and nagging and with failure to support her. She said she was unaware of her husband's whereabouts, although she saw him here about two weeks ago.

McCarry said Mrs. Lily Gaines, widow of the sportsman, would be questioned soon. Mrs. Gaines found her husband dying after being awakened by the sound of three shots.

SUICIDE NOT A CLUE

Detectives definitely concluded that the suicide of Miss Pauline Pluym, a sister of Cathleen Pluym, Gaines' office girl, had no importance in connection with the slaying. She previously had attempted suicide, relatives told police, and the officers assumed that publicity given her sister in connection with this case partly was responsible for her death.

Her body was found in the home of her brother-in-law, Oliver Humes. Indications were, police said, that she took poison. Neither Pauline nor her sister had been questioned in connection with Gaines' death.

MISSOURI WETS SEE VICTORY

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Despite last-minute efforts to get out the dry vote, Missouri apparently was in step with the 21 states which it will follow in voting for prohibition repeal tomorrow.

Until the last two days, those favoring prohibition have resorted mostly to the courts in fighting their battle against repeal, but today thousands of sample ballots designed to show how to vote the dry cause were distributed, and speech-making gave way to an earlier request to ignore the election.

Wet leaders, from Gov. Guy B. Park on down, were confident, however, that Missouri would become state No. 22 in the repeal column by a decisive although light vote.

Conservative estimates were that the electorate would vote 2½ or 3 to 1 for repeal in selecting delegates to a state convention to be held in Jefferson City, August 29, while rabid anti-prohibitionists leaned toward a 5 to 1 majority.

BOSTON STAGE MAY BAR JESSIE

BOSTON, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Jessie B. Costello, who was acquitted of a charge of murdering her husband by a jury in Salem Tuesday, cannot exhibit her pulchritude before any Boston theater audience until Boston's Board of Censorship has had opportunity to consider the case.

Mayor James M. Curley said yesterday that if Mrs. Costello decides to accept any of the vaudeville contracts offered her the matter must be considered by the Board of Censorship before permission would be given in Boston.

Ten days ago, the city censor, Stanton R. White, announced that Mrs. Costello would not be permitted to appear on a Boston stage.

Mrs. Costello was acquitted of a charge of poisoning her husband, Fire Capt. William J. Costello, who was found dead in a hallway of their Peabody home on February 17.

BOY DIES EATING POKEBERRIES

Foyle Hartline, 12, trooped into the house and proudly handed over to his mother the bucket of elder berries he had picked. Mrs. Hartline was going to "put them up."

Foyle, 12

Yesterday Foyle complained of a pain in the stomach. Today he died in Homestead Hospital. While picking the berries in West Run road woods he had mistakenly eaten a few poisonous pokeberries.

Foyle, who was to enter Woodlawn Senior High School in Munhall next month, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hartline, of 3316 Alberta street, Homestead Park.

JUDGE BLOCKS MARRIAGE TO 'OTHER MAN'

Divorce Refused Wife Of Smithfield Street Clothing Merchant

Refusing to grant a divorce to the wife of a Smithfield street clothing merchant so she could marry "the other man," Judge Elder W. Marshall, in an opinion on file today in Common Pleas Court, says it would be iniquitous for the court to assist her unless her proof of mistreatment by her husband fulfilled all the requirements of the law.

Mrs. Josephine Sachs, now living at 1416 Rockland avenue, Beechview, had petitioned for a divorce from Benjamin D. Sachs, Smithfield street businessman, charging cruelty and indignities.

The couple was married in 1915 in an elopement to Wellsburg, W. Va., and have two daughters, aged 17 and 15.

Judge Marshall cites that Sachs first had a small store in Wylie avenue, and says that Mrs. Sachs' claim that she had to open the store and tend it while he slept, hardly could be called cruelty, because the couple lived over the store. Her charge that he once threw a box at her, and on another occasion a dish, happened so long ago, the Judge said, that it should be disregarded. Then the Judge observes:

"Under the evidence we assume she proposed to marry the other man when both are divorced. We are positive Mrs. Sachs would have uttered no complaint had she not, about 1929, become infatuated with a certain physician. This man, though married, is living apart from his wife. The evidence is persuasive that for the last three years he has bestowed gifts and attentions upon her and has been in her company on many occasions. The doctor's interest in her and in the outcome of her case was so great that he brought her to court in his automobile."

CUBAN STRIKE TRUCE NEAR

International News Service.

HAVANA, Aug. 18.—Possibility of a truce in the harbor workers' strike, which has crippled Cuban commerce for weeks, appeared likely today as military officials co-operated with United States Ambassador Sumner Welles and President Carlos Manuel De Cespedes in seeking solution of the walk-out.

Meanwhile, Cuba's new administration continued entrenching itself in power by removing officials who served under the regime of Gerardo Machado.

Former Police Chief Antonio Ainciart, who gave the order for Havana's machine gun massacre prior to Machado's overthrow, was reported sent to Principe Prison following his arrest yesterday.

Authorities threw a shroud of secrecy over Ainciart's movements, owing to the hatred of the population for him, and reports stated he was sent to the prison disguised as a woman.

Capt. Larrubia, arrested after failing in an attempt to start a revolt against the new government, was confined in Cabanas Fortress.

FASTING GANDHI OFFERED TRUCE

POONA, India, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—As the Mahatma Gandhi entered the third day of his "fast until death," the government of India announced today that it was prepared to liberate him if he abandoned civil disobedience.

The Mahatma began to show signs of weakness, although his voice remained strong. Reports from Yeroda jail, where he is serving one year for his disobedience campaign, were that he had started saving his strength by staying in bed, attended only by his secretary.

A government communique said the administration was satisfied that the facilities allowed the Nationalist leader were ample to enable him to conduct such work in behalf of the untouchables as was reasonable in the circumstances.

At liberty, the statement said, he might devote himself wholly without restriction to the cause of social reform.

Artists Hail Comeback Of Joel's Rialto Haven

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Mellow memories turned to vivid reality today and the creak of hardening arteries sounded along Broadway as old-timers recovered a momentary spryness, speeding to tell each other—

"Joel's is coming back!"

"Joel's," home port of conviviality, haven of the literati and the artist, birthplace of exotic and potent drinks, where "good atmosphere, good food for low prices" was a house rule and where "rubber checks" were as gravely accepted as gold bonds if only they were tendered by a writer or artist.

Confirmation of the impending revival of the most famed literary and artistic haven Times Square ever boasted came from Joel Rinaldo, proprietor of the establishment whose reputation in pre-prohibition days was international.

"Joel's" will reopen "when and if prohibition is repealed," he announced.

It will be the same upstairs resort which gave up the ghost on May 24, 1925, when round-the-towners met the melancholy announcement hung up on its doors:

"Closed: without great financial success, but, I trust, with many good friends. Joel."

It will come back, Joel promised, with all the old time atmosphere and furnishings. The table where O. Henry sat and brooded will be brought out of storage and installed, and chairs, once graced by Mark Twain, George Luks, Booth Tarkington, Edwin Markham and a host of others as noted in literary or art fields, will be dusted off and set out.

Stick to Beer, Sweeney Advises 'Customers'

Beer was urged as a substitute for moonshine today by Police Magistrate John J. Sweeney as a step toward sobriety.

Most persons who come before him charged with drunkenness are consumers of "hooch," he says, only one beer drinker having been arraigned on such a charge in four months.

Sweeney said:

"I find that virtually all of the drunks who come before me got drunk on moonshine and not on beer. In fact I have tested out the subject since beer came back. Since last April I have only had one man before me who said he got drunk on beer, and that was on home brew."

Then the magistrate told of the large number of minors appearing before him, who became intoxicated on "hooch." He added:

"These fellows are usually around 18 to 20. I have told them, as I advise all moonshine drinkers, to drink beer. It will not make them drunk. I find that some of the younger element is beginning to like beer. At first they do not like the bitter taste, but later they change their mind. Moonshine is getting cheap. One man before me this week said he bought a pint for a quarter."

SALE OF STOCK IN WILKINSBURG BANK OVER TOP

The stock sale to open the new First National Bank at Wilkinsburg went "over the top" today, but another hurdle barred the doors.

At a luncheon of depositors in the Penn-Lincoln Hotel Thomas M. Allen, chairman of the organization committee, announced that 4,164 shares of stock had been sold —164 more than the goal. This represents more than $250,000.

But it was learned also that the $104,000 cash which was expected to be transferred from the closed bank may not be available because of a legal ruling. A committee, headed by Joseph T. Miller, plans to confer with government officials in Washington to determine how this new problem may be solved.

The new bank, when opened, hopes to have available 50 per cent of the deposits in the closed First National Bank of Wilkinsburg.

Gordon Reports Bank Plans Progressing

HARRISBURG, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Flanked by growing stacks of condition reports and reorganization plans, Dr. William D. Gordon, secretary of banking, today reported progress in restoring Pennsylvania's restricted banks to full operations.

While continuing his refusal to issue detailed lists of banks whose refinancing proposals have been approved or rejected, the banking secretary revealed he approved the plans submitted by the Lycoming Trust Company of Williamsport, and the Pennsylvania Trust Company of Reading.

The restricted banks, now numbering 71, have been directed by Dr. Gordon to present by the last of this month complete reports showing what steps they have taken to improve their position since the national bank holiday in March.

The department has previously indicated that all institutions which have made sincere and successful efforts to improve their financial condition will be permitted additional time in which to complete negotiations for liquidating frozen assets or obtaining new capital. In cases where such efforts have not been made or have proved futile, the department has intimated the banks will be closed.

ENDS 39-YEAR U. S. CAREER

William M. Ragsdale, 69, district director of the naturalization service in Pittsburgh, will retire tomorrow after 39 years in the government service, 26 years of which he has supervised the induction of new citizens. In point of service he is one of the oldest federal employes in this district.

Mr. Ragsdale has personally supervised the naturalization of nearly 100,000 aliens in the United States Court in Pittsburgh, and many thousands more became citizens in other courts in Western Pennsylvania, Maryland and parts of Ohio and West Virginia, through examinations conducted under him.

His retirement is due to the 30-year limit provision affecting government employes.

He entered the government service June 3, 1894, as a special examiner for the United States Pension Bureau, and continued in that position until June, 1907, when he was transferred to the Naturalization Service, which was reorganized under President Theodore Roosevelt.

Philadelphia Caddy Slain, Hold Master

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—A caddy at the North Hills Country Club, near suburban Glenside, was shot and killed late yesterday. Richard Hoff, acting caddymaster, was held for questioning.

The dead boy is John Cotton, 16, Negro, of Edge Hill. Other caddies said the shooting was accidental. Hoff said he was displaying a newly-purchased pistol.

Pastor Arrests Foe, Then Pays His Fine

LEWISTOWN, Pa., Aug. 18.—(INS.)—The Rev. Francis H. Lishman, pastor of the Primitive Holiness Church, not only preaches "forgiveness" but practices it himself.

Glen Yoder was free today through the kindness of Mr. Lishman who had the man arrested for causing a riot at a meeting of church workers at Milroy. The minister paid Yoder's fine of $7.40.

M'Ardle Advised To Stay in Council

William G. Hohmann, Republican councilmanic candidate, last night in Odd Fellows Hall, said that P. J. McArdle should remain in Council, where he and two colleagues form an anti-administration group, rather than seek the mayoralty. With McArdle in Council, the election of only two more men would be required to take control of that body from the administration.

3-Day Hiccoughs Speed Man's Death

NEWPORT, Wash., Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Three days after he started hiccoughing, E. G. Sherman, 76, a former County Commissioner of Pend Oreille County, died at his home here yesterday. He had been ill several months.

YOUNG POPEYES SOUGHT HERE

If the juvenile Popeyes and Olive Oyls of Pittsburgh come out to Popeye's birthday party all dressed up to fit these popular comic characters, they will have a chance to win attractive prizes.

The Birthday Party is to be held at Kennywood Park next Friday and Old Popeye in person will be one of the judges.

Manager Brady McSwigan, of Kennywood, is working on a program that will keep the youngsters in a happy mood all day.

Only six Popeye coupons from the Sun-Telegraph are needed to obtain a strip of eight free tickets for the rides and attractions. The Pittsburgh Railways Company will sell a special 15-cent round trip pass for the party. A coupon exchange station will be announced in the Sun-Telegraph tomorrow—also places where the street car passes can be purchased.

Popeye says:

"Blow me down! This is going to be a whale of a party."

Knights of Pythias Name Harrisburg

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 18.—(AP.)—A last-minute change of plans makes Harrisburg the choice of Pennsylvania Knights of Pythias and the Pythian Sisterhood for their 1934 convention.

They first chose St. Mary's, then decided it could not handle the conclave. Their meeting closed last night after installation of officers.

Child Badly Injured, Bicyclist Arrested

Struck by a bicycle while playing near his home, late yesterday, Carroll Galluzzo, 3, of 636½ Whittier street, was in a serious condition today in Belvedere Hospital. The cyclist, arrested, said he was August Serrao, 17, of 625 Whittier street.

Isn't Love Grand! Bride in Hospital, Groom in Jail

COLORADO SPRINGS., Colo., Aug. 18.—A bride went to the hospital, the bridegroom to jail and their honeymoon on the rocks here yesterday.

James Holland, married only yesterday, dallied around town on his first night as a Benedict —until 3 o'clock this morning. When he entered his room at a local hotel his bride is said to have greeted him with two shots from a .45 revolver.

Holland retaliated by battering his bride over the head with a heavy earthenware jar and fled, police said.

The woman, with blood streaming from severe head wounds, pursued Holland through the streets, firing at random until her ammunition was exhausted. Then police arrested the pair.

GUARDS ARMED BY DE VALERA

DUBLIN, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—President Eamon De Valera announced today that the government had decided to maintain the new section of the civic guard, which was recruited last week, as a special reserve, fully armed and equipped and provided with rapid transport.

De Valera said the section would be kept ready to cope with a domestic situation he described as insecure.

Free State politics have been complicated recently by a controversy between the government and the blue shirt National Guard organization led by Gen. Eoin O'Duffy.

The President concluded by asserting the hopes of "certain men" that chronic disorder would pave the way to dictatorship would be disappointed. O'Duffy then published a declaration that his organization was non-partisan, unarmed and opposed to dictatorship.

CHILD, 6, KILLED IN COLLISION

Six-year-old Patricia Wilson, of Fairview road, O'Hara Township, was fatally injured when she was struck by an automobile and hurled against a truck at Freeport and Powers Run roads, near her home, last night, the Coroner's office reported.

The driver of the auto, apparently unaware of the accident, did not stop, according to the Coroner's report. Police began a search for him. The victim suffered a fractured skull and died an hour later in Pittsburgh Hospital.

Richard Krause, 4, of 1912 Shamokin street, suffered a possible fracture of the skull and a broken nose when struck by an automobile at Allen avenue and Manten way, last night. He was taken to South Side Hospital.

DRUM FEST WON BY GREENSBURG

The Greensburg drum and bugle corps won first place in the fourth annual tri-state American Legion drum and bugle corps spectacle held last night on the World War Memorial Field at McKeesport. Uniontown and Tarentum units won second and third place, respectively.

Nearly a score of leading corps of the tri-state district took part in the competition, sponsored by Burt Foster Post No. 361, American Legion, of McKeesport.

An athletic performance was presented by the McKeesport Sokol Gymnastic Union under the direction of Miss Betty Molnar.

Thieves Get $1,250 Cargo of Cigarets

A robbery which the police estimated required hours to carry out was executed in downtown Pittsburgh last night. The robbers forced a rear door to the second-floor warehouse of May Drug Company at 600 Liberty avenue. They toted away cigarets valued at $1,250. Presumably they used a truck.

State Official Hurt, Speaks at Dry Meet

HONESDALE, Pa., Aug. 18.—(INS.)—State Secretary of Agriculture John A. McSparran today was recovering from a shaking-up he suffered last night when a reckless driver forced his car into a ditch as he was en route to address a dry rally.

Secretary McSparran incorporated the incident in his speech upholding the Eighteenth Amendment.

If there's anyone in the world who loves to pull a fast one on us, it's Willie! Yesterday he waltzed in. "Think your Hardwater Soap is pretty good, don't you? Telling how nice it smells; costs so little; cleans so quickly; is sold in six odeurs and many colors. But what would you say if I told you that it WON'T soften hard water?
And so saying, he jerked . . . of all things . . . a CAKE OF ICE from his pocket . . . snatched a cake of our Hardwater Soap from the counter . . . and rubbed them together.
"See," he cried! "It's 'hard' water, isnt it? And I defy you to show me any suds!"
"You certainly take the cake," we told him, and then we GAVE it to him . . . right where he deserved it!

2 FACE GRILLING IN COAL MINE SLAYING

Two men arrested shortly before last midnight at Trafford City as suspects in connection with the murder of Frank Joy, 44, Pitcairn electrician, whose battered body was found in a Patton Township coal mine, were to be questioned today by county detectives and Pitcairn police.

The suspects, who gave their names as Tony Moroco, 30, and Joseph Warren, 30, both of Trafford City, were arrested by County Detectives Joseph Bodner, Edward Frank and Police Chief W. E. McDowell, of Pitcairn, and held incommunicado in the Wilmerding Police Station.

LINK BOOTLEG RING

Detectives said they learned both men were friends of Joy, who received warning more than two weeks ago to quit boasting about knowledge he claimed to have of alleged bootleg rings. Joy himself had no connection with racketeering, detectives said.

Detective Frank said that although he had not questioned the suspects, there are factors in their friendship with the dead man that must be explained before officers are assured they have no knowledge of the killing.

FAIL TO TRACE CALL

Belief that the warning received by Joy was issued by a member of an alleged bootleg ring which has controlled operations in the Pitcairn-Wilmerding district was expressed by detectives.

An effort to trace a telephone call for Joy to the home of a neighbor Sunday night proved futile. Sleuths attended the funeral services for Joy at St. Michael's Church, Pitcairn, and the burial at St. John's Cemetery, in the hope of obtaining a clue to the killers from those in attendance.

FACES NEW QUIZ IN PARTY DEATH

Louis Carricato, 35, of Clifton avenue, Sharpsburg, was to be turned over to the Coroner today for questioning in connection with the death of Mrs. Anna Izbrand, 34, in her home, 204 Fifty-fourth street, Wednesday.

Lieut. Frank Ferris, of the homicide squad, said he was convinced the woman died from injuries suffered when she fell from a davenport in her home and struck an ash receiver. A coroner's autopsy disclosed shock, a blood clot on the brain and hemorrhage of the lungs as the cause of death.

Carricato, a friend of Mrs. Izbrand, became involved in a quarrel with her when she returned from her brother's birthday party early Wednesday, the detectives said.

WELFARE RALLY AT WHITE HOUSE

At the invitation of President Roosevelt, 33 national welfare agencies will open their 1933 Mobilization for Human Needs campaign at the White House September 8, according to announcement today by Newton D. Baker, chairman of this year's mobilization.

R. K. Mellon and William P. Witherow, Allegheny County members of the National Citizens Commitee, and John W. Lawrence, chairman of the 1933 Welfare Fund Campaign, and Wilbur F. Maxwell, executive secretary of the fund, will attend the Washington meeting.

The national committee, still in formation, was appointed by Newton D. Baker and John Stewart Bryan, of Richmond, Va., president of Community Chests and Councils, Inc., the agency directing and administering the mobilization. In a statement today, Baker said:

"On the shoulders of each citizen rests the responsibility for co-operating loyally in our country's recovery program, and seeing to it that essential social services are kept intact."

250 French Troops Die in Rebel Fights

CRUISE COVERS WATERS RICH IN HISTORY

Cruise Contest Rules

Here are the easy rules for the Sun-Telegraph "Contest Cruises":

Answer all 20 questions. There will be two questions every day in the daily Sun-Telegraph for 10 days beginning August 10 and closing August 21.

Write a letter of not more than 50 words telling why you need a vacation this summer.

Send answers and letter to the Cruise Contest Editor of the Sun-Telegraph. Four winners will be selected, two for each cruise. Correctness of answers and cleverness of letters will be considered in selecting winners. Judges' decision will be final. No entries will be returned. All entries must be in not later than August 25. Winners will be announced as quickly as possible after that date. In the event of tie, duplicate prizes will be awarded.

The two entrants submitting the most nearly correct sets of answers, accompanied by the most convincing letters, will be awarded 10-day cruises to Florida, all expenses paid. The next two most nearly correct sets of answers accompanied by the most convincing letters will be awarded 7-day cruises to Boston, expenses paid.

Entrants must be over 16 years of age. Employes of the Sun-Telegraph or their families, or employes of radio station WCAE, are not eligible to participate in the "Contest Cruises."

The two winners of the 12-day 2,100-mile Florida cruises offered the readers of the Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with the Merchants and Miners Line, sailing out of Baltimore, will travel over waters made famous by early colonials, pirates, great naval engagements of other days and by adventurers from Spain, France and England.

These delightful cruises await the two readers who most successfully answer the 20 easy questions in this contest and also write a short letter telling why they need a vacation this summer.

The Florida trips are not all. There also will be two cruises to Boston and return, sailing out of Baltimore, and covering seven days with two days in and around Boston. All expenses will be paid, including railway and Pullman fares from Pittsburgh to Baltimore and return. Readers who did not get the early questions may obtain back copies of the Sun-Telegraph at the Circulation Department of this newspaper.

SONG AT TWILIGHT AT SEA

MUSIC ROOM OF SS. CHATHAM . . DELIGHTS OF SEA VOYAGING

After a day on sunny, breeze-swept decks, many gather in the music room of the Florida-bound liner for rest and relaxation. The Chatham will carry prize winners of the Sun-Telegraph-Merchants and Miners "Contest Cruises" on a 2,100-mile voyage from Baltimore to Miami. Two cruises to Boston also are in the prize list. Details of the contest are given in an adjoining column.

Answer These Questions —Win a Vacation Cruise

15—On what river is Jacksonville, Fla.?

16—On what river is Miami?

Two questions pertaining to Boston or Florida will appear in the daily Sun-Telegraph each day for 10 days. Save your answers until all questions have been printed. This coupon is for your convenience only. You may write your answers on a piece of plain paper if you wish. Be sure to read the rules. Questions 17 and 18 will appear in tomorrow's Sun-Telegraph.

VETS' APPEAL BOARD NAMED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Pennsylvania and Delaware war veterans who believe their compensation claims have received inadequate recognition will have the opportunity of appealing to a special board of review.

Gen. Frank T. Hines, veterans' administrator, last night announced the personnel of two boards, one for Eastern Pennsylvania and Delaware, the other for Western Pennsylvania.

The Western Pennsylvania board is composed of Mahlon Mease, Phillipsburg; William E. Hutton, Glassport, and Robert G. Woodside, Pittsburgh, with Gen. Hines' office represented by Dr. Clarence J. Goebel, general medical examiner, and Howell C. Baker, occupational rating specialist.

K. OF C. RENEWS LIQUOR BAN

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Reaffirming their stand on temperance within the order, the Knights of Columbus in their national convention yesterday voted down a motion to lift the ban prohibiting intoxicating liquor at their meetings or in their clubhouses.

Martin Carmody, supreme knight, said:

"The Knights of Columbus have always stood for temperance. The question of prohibition does not affect its stand in any way."

Following a speech by Joseph Scott, of Los Angeles, who once placed Herbert Hoover in nomination for the presidency, officials of the order were instructed to co-operate with bona fide organizations seeking to improve the moral tone of moving pictures. Scott criticized the alleged depiction of vice in the movies.

3 ALLENS HEIRS TO $350,000

International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 18.—The three children of the late Horace Allen, retired manufacturer, including Rose and Eddie, central figures in a murder trial at Norristown, and William, are heirs to an estate of almost $350,000, it has been revealed by procedings in Orphans' Court.

The estate to which they will eventually fall heir is that of their grandfather, Benjamin Allen, a manufacturer, who died in 1899.

His estate was placed in trust for his four children, Kate, Benjamin F., William and Horace. All but Kate and Mrs. Elizabeth B. Allen, widow of William, have died. Kate Allen, who is unmarried, and Mrs. Elizabeth B. Allen, who received her husband's share in the estate at his death, still continue to receive income from the trust.

At their deaths, the principal of the trust fund, will revert to Eddie, Rose—now Mrs. Kenneth Coolbaugh—and William Allen.

Sea Painter Sails Atlantic, Sets Record

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Marin Marie, French painter of sea scenes, claimed a record for a one-man crossing of the Atlantic under sail yesterday on his arrival from Brest in the 36-foot sloop Winniebelle II.

M. Marie covered 2,850 miles in his crossing by way of Madeira, Dominica and Port De France, Martinique. He sailed from Brest May 10.

Boy Maestro Aids Milk and Ice Fund

The Sun-Telegraph Milk and Ice Fund has received a check for $1.02, representing the proceeds of a musical show given in Billy Lebeau's yard in Severn street, Squirrel Hill.

Billy organized and directed the performance, with the assistance of Selma Felder and Winifred Beatty, also of Severn street, before an appreciative and enthusiastic audience of neighbors.

U.S. TO PROTEST NAZI DEMAND FOR SALUTE

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND
Universal Service.

BERLIN, Aug. 18.—Are Americans in Germany compelled to give the Hitlerite "Roman salute?" This question today forced itself upon the American embassy and consulate when the consulate protested to Berlin police against a Nazi "storm trooper's" attack on Dr. Daniel A. Mulvihill, an American physician.

An unidentified "storm trooper" struck Dr. Mulvihill a staggering blow behind the ear when the physician failed to raise his right arm in salute as a Nazi parade swept by.

Owing to the frequency of such cases, the question may soon be put up to the State Department in Washington for an answer.

Dr. Mulvihill is a staff member of the Long Island College Hospital, Brooklyn, and a native of Danbury, Conn. He has been in Berlin two weeks, studying at a charity clinic. He is not a Jew.

He was watching a Nazi parade on Unter den Linden Tuesday night, unaware that the Hitlerites are insisting that every spectator at one of their many parades raise their right hand in the salute made famous by Italian Fascists when the Nazi swastika flags sweep by.

According to his report to police, the physician was examining a new type of horn in the Nazi band when a "storm trooper" on his side of the first line of three Nazis broke ranks, dashed over to him, and hit Dr. Mulvihill a staggering blow behind the ear.

Student Held by Nazis Returns to U. S.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Walter Orloff, American medical student at the University of Griefswald, who was arrested by German police July 1 and held a prisoner until he was released to sail for home, arrived today on the liner Hamburg.

He held to his decision not to discuss the circumstances of his arrest and detention. His brother, Carl, who met him at the pier, said, however that Walter eventually would give his version of the whole affair, but at present he "was all muddled and could not talk."

LUTHER CITES GERMAN UNITY

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Dr. Hans Luther, German Ambassador to the United States, returned from Berlin today with a story of a unified Germany, moving forward to economic recovery.

"Germany is today a unified nation," he told reporters.

"Unemployment is abated. A plan similar to your NRA seems to be working out satisfactorily.

"The Jewish question is being worked out. In the United States that question has not been fully understood, but it was in the nature of a revolution, with the anti-semetic feeling as one part of the general movement to establish elimination of factions and definite unification of the one government, one people idea.

"As to Germany's political and international situation—it is still difficult but the world owes Germany one great debt. Communism is dead. Had Communism not been blocked in Germany, there would have been a serious situation facing the entire world."

HOME AID BONDS BOLSTERED BY PENNA. RULING

A victory for the Roosevelt administration's efforts to aid home owners is seen in the decision of Attorney General William A. Schnader, of Pennsylvania, which greatly improves the standing of the bonds of the Federal Home Owners' Loan Corporation.

Schnader ruled that banks and trust companies, operating without restrictions, may purchase the bonds or accept them in exchange for mortgages.

Building and loan associations, while not authorized to purchase the bonds for investment, may accept them in exchange for mortgages in cases where it appears that to do so will avoid a loss. The same ruling also holds good on building and loan associations operating under liquidating trustees.

PITTSBURGHERS DUBIOUS

Building and loan men here, however, expressed doubt regarding their right to accept the bonds in spite of Schnader's decision.

A. O. Horner, president of the Allegheny County League of Building and Loan Associations, said:

"Until the law is changed, I don't think the building and loan associations here have any right to accept the bonds."

RESTRICTED BANK RULING

Banks operating under restrictions, according to Schnader, may not invest in the bonds with old funds or purchase them with segregated funds unless they are classified as "liquid assets," but they may accept them in exchange for mortgages in cases where they would otherwise suffer a loss.

Banks and trust companies may not purchase the bonds for trust estates without authority from the estates, but may accept them for mortgages in cases where a careful and independent examination convinces them that to do so will save the estate from loss.

SAVINGS BANK POLICY

Savings banks are authorized to purchase the bonds only if their articles of incorporation authorize it. They may accept the bonds for mortgages, however, when it appears that to do so will save a loss.

The Secretary of Banking, as receiver for banks, trust companies, savings banks and private banks, is not authorized to purchase the bonds, but may accept them for mortgages with the approval of the court in cases where he believes it to be to the best interests of the institutions.

RUM SHIP SUNK AFTER CHASE

WILMINGTON, Del., Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Damaged by shell fire from a pursuing Coast Guard cutter, a speedy 50-foot boat, alleged to have been a rum-runner, exploded and sank in Delaware Bay off Bowers Beach, Del., early today.

Three men leaped into the water and were picked up by the cutter. They were taken to Camden, N. J.

Guardsmen said the explosion occurred after a 15-mile chase. Boatswain N. J. Seibert, in command of the cutter, said he pursued the boat at full speed for 10 miles.

While shells whistled around the boat, its crew, Seibert said, hurled cases overboard.

Yacht Grounded, Woman Rescued

NEW CASTLE, Del., Aug. 18.—Hurled overboard when the yacht, Romer III, was grounded on a jetty in the Delaware River two miles from here last night, Mrs. Albert Sears, of Narberth, Pa., was recovering today from the effects of the immersion.

She was rescued by her husband who jumped overboard. Mr. and Mrs. Sears and four other guests were rescued by a man in a rowboat who discovered their plight early this morning.

Upside-Down Flier Recaptures Record

LONG BEACH, Cal., Aug. 18.—(INS.)—Flying upside down for 2 hours and 21 minutes, Milo Burcham, of Long Beach, today had recaptured the world record for inverted flying from Lieut. Tito Falconi, of Italy, who said he would attempt some time this month to regain the championship.

Falconi's record was 2 hours and 9 minutes, which bettered Burcham's previous record of 1 hour 46 minutes.

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

The Greater Sin

SONNY RYAN crushed the newspaper he had been reading and hurled it violently against the wall. He arose from his chair and walked rapidly to the window. His fists clenched and unclenched. His lips were set in a thin line.

"The rat," he breathed aloud. "The dirty, double-crossin' rat!"

It grieves me greatly, gentle reader, to tell you that Mr. Ryan was talking of his wife at that particular point. Surely, he might have been more gentle in his descriptions and certainly he might have been more generous toward the lady who had carried one of his names for several years. He might have been—but he wasn't.

Because he felt that he had genuine reason to be angry. And I, for one, am not going to argue with him. Because Sonny was—and is—one of the very toughest gentlemen it has ever been your pleasure to avoid.

The police in a certain West Side station house are those who will bear out that statement. For years, whenever anything went wrong in that precinct, it was the habit of the boys in blue to pick up Mr. Ryan and ask him what he knew about the crime.

And why, you will ask, should such a gentleman now be pacing his room and referring to the sweet woman as a "rat?"

Sonny has always believed in the little woman. Why, there wasn't a moll in town who wore better clothing or had better imitation jewels. He had married her, and he had been very happy with her.

Many of his friends knew that Mrs. Ryan wasn't as lily white as her husband thought her to be. There wasn't a mug in the neighborhood who wasn't aware of the fact that she and Tony Maginto were giving Sonny Ryan plenty of run-around.

But, as always, the husband was the last one to learn about it. So time had gone by peacefully enough, with Mrs. Ryan leaving her home every now and then to visit her sick mother.

Then, suddenly, came the great shock. Tony Maginto was arrested on a charge of murder—and his alibi was Mrs. Sonny Ryan! He couldn't have committed the murder, he claimed, because he was with Mrs. Ryan on the night that the crime occurred.

All this information was known to Mr. Maginto's attorneys and to Mrs. Ryan—but to no one else. She was to be the surprise witness during the trial; she was to be the instrument by which Tony would be freed.

Several times during the weeks that followed, the lady attempted to tell her husband about it. She wanted to confess her infidelity and throw herself upon his mercy. But she couldn't bring herself to do it.

And now the entire thing was out. The whole story was told completely—smeared over the front page.

"I begged you not to put me on the stand," she had stated to Maginto's attorney, "but now that you've done it, I'm goin' to tell everything.

"It's true that I'm a married woman, and that I was unfaithful to my husband. I was a fool because I know now that I love him better than anythin' else in the world.

"You want to prove that Tony Maginto was my sweetheart. You want to prove that him and me were together plenty of times. Well, it's all true."

Then she had stiffened in her chair. And she had tossed a bombshell into the middle of the courtroom.

"But there's another thing I'm tellin' you right here and now. You put me on this stand, and Tony Maginto is takin' the consequences. On the night that the murder was committed I was not with Tony Maginto. I was home with my own husband, and I'm thankin' God for it.

"I don't know where Tony Maginto was that night, and I can't prove an alibi for him. That's my story, and that's all there is to it."

That was the end of Tony Maginto's case.

Thus, you can possibly appreciate Mr. Ryan's feeling as he paced the room like some caged animal. What would his friends say when they met him now?

Slowly the door opened. And in stepped Mrs. Ryan.

"Sonny," she breathed. "Oh, Sonny."

"You?" he growled. "You had the nerve to come back here after what's happened? Get your clothes and get out. Get out, I say!"

"But, Sonny," she cried, "give me a chance to explain."

"If you don't go," he almost screamed, "I'll kill you. Get your clothes, I say, and beat it. Get out!"

"But, Sonny," she whined, "why won't you give me a chance to explain?"

The man pounded his fists.

"Because," he replied bitterly, "you and I are through. I can't forgive a squealer!" . . . .

Farmers to Decide On One-Way Street

A ballot for farmers to express their desires will be submitted to the wharf truck dealers by the Bureau of Traffic Planning. The proposed driveway extends from Water street at Wood to the Ferry street approach. The farm market is held Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights.

U. S. MAN LAUDS POLICE HERE

The Pittsburgh police department has been commended by J. E. Hoover, director of the Division of Investigation, United States Department of Justice, for co-operation with law enforcement agencies throughout the United States in its fingerprint identification work.

C. D. McKean, in charge of the Pittsburgh office of the Division of Investigation, was instructed by Director Hoover to extend congratulations to the Pittsburgh department on its effective co-operation.

Co-operation of municipal police with his agency, Hoover said, is one of the most effective weapons in the modern warfare against crime, particularly at a time when law enforcers of the nation are joining to combat racketeers, kidnapers and all types of criminals.

NO MORE DANGEROUS DIETS FOR ME

Get Rid of Fat the Welch Way

Welch's Certified-Pure, Pasteurized Grape Juice not only supplies quick energy and nourishment, it satisfies that craving for sweets and rich, fattening foods. When taken in connection with proper diet, it will enable you—if overweight—to get rid of that ugly fat in the safest, most pleasant way you could imagine. A famous food authority says that Welch's should be on every reducing or weight-control diet, to insure healthful reduction.

Today—start on this delightful way to weight-control. Get a bottle of Welch's from your dealer. Drink a glass before breakfast, then during the day as you like, and a glass before retiring. Continue—and in a few days you'll be surprised at the difference.

IMPORTANT: Be sure to insist on Welch's, because it is the Welch Process that retains in the bottled juice the healthful properties of ripe grapes so essential to the system. Only Welch's is Certified Pure and Pasteurized. It contains no adulterants, no synthetic flavors, no artificial coloring, no preservatives, no water. And above all, no tartaric acid crystals. PASTEURIZED PURE!

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair
—With—
Patricia Pitt

Harking ahead a bit to December and swirling snow—brr—Christmas week, always a busy time socially for the gay young things of the school set, this year will find it more madly seething with excitement than ever.

There are no less than nine debuts scheduled for the holiday season, and three will be given on the same day, December 22.

Gretchen Lappe will bow at the Twentieth Century Club at a luncheon. Mary Ormsby Sutton will be introduced at a dinner dance at the Allegheny Country Club that night, and the Pittsburgh Golf Club will be the scene of Peggy Robinson's coming out dance.

Constance Drake's debut-dance is scheduled for December 27, and the place will be the Pittsburgh Golf Club, and the next day at a tea dance in Fox Chapel Golf Club, Mary Gordon will bow.

December Debuts

December 23 is reserved for Marnie Hodge's presentation, at a tea dance, at the Twentieth Century Club, and that evening Margaret Taylor's dinner dance will be given in Fox Chapel Golf Club. Barbara Peirce will bow on December 21 at a tea in her home.

* * *

Mrs. John Russell Munce, of Kinsman road, will give the rehearsal dinner tonight for her niece, Miss Eleanor Hill, daughter of the William F. Hills who'll marry Waldo William Waring, of Colombia, South America, and Noroton, Mass., tomorrow afternoon at 5:30 o'clock in the Hill home.

Rehearsal Dinner

College Club Members Spend Vacations at Lake Erie Resort

It would be quite possible to hold a meeting of the Pittsburgh College Club at Van Buren Point these days, for many of the members have elected to spend the summer at this Lake Erie resort. Miss Marguerite Spilman, executive secretary, is just back from the Point, where she spent a few days.

Mrs. George M. Swan, the president, is there with her family, as are Mrs. H. B. Smith, Mrs. J. A. Neberlang, Mrs. James M. Graham, Jr., Mrs. George Hoffmann, Mrs. George H. Deike and Mrs. H. B. Kirkpatrick and their families, all of whom are occupying cottages there.

Mrs. Frank R. Bailey and her family spent the week-end at the Inn and joined the other Pittsburghers in their various activities, chief of which are horseback riding, swimming and beach partying.

Mrs. H. H. Talbot, social chairman of the College Club, is home from Lake Boulder, Wis., and planning for the president's reception with which the season will open on the first Friday in October.

Incidentally, Mme. Suzanne Karpova is to succeed Miss Helen Bennett as director of the dancing classes at the club this season.

Mrs. J. Charles Runk, district chairman of fine arts for the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women, is to be in charge of the exhibits at the Federation convention, October 9 to 14.

Of especial interest will be the exhibit of the conservation department which is inviting club women to prepare actual size and miniature exhibits of berried shrubs, conservation wreaths, winter bouquets, photographs of roadside beautification, and "breadboard exhibits" of parks and playgrounds.

Mrs. S. D. Pearson, of New Castle, district conservation chairman, is ready to furnish information concerning requirements for the displays.

The convention will be held at the William Penn Hotel, where the entire seventeenth floor has been engaged.

Storers' Garden Scene of Peace Unit Benefit

About 75 persons were present last night in Mrs. Norman W. Storer's lovely garden for the benefit program given under auspices of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom. Under the direction of Miss Gladys Anne Garber, of Greensburg, a group of children gave a pageant, "The Crowning of Peace," and later presented a musical reading "All the World a Home," costumed to represent various nations.

Miss Garber, sauntering about the garden, read appropriate poems, including in her selection Keats' "Ode to a Grecian Urn." Dr. Henry Frank, professor of chemistry in a Chinese-American College, gave his impressions of China, emphasizing the oneness of the human race. Differences are external only, and people allow superficialites to create these differences, he said. A quartet under the direction of Frances Ray Dunlevy, Miss Virginia Ray accompanying at the piano, sang national and folk airs of many nations.

National Junior Lead Of C.D.A. to Be Guest

Miss Elizabeth Casey, of Emerson avenue, Aspinwall, is in charge of reservations for the dinner to be given tomorrow evening in the Roosevelt Hotel in honor of Miss Mazie V. Scanlon, national junior director of the Catholic Daughters of America.

On Sunday Miss Scanlon will be the guest of Court McKeesport at a junior rally to which all officiers, councellors and junior members are invited, in the Knights of Columbus clubhouse. Miss Frances Maher, state regent, also will attend.

Court Allegheny will hold a garden party at Allegheny Council, K. of C. Home, Western avenue, tomorrow afternoon. In case of rain the affair will be held indoors.

A program of sports has been arranged, according to William F. Martray, of Connellsville, general chairman of the picnic. Father Cox is chaplain of the State Department of the V. F. W.

Sight-Saving Classes Urged by State Head Of Work for Blind

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

If there is one thing more than another that Mrs. Clifford C. Taylor is interested in (and she's interested in a surprising number of things) it's sight-saving classes. Mrs. Taylor, as you probably know, is State Federation chairman of work for the blind. She is also program chairman for Dormont New Century Club this year and a particularly interesting speaker on any subject she chooses to expound.

Mrs. Taylor (herself blind) believes sight-saving classes should be established in public and private school systems for the education of children who, because of seriously defective vision, cannot be profitably educated in the regular grades. The two systems of education are different, she points out; for blind children, the chief avenue of approach is tactile while for sighted children, it is visual.

Sight-saving classes are valuable to handicapped children in that they are given educational advantages while their sight is being saved; such classes relieve the grade teacher of the necessity of devoting a disproportionate amount of time to the handicapped children; they relieve the educational system of those "repeaters" who have failed to make their grade because of defective vision, and they are valuable to the state in that they invest in children who will become assets rather than liabilities to the community.

The amount of eye work such children can do is of course, determined by an oculist, but oral instruction is emphasized. Mrs. Taylor says one child in every 500 requires this specialized form of education and that where unsanitary conditions exist the proportion is usually higher. The ideal sight-saving class, she says, numbers only eight or 10. Special equipment such as movable, adjustable seats, desks, tables, and chairs, is, of course, necessary; the work is co-ordinated with the regular grade and children report to their regular grades for recitation.

Mrs. Taylor adds that provisions for special education must be approved by the State Council of Education as to location, constitution and size of classes, conditions of admission and discharge of pupils, equipment, courses of study, methods of instruction and qualifications of teachers.

Hostesses Announced For B. P. W. Swim Party

Miss Agatha Newton, chairman of the recreation committee; Miss Catherine Stitt, Miss Leonora Wirth and Miss Helen Tatzer are to be hostesses for the swim party and corn roast which the Wilkinsburg Business and Professional Women's Club will have on Tuesday evening. It's to be at Chevee Inn, near Hulton.

DEFLATION TAX POLICY BANNED BY HERRON

number which stood on the streets adjacent and listened to the Mayor through an amplifying system. There were no personalities.

OVATION FOR COYNE

Other speakers, however, notably former Senator John S. Weller and Councilman W. Y. English, gave the eager crowd its fill of political invective, for which it hungered, and which it cheered to the echo, a noise augmented by rattles and ratchets which would have been the delight of small boys.

Weller quickly recognized that Senator James J. Coyne has been made one of the chief issues of the campaign by the Mayor's opponents, Councilman P. J. McArdle and Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell. He, as well as Councilman George S. Oliver, praised Coyne for the part he had played in civic affairs.

And the crowd liked it. Coyne, sitting in the audience in a front row, was compelled to rise and acknowledge the cheers, which he did with a beaming smile which was interpreted as a sign that he fully approved the Herron slate, and "couldn't have done better if I had picked it myself," as he admitted at a Fourth Ward meeting last week.

CALLS FOES INGRATES

Weller said:

"Our rival candidates, in heretofore seeking public favor, have not only had the political backing and influence of Senator James J. Coyne, but they went out of their way to solicit it, and it is the basest kind of deceit, to say nothing of ingratitude, for these men to make their former benefactor the subject of debate and discussion in this campaign."

The crowd howled, and howled again when Weller said that either Mackrell or McArdle would be glad of the Coyne support now.

DR. FREDERICK ABSENT

One jarring note only marked the enthusiasm, and it may have passed unnoticed by the crowd, but not by the politicians who look beneath the surface. It was the absence of Dr. F. H. Frederick, "chairman of North Side chairmen," and his failure to send any word of greeting to the meeting.

Frederick had been scheduled to open the meeting. He was not present. That was not surprising, as his health is not good. But the Mayor prior to the meeting had told newspapermen that if Dr. Frederick could not attend he would send a letter indorsing the Mayor, even though he did not approve the Council slate.

There was no letter from Dr. Frederick, and no mention of him except by Senator Morris Einstein, chairman of the Twenty-sixth Ward, who opened the meeting with the observation that he was a poor substitute for the doctor.

COLEMAN GETS SUPPORT

From the meeting emerged the fact that Republican County Chairman William H. Coleman, candidate for Common Pleas Court, is to be backed by the organization. He was introduced by Weller and made a plea for support. He was given an ovation.

Charles G. Lane, sometimes labeled the organization candidate for Juvenile Court, was on the platform, but was not called on to speak.

Col. Samuel D. Foster, county recorder, asked aid for the entire "regular ticket," as did District Attorney Andrew T. Park, who said:

"Any man who, like John Herron, has been in public life for three years while I have been District Attorney, and who has escaped indictment, deserves to be elected."

This was the only reference to the indictments in Federal Court which hang over so many of the Mayor's followers as an outcome of the last general election.

SOME MISS MEETING

What the Mayor said was well rounded economically. It was a business-like speech. But chief interest attached to the political manifestations. And they were worth noting.

Scores of automobiles, bearing ward delegations, could not find parking space near the hall, and were routed by police about the North Side and on home without ever getting near the library, the auditorium of which had filled early. The galleries were jammed, the lobby at the back was packed, the streets were lined, and the tardy motorists were glad to obey the police signals to keep moving.

PARTY LINE DRAWN

Mr. Herron assured his hearers he would abide by the result of the Republican primary, and asked them to do the same. He and the remainder of his ticket stressed the fact they were running in the Republican primary only, and resented the effort of other Republicans to seek Democratic nominations. They demanded party responsibility.

The Mayor said he had kept the door to his office open since he took office, and promised a continuance of that principle. Showing how he and his councilmanic candidates had saved money, he said:

"In 1931, the expenditures were $27,781,752 for the government of the City of Pittsburgh. In 1933, responding to the appeal for relief by the distressed property holders, we appropriated $21,140,355, thus cutting down the cost of government and taxes of the City of Pittsburgh $6,641,397, or about 24 per cent.

"To bring this about, it was necessary that we have the cooperation of the majority of Council. At that time, as president of Council and acting chairman of the Finance Committee, there was never a time that I did not have the full cooperation of the members of Council who are now seeking re-election with me, and without whose aid and assistance failure would have marked our efforts.

"While it is generally recognized that property placed on the market at the present time would not bring a sale price that had previously been obtained for property during the boom period, we did not follow the inflated prices that prevailed between 1925 and 1930 in our assessments, and by the same token, it is not expedient to follow the deflation in values that now exists.

"Each appeal filed with the Board of Assessors will be given careful consideration, and for that reason, it is the purpose of the Board of Assessors to receive appeals for a period of five weeks, between the first week of September until the 7th day of October.

"In previous triennial assessment periods, appeals were heard for a period of three days devoted to the North Side, three days to the South Side and three days to the city proper. In the coming triennial appeal period, appeals from property assessments within the city will be received at any time within the five-week period."

Magee Candidacy Target for English

Though he mentioned no names, the independent councilmanic candidacy of William A. Magee was a target for Councilman W. Y. English, seeking re-election, at a meeting last night in North Side Carnegie Hall. English referred to "political grasshoppers and selfish office seekers" who sought both Republican and Democratic nominations.

English referred specifically to Magee's charge that Council had become merely an adjunct of the Mayor's office, and resented the statement that "most of the important matters connected with the city have been submitted exclusively by the Mayor or outside agencies."

He claimed that Council had been responsible for many improvements, and referred specifically to work done on the South Side. He reviewed his own record in Council and said he had initiated many things which now were appreciated.

Little Appeals to His North Side Neighbors

President of Council Harry A. Little, speaking to his North Side neighbors last night at Carnegie Hall, asked for re-election that he might help Mayor John S. Herron in his administration.

Councilman William A. Soost, Republican city chairman, and vice chairman of the Herron campaign, asked support for the full ticket.

Mrs. A. G. H. Frazier, chairman of the woman's division of the campaign, asked the audience to be "regular."

Sheriff Frank I. Gollmar, seeking nomination, said he had been appointed sheriff by Governor Pinchot, and that conditions now were similar to those obtaining when he took office. He said the Governor had believed he could serve better as sheriff than as a judge of Common Pleas Court, a position he once before had held through the favor of the Governor.

John A. Shrader, of Allison Park, organization candidate for jury commissioner, asked support of the regulars.

Duggan Promises Aid to Public Works

Councilman Frank Duggan, who is a candidate in the primary to succeed himself, last night told a North Side mass meeting in Carnegie Hall that he was associated on a ticket with a group experienced in municipal affairs.

Duggan, recalling his career in public affairs outside of public office, said he felt this experience had qualified him as a councilman. He promised an interest in public works projects which would benefit the community and furnish employment, and declared himself enthusiastic for wharf or riverfront improvement now under consideration.

NOTES ON FALL FABRICS TELL THE TREND OF NEW FASHIONS

JUST AS you have adjusted yourself to the summer heat, you are faced with a new situation. Fall clothes cry out loudly for recognition. To make the thing charmingly inconsistent, the fabrics shown are often downright wintry—with velvets and tweedy woolens most in evidence. This, with a hot August sun overhead!

* * *

CONSIDER IT a stimulant to snap you out of your summer lethargy — for that's what it amounts to. Realize you're an important factor in determining the future lives of the fall clothes—for it will be your reception that decides their success. After all, many of the new things are merely cautious trends waiting for your approval. And there is much to approve.

* * *

THE FABRICS, first of all, bear watching. It is interesting to note the many clever tendencies as they work their way to permanence. You will find that the principal novelties are in velvet-checked, striped and ribbed. Sometimes in two-tone effects, gotten by a narrow rib on a lighter foundation, or simply by weaving the velvet two ways. Plaid and printed velvet are used for accessories, sports skirts and evening dresses. Taffetas stand a good chance this year, too.

* * *

FAILLES AND bengalines, enjoying a tremendous revival after their success a number of years back, are important in the fall fabric story. Here's hoping they won't die a quick death. Nothing kills a fashion sooner than too much popularity. Until such a catastrophe happens, be sure to wear something in faille or bengaline.

* * *

YOU MIGHT look around for the good-looking gown we saw of ribbed taffeta—highly significant because of its much-touted Victorian influence. This one has a newer adaptation—a pleated dust ruffle under its hem—in case you're bored with the usual 1900 throw-backs.

* * *

REMEMBER THIS! Most important for later fall and winter wear will be fabrics with a touch of metal. Anything that gleams with gold or silver—shot through in little lines or dashes, or small geometric designs—will be good for evening and formal daytime trimming touches.

* * *

THE EMPHASIS on tweeds is significant. We've had this hardy perennial with us from year to year, but this season it is conspicuous by its prominence, and magnificent in bluish purples, raspberry reds and taupe browns.

* * *

SHEER WOOLENS in jewel and stone tones are increasingly fashionable. Both dresses sketched need to be seen to be appreciated, since aside from their newer modified shoulders, their colors are most important. One, of amethyst woolen, with a large flower ornament of exactly matching amethyst, is something lovely enough to write home about. The other, in deep emerald green, faithfully copies the rich tones of the precious jewel. In woolen it is lustrous and distinctly new. Notice the new elbow length sleeves. Many designers are using these on formal afternoon dresss.

OLIVER PRAISES CITY ECONOMY

George S. Oliver, candidate for a Republican councilmanic nomination, and chairman of the Committee on Public Works, last night reviewed for an audience in North Side Carnegie Hall the work of a councilman. The Public Works Department, he said, stripped to the bone through budget cuts, is engaged in roadway projects for which it is hoped to obtain money from the federal government.

Daniels and Calles Advocate Unity

CUERNAVACA, Mexico, Aug. 18.—(Universal.)—United States Ambassador Daniels and former President Calles of Mexico have agreed Pan-American solidarity is the biggest question facing the forthcoming Congress at Montevideo.

SCORES CITY'S 'TRADUCERS'

Clifford B. Connelley, member of City Council, asking for renomination and re-election on the ticket with Mayor John S. Herron, denounced "traducers of the city" in a North Side speech last night. He struck at "masqueraders" in the guise of political independence.

It would be false economy, he said, under the pretext of economy, to cut out the cultural assets of the city which make for contentment and happiness. Public parks, playgrounds and swimming pools must not be sacrificed in balancing the budget, he said.

TRI-STATE PARLEY TO SPEED FLOOD CONTROL

POLITICS

G. O. P. Organization Sees Defections as Aid

By MARK SHIELDS

Mr. Shields

Republican organization leaders are making no effort to stop the expected registration drift from the Republican to the Democratic party. With canny political foresight they prophesy that the defections will not be prejudicial to their cause.

Those who leave the Republican party, in all probability, will be voters who held party responsibility lightly. They voted independently in general elections, and in primaries, more often than not, voted against the candidates indorsed by the organization.

How pronounced this drift to the Democratic party in Pittsburgh and the third-class cities will not be determined until a final compilation of the registration, the Saturday before primary day. However, some indication will be furnished by the first day's enrollment, August 31, in the third-class cities, and September 7 in Pittsburgh.

* * *

Indicated Democrat Strength Unprecedented

If the story of the registration is the same as revealed in the enrollment in the boroughs and townships the Democratic primary strength will go to a high level unprecedented in recent political history in Allegheny County.

Organization leaders believe they will hold most of their strength, a disciplined unit in the party, no matter to what faction it may be attached. The city administration is particularly confident of such an outcome. Therefore, they claim, their vote will stand hitched, through the usual organization control. The loss will come to the independent or anti-administration candidates.

That, at least is the story organization leaders are telling, and the sincerity of their belief is borne out by the fact that they are making no attempt to stop the slide.

Odd, in view of these opinions Among Republicans, organization and independent, both the regular and opposition groups in the Democratic party are urging Republicans to come within their party fold for the primary.

* * *

Newcomers Voters Opposing 'Organization'

If the reasoning of the Republicans is accurate, then it would seem that the regular Democrats would have no assured gains through an increased registration. The newcomers will be men and women who opposed "organization" leadership in the old party, a sentiment they might reasonably be expected to bring with them to their new camp.

That, it would appear, would favor John Henry, the anti-organization candidate for the Democratic mayoralty nomination, rather than William N. McNair, the aspirant backed by David L. Lawrence, Joseph F. Guffey and others who have been prominent and active in Democratic organization councils.

However, the Lawrence-Guffey wing of the party is not adopting any such conclusion. It, as well as the independents, is pressing for a big registration. It is significant that John M. Huston, when he bolted the Republican party this week to become a Democratic councilmanic candidate on the same ticket with McNair, asked his friends—mainly among independent Republicans—to register as Democrats.

* * *

New Members Drawn By Party Accomplishments

The reasoning of the Democrats is that newcomers to their party will be making the shift principally because of the accomplishments of the Democratic administration at Washington, led by President Roosevelt. The Lawrence people say they can more surely capitalize this sentiment because of their work for the President prior to the last Democratic convention. In their fold they have the Roosevelt delegates to the convention, the Democratic legislators and the Democratic congressmen.

Despite this, Mr. Henry and his associates claim to be quite as loyal to the President.

From any standpoint, it insures a tidy fight in the Democratic primary. It means a campaign, rather than the usual preconceived Democratic result, a certain organization victory because of the small party registration. The Democratic winner will know he has been in a fight.

* * *

Democrat Nominations Coveted By G. O. P.'s

A number of men practically familiar with politics, men who now hold or who have held public office, and thus have made successful campaigns, are seeking the Democratic nomination, though they never before did so. Some of them, recognized as long-time Republicans, are planning to make an even more intensive campaign for the Democratic nomination than for the Republican place.

This applies particularly to some candidates for City Council.

It is significant that in the filings for the five places to be filled in Council there were many more names listed in the Democratic party than in the Republican party.

At least one Council Candidate, a Republican who has won previous campaigns, in the drawing yesterday for positions on the ballot in the primary, was quite as much interested in the position he drew on the Democratic ballot as on the Republican. A precedent for that is difficult to find.

OLD CONESTOGA WAGON HERE FOR FAIR

13 Buildings Erected For County's 'Expo' In South Park

Allegheny County Fair, which will be held in South Park August 31, September 1, 2 and 4, is now taking on an air of completion.

County Commissioner C. C. McGovern announced today he had invited the giant dirigible U. S. S. Macon to fly over the fair.

Hundreds of workers are putting the finishing touches on 13 large buildings which will be filled with displays of Allegheny County products and will house the county's agricultural and live stock exhibits. Many large commercial concerns also will exhibit.

Twenty-five thousand seats are now being erected along the half-mile race track and athletic field. A large field to accommodate 10,000 automobiles for free parking is being leveled off.

OLD CONESTOGA WAGON

Yesterday there arrived from Shenandoah Valley, Va., an old Conestoga wagon, said to be more than 125 years old. It contains the white oak tongue, the original currycomb box and a handbrake on the rear of the wagon. Other curios which have arrived are sleighs used 100 years ago and an old-time hominy mixer.

Although the county's first fair will last only four days, the buildings are constructed for permanent use.

More than 100 chandeliers taken from the Old City Hall, Smithfield street, are being repaired and gilted. They will be used in all of the exhibition buildings. Lamp posts in the fair grounds were brought in from Schenley Park. Thirty-six-inch conduit pipes were transferred from the County Airport. Steel frames are from the old County Poor Home and stones used were hauled from Parkview, near the County Workhouse.

FREE TO PUBLIC

Besides the agricultural and live stock exhibits, the fair program will include a society horse show, dog show, wild life exhibit, poultry show, home economics display, flower show, draft horse show, boxing bouts, rodeo, polo games, drills by the National Guard and other military organizations, drum and bugle corps competition and aerial stunts.

And it will all be free to the public.

Snowballs Out; Blue Eagle Eggs Are Our Dish Now

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

ATLANTIC CITY, Aug. 18.—Most important job of the Blue Eagle is to see that everybody gets an egg next winter.

Mr. Roosevelt assures us that the day of the well-cooked snowball is over. There will be no starvation or suffering. There will be no evictions and the curbstone will no longer be the children's nursery.

That's the best news we have heard since Jesse James hung the picture on the wall. The government is going to barbecue a million hogs. We have enough wheat to stuff all the sofa pillows in the world. Every man will have a job and a pair of red mittens.

The next step is to make a man stay where he belongs. While we want to feed everybody you cannot expect a waiter to chase a hitch-hiker up a mountain to get his order. It's the floating population that sinks.

Don't hitch-hike this winter. The figures prove that your feet wear out before your thumbs.

Staley Raps Growth Of Court Expense

Austin L. Vote Phantoms Trailed To 'Speaks,' Garages

In support of his charges that old line political organizations were making a drive in all parts of the city to pad the poll tax assessment books with phantoms, Leo A. Riordan, chief county investigator, today stated that on one street alone his investigators checked 13 names and found that only four could be placed on the books.

Riordan charges ward political leaders are attempting to pad the lists by having their followers make affidavits, giving their residences as warehouses, garages and speakeasies.

Riordan also pointed out that he had found the following in his investigations in the Sixth Ward:

One who gave his address as 3300 Penn avenue—which is a vacant lot.

Another said he lived at the Marine Hospital—not a legitimate address, according to Riordan.

Others gave 2710 Spring way as residence. It is an empty house, he said. Still others, he said, gave as residences—3379 Bigelow boulevard, and there is no such address; 3317 Bigelow, a warehouse; 3319 Bigelow, a storeroom; 3054 Baulawna street, a garage; 106 Thirty-ninth street, a factory; 3304 Charlotte street, no such number.

Many others, he said, gave fictitious addresses on Harding street and Mulberry way.

FIRE EXCITES CRASH CROWD

There was excitement aplenty at Federal and North Canal streets early today.

There was an automobile collision causing injury to one man. Then a taxicab drew up belching great clouds of smoke, causing a panicky resident to sound an alarm of fire.

The injured man, Ralph Gentile, 32, of 1401 Colwell street, a passenger of Harry Fellheimer, 30, of 1324 Gibbon street, was treated at Presbyterian Hospital. Occupants of the other auto, John Burd, 20, of 124 Dinsmore avenue, and Frank Cerac, of Hamilton road, Crafton, uninjured, were arrested on charges of violating the automobile laws.

Court 'Humaneness' Stressed By Evans

Assistant United States Attorney Raymond D. Evans, speaking yesterday in behalf of his candidacy for judge of Common Pleas Court before a meeting of Duquesne women voters and clubwomen, said a program of "humaneness in the courts" with adequate probationary efforts for first and youthful offenders is necessary to stamp out crime.

Mr. Evans also addressed the Paulson Foster Post, American Legion, of Carnegie, the United American War Veterans at Westinghouse High School, and another meeting of veterans at Park Place School.

VOTE OFFICIALS NAMED

Howard, majority inspector, First District, Harmar Township.

HERRON SEEKS CONCERTED ACTION

Asks 100 Towns to Join Drive to Get U. S. Funds for Project

Planning concerted action to impress the NRA Public Works Division of the necessity for immediate consideration of the huge Pittsburgh district flood control and navigation project, Mayor John S. Herron has called a tri-state conference here next Wednesday.

Mayors and burgesses of nearly 100 municipalities in the upper Ohio, Monongahela and Allegheny valleys have received invitations. Adoption of the $58,000,000 project would provide employment for 46,000 men for one year, the Mayor cited in invitations sent to the various cities.

Gov. Pinchot also has been invited to attend the conference. Others receiving invitations include Secretary Lewis E. Staley, of the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters; Joseph C. Trees, chairman of the NRA Pennsylvania Public Works Advisory Board, and George S. Davison, president of the Flood Commission of Pittsburgh.

CITES BENEFITS

Outlining the comprehensive system of storage reservoirs in the local watersheds, Mayor Herron pointed out its benefits in an address last night in North Side Carnegie Hall. He said:

"It is designed to reduce the hazards from floods, to improve navigation and to better the condition of domestic and industrial water supplies in periods of low water.

"Application for the adoption of this vast project by the federal government has been duly made with the proper authorities in Washington by the Flood Commission of Pittsburgh. As this is properly a national project, the money for it, if constructed, will be forthcoming out of the Federal Treasury, and not out of the pockets of local taxpayers in the region comprised within the project."

'IMMENSE PROJECT'

Mayor Herron pointed out the immensity of the project with:

"The scope and benefits of the project are immense and will be of untold permanent value to a vast population inhabiting the valleys of the principal rivers in Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and northern West Virginia. The very comprehensive plans which have been the study and concern of the Flood Commission of Pittsburgh over a long and trying period of years indicate that the project, in a degree, is comparable with the Tennessee Valley authority, already under way by the Federal Government. If adopted, it will give to this Northern region some of the benefits already about to be extended to our Southern neighbors in the Appalachian range."

The investment would be of such nature as to extend economic benefits down to the workingman.

JOBS FOR THOUSANDS

The Mayor cited:

"The Flood Commission project involves the expenditure of approximately $58,000,000. It is estimated to give direct and indirect employment at the rate of 46,000 men for the period of one year. It would furnish a large market for vast quantities of local regional products, such as steel, sand, gravel, cement, lumber, tools and construction machinery."

Three states would benefit from the project, explained the Mayor, pointing out the need of co-operation. He said:

"The time has come, in my judgment, for the great region in the three states which will benefit directly by the installation of these works, to take concerted action towards that end. I feel it is my duty to our citizens and my obligation to citizens for the surrounding territory to inaugurate such concerted action as shall make a deep impression upon the authorities in Washington."

Wharf Project Urgent, Herron Tells Trees

The improvement of Pittsburgh's downtown wharves is declared to be the most important public improvement now needed by the city, in a letter by Mayor John S. Herron to J. C. Trees, of the State Board of Federal Public Works Administration.

Application is made for $4,778,862 in federal funds. The project, it is declared, would require the employment of an average of 1,897 men over a period of 16 months. At the peak of construction, 3,378 men would be required.

The application, also signed by Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang, points out that the project will serve the double purpose of improving downtown traffic arteries and bettering the wharves for navigation interests.

On the Allegheny River waterfront, the improvement would extend from Eleventh street to Barbeau street. It would include an elevated boulevard for traffic and the regrading and paving of the lower wharf.

At the Point, a traffic circle with grade separations and ramps would allow free flow of traffic.

On the Monongahela River front, the belt boulevard would be built from Liberty avenue to Grant street, and a new ramp constructed near the Baltimore and Ohio freight station to connect the roadway with the Liberty bridge.

The wharves will be improved for navigation by cutting them to a flatter slope and paving them with concrete. The project has been approved by the City Planning Commission as well as a number of business and civic organizations.

Sufficient plans are available for an immediate start on the wharves. The only property required in addition to that held by the city is some ground occupied by a portion of the Pennsylvania Railroad freight house near the Point and some Baltimore and Ohio Railroad land near the freight house at Grant and Water streets.

CATHOLIC MEET OPENS, 300 TO TAKE PART

With a meeting of the Committee on Catholic Action this afternoon the seventeenth annual convention of the Catholic Central Verein opened in the Fort Pitt Hotel. The committee will define a program for more than 300 delegates expected.

The National Catholic Women's Union convening jointly with the Verein will begin registration of delegates at 4 p. m. tomorrow. A mission room opened today, including an exhibit of vestments and altar cloths.

BUSINESS STARTS SUNDAY

General business meetings for both groups do not open until Sunday. They will continue through Wednesday in the hotel. All religious services will be in St. Augustine's Church. Thirty-seventh and Butler streets.

Frank Stifter is Pittsburgh's convention chairman. Willibrand Eibner of Ulm, Minn., is national president of the Verein, and Mrs. Frank Bey is in charge of the Mission Room.

PLAN MASS MEETING

Highlights on the program as scheduled now include a mass meeting in North Side Carnegie Library Hall Sunday night at 8, high mass in honor of the Holy Ghost in St. Augustine's Church Monday morning at 8 and a sightseeing trip to the home for the aged maintained by the Knights of St. George near Wellsburg, W. Va.

Three Parks to Have Sunday Talkies

Free talking pictures will be shown Sunday evening in Schenley, East and McKinley Parks. In Schenley Park the feature picture will be "Guilty Or Not Guilty," with Betty Compson and Claudia Dell in the leading roles. The East Park feature will be "Klondike," with Thelma Todd and Lyle Talbott. "Self Defense," starring Pauline Frederick will be on view in McKinley Park. Short films are also billed.

Masonic Veterans To Hold Outing

The annual corn roast and picnic of the Association of Masonic Veterans of Western Pennsylvania will be held at Daniel's Paradise Gardens, Babcock boulevard, tomorrow. There will be an afternoon of sports and music with prizes offered. O. G. Ferguson, R. W. Thompson and J. Milton Ryall make up the committee.

The final step in the thrift gardeners' efforts to assure themselves of a plentiful food supply. The Pittsburgh Community Council is now conducting a campaign for jars.

JARS FOR FOOD CANNERS ASKED

The campaign for jars for thrift gardeners, who are unable to buy containers, has been started by the Pittsburgh Community Council.

Last year over 36,000 quarts of goods were canned from Thrift Gardens. This year, with twice as many gardens planted and more favorable climatic conditions, this figure should more than double itself, council workers say.

Those who can provide jars are asked to get in touch with the headquarters of the Community Council of Pittsburgh and Allegheny County in the Wabash Building.

Cyclops, One-Eyed Frog, Is Pet of East End Child

Should the children EAT IT?

PARENTS, particularly mothers, are paying a lot of attention to children's diet these days. For it is far more economical and pleasant to keep a child well by feeding him correctly than by nursing and doctoring him back to health.

Of course, in case of doubt the doctor should be consulted regarding what a child should eat and what he should not eat. But do you realize that the leading manufacturers of food now seek the advice and approval of the leading nutritional authorities in the country relative to the claims they make for their products in their advertising?

In other words, food advertisements are reliable sources of information regarding diet. They are based upon the results of the latest approved scientific discoveries about vitamins, minerals and roughage, in relation to vigorous bodies, clear complexions, sound teeth and properly regulated systems.

So read these advertisements carefully. Consult your doctor about them. Very often the advertiser invites you to do this because he has asked authorities, whom your doctor respects, about statements made in those advertisements.

OFFICIALS SHIFT POLLS OF 11 DISTRICTS

Six polling places in Pittsburgh and five outside have been changed by the County Commissioners, the Department of Elections has announced. Five of the six city changes were caused by sale of beer in the places formerly used for voting.

The polling place of the Fifteenth District, Eleventh Ward, was changed from a garage at 6029 Rodman street to storeroom at 403 Sheridan avenue. The Seventh District, Twenty-third Ward, was changed from 507 Chestnut street to 408 Chestnut street.

The Third District, Tenth Ward, was changed from 5139 Holmes street to 5206 Duncan street. The Third District, Twenty-third Ward, was changed from building at James and Foreland street to Latimer Junior High School.

The Fourth District, Twenty-third Ward, was shifted from 1203 East street to 1114 East street, and the Fifth District, Seventeenth Ward, from 1119 Bingham street to 30½ South Eleventh street.

The Fifth District, Second Ward, Clairton, was changed from 312 Mitchell avenue to 640 Third street. The First District of Robinson Township, changed from Speelman's barbecue, Campbell's Run road, to a garage on same property.

The First District, Oakdale, moved from the borough building to school house, Hastings avenue, and the Second District, Third Ward, North Braddock, moved from store at 708 Fourth street to store room at 807 Fourth street.

In Dormont the Fifth District polling place was changed from Hillsdale School gymnasium to playroom in same building.

APOLOGY ASKED FROM MAYOR

Charging Mayor John S. Herron with attempting to make political capital out of the efforts to obtain needed improvements, a new resolution by the Sixteenth Ward Improvement Association was made public today by its president, E. J. Holland. It said:

"The Sixteenth Ward Improvement Association resents the attitude of the Mayor in trying to make political propaganda out of the attempts to secure proper recognition of the 'forgotten district.'

"We feel that the Mayor owes the Sixteenth Ward Improvement Association a public apology in view of the fact that we have only asked for a report from the Director of Public Works as to how the taxpayers' money is being spent."

LEAVES BOARD AFTER 17 YEARS

Howard M. Johnson has resigned as treasurer of the Board of School Directors of Mt. Lebanon Township, a post he held 17 years. Elwood A. Berry has been named to succeed Mr. Johnson as treasurer while his board membership has been filled by the appointment of James W. McKelvie.

While Mr. Johnson was on the board, Mt. Lebanon schools grew from an enrollment of 380 to more than 3,000 while property valuation has increased from $3,708,350 to $27,000,000.

Mr. McKelvie has announced his candidacy to succeed himself at the fall election. Mrs. C. W. Kenney, secretary of the board, whose term expires this year, has announced her candidacy for reelection.

Trainmen Support Musmanno for Bench

The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen of Pennsylvania has indorsed the candidacy of Judge M. A. Musmanno for Court of Common Pleas.

G. B Rowand, chairman and legal representative of the State Legislative Board of the Brotherhood, issued a statement in which Musmanno's record as a member of the Legislature is reviewed and declared to be 100 per cent for labor.

Attorney Lindsay To Address Meeting

Attorney Alexander P. Lindsay, candidate for Judge of Common Pleas Court, will address a meeting of Republican workers of the Seventeenth Ward in the Birmingham Turner Hall, Jane street, tonight. Lindsay has been given the indorsement of the Rankin social and political group according to an announcement by the executive committee. The organization is composed of 700 members.

A FLAG FOR NORTH PARK'S FOREST ARMY

CAPT. JAMES O. CORBETT COL. C. C. M'GOVERN CAPT. LOUIS A. WITNEY

Presentation of the national colors to the Civilian Conservation Corps encampment in North Park, Wildwood, formaly named Camp McGovern last night in honor of the chairman of the Board of County Commissioners. Capt. Corbett is presenting the flag in behalf of the 99th Division, Officers' Reserve Corps, and Capt. Witney, commandant, is accepting it in behalf of the camp, while Commissioner McGovern looks on. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

Minor Candidates Balk War on Campaign Signs

Daughter's Posters Only Worry Faced By M'Nair

Most of the hundreds of candidates for office asked to halt defacing the highways and city and county with posters have complied, according to H. A. Nomer, chairman of the Civic Club's campaign against the defacement. Some, including candidates for alderman and minor offices, are continuing the poster-pasting, he announced.

A letter notifying Alderman Thomas Flanigan that his workers had put up posters was sent yesterday. Letters pledging co-operation in the drive, which have come in during the past week, were made public today.

M'GOVERN BANS PRACTICE

County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern wrote that he had ordered county Departments of Highways, Bridges and Tunnels to prevent such posting and predicted county structures would be kept free "regardless whose literature it may be."

William H. McNair, Democratic candidate for mayor, wrote that the only one posting his signs was his 9-year-old daughter, and he added:

"My daughter insists on painting signs and putting them on telephone poles. If you can stop her—all right. But I hate to interfere with her enthusiasm."

President Judge Thomas P. Trimble, of Orphans' Court, wrote that he hadn't any posters or election cards, and didn't have when he was a candidate 10 years ago, and didn't intend to have, adding:

"I hope to be able to live without advertising."

CANDIDATES GIVE PLEDGES

Judge H. H. Rowand, of Common Pleas Court, and William H. Coleman, candidate for the same court, pledged aid in preventing such posting, as did Judge Frank H. Piekarski and other judges of the County Court. Candidates John Paul Baker, Joseph A. Burns, James F. Malone, C. C. Campbell, John W. Patterson, Walter R. Demmler, F. Scott Slagle, W. D. Grimes and Mrs. Anna Winner were others to write pledges.

Miss H. Marie Dermitt, secretary of the Civic Club, announced that all information from candidates intended for the Voters' Information Guide should be in by next Tuesday. The guide will be ready August 28, she said.

Federal Drys Seize McKees Rocks Still

A 500-gallon still was reported seized by agents of the new Federal division of investigation in a raid late yesterday at 209 Chartiers avenue, McKees Rocks. The raiders reported the arrest of Richard Munn.

CAMP NAMED FOR M'GOVERN

The flag, a presentation of the Reserve Officers' Association of Pittsburgh, was given the camp last night by Capt. James O. Corbett, of the 99th Division. Capt. Louis A. Witney, commander of the camp, received the flag.

He told the 181 young men in the forest camp and the 100 or more guests attending the exercises:

"I have enjoyed every bit of my work with the camp. If this is a fair example of the manhood of Allegheny County, it certainly has something to be proud of."

The camp was formally named Camp McGovern at the same time, in honor of Col. Charles C. McGovern, chairman of the County Commissioners. McGovern, speaking, limited his remarks to the county fair to be held at South Park, saying:

"I want you all to come to the fair. It's going to be the greatest old-fashioned fair that's been held in this generation."

M'ARDLE TALK IN 31ST WARD

Councilman P. J. McArdle, candidate for the Republican mayoralty nomination, will speak in Mifflin School, Thirty-first Ward, tonight at 8 o'clock. The meeting will be under the auspices of the Thirty-first Ward Civic and Welfare Association.

Speaking with McArdle will be Howard B. McNutt, Robert Waddell, Charles Wolff and Edward O. Tabor, candidates for City Council.

William A. Magee, slated by the Citizens League for Council, will not attend the meeting, pursuant to his announced plan of not participating in the mayoralty campaign.

Lack of Food Adds To Jamaica Distress

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Lack of water and other supplies formed a distressing aftermath today to a storm which Wednesday caused 130 deaths and widespread property damage. Gov. Sir Ransford Slater sponsored the raising of a $500,000 relief fund to care for 50,000 suffering inhabitants.

Council Candidate Opens Headquarters

With the opening of headquarters at 6117 Broad street, John D. Nuskay, independent Republican candidate for Council, today announced the appointment of Attorney A. H. Rosenberg as campaign manager. Downtown headquarters will be maintained at 624 Grant Building.

Mr. Nuskay

Attorney Rosenberg announced the appointment of district chairman as follows: Henry Weber, Oakland and Shadyside; William Cullen, Carrick, Knoxville, Mt. Washington and South Side; Leo A. Neugebauer, North Side, and Harry Johnson, West End and Sheraden.

Uniontown Youth Drowns in Lake

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Diving from a boat in Gorley's Lake last night, William Rice, 21, an automobile mechanic, suffered a heart attack or an attack of cramps and drowned. Two lifeguards recovered the body 20 minutes later.

BRADDOCK FEUD IN ELECTION

Opening the campaign in Braddock's political battle, expected to test the long-standing power of Michael J. Verosky, Police Lieut. Edward McDonough resigned from the Braddock force yesterday.

A candidate for council, McDonough is recognized as leader of the Verosky opposition. With him, George Mehalick (no relation to the police chief of this name), Mike Sversy, Ted Davis, Joseph Piutka and Carl Edstrom will run for council against the organization.

Five Verosky councilmen up for re-election, are: Albert P. Shedlock, a County detective; Joseph F. Styk, V. C. Kolski, Dr. I. C. Harris and J. L. Sheekey. An organization man, R. Limbacher, will run for the seat now occupied by James W. Milligan, not a candidate. Verosky is not up for reelection.

Fred Seims, former police chief under Verosky, will run against Burgess J. H. Rose. John Whitfield opposes the organization tax collector, T. L. Howard.

RUM CONTROL DEFEATED BY HARSH LAW

This is the third and concluding article of a series dealing with liquor control in Canada, in connection with its bearing in the United States when repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment removes legal obstacles to the sale of intoxicating beverages. These articles were prepared for Universal Service by Arthur Kent, a former associate of the Canadian Social Hygiene Council.

By ARTHUR KENT

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 18.—Does government control of liquor really put the bootlegger out of business? Does it curb drinking? When prohibition is banished from the United States and 120,000,000 Americans are living under liquor control systems, what tests can they use to tell, quickly, whether these systems are good or bad? Canadian leaders say:

"When a system of government control is too strict, we found that it encourages bootlegging, just as prohibition fosters bootlegging. And of course when it isn't strict enough it does not curb drinking."

Futhermore, Canada has found, reasonably enough, that the best test of a liquor law is how well the people obey it. If it's well obeyed, it's a good law. If not, it is out of harmony with the people who live under it and therefore a bad law.

LAW INFRACTIONS

For example, in 1930 there were about 9,000 infractions of Ontario's liquor control laws while during that same year there were only about 3,000 infractions of Quebec's.

Therefore thinking Canadians generally conclude that Quebec's law is better than Ontario's and while there is no important agitation for a change in Quebec's law, there is a very strong and growing demand for a modification of Ontario's, to permit the sale of beer and wine by the glass.

What is there in the Quebec system that enables the people of that province to keep the law so much better than do Ontario people? Moderate wets and moderate drys alike in both provinces are coming to agree that it is Quebec's liberal beer-by-the-glass policy which, coupled with reasonably strict restraint of hard liquor, is teaching Quebec how to drink decently, not drunkenly.

In their handling of hard liquor, Ontario and Quebec are about equally strict. True, an Ontarioan has to have a permit to buy any alcoholic drink, and a Quebec citizen does not. On the other hand, however, an Ontarioan may buy many bottles of liquor at one purchase while a Quebecer may buy but one. So it is really in their regulations of the sale of beer and wine—Ontario so strict and Quebec so liberal—in which the two provinces differ so materially.

ONTARIO BOOTLEGGERS

Hence, when we find, as we do, that Ontario has thousands of petty after-hours bootleggers, and thousands of disorganized but revenue-sapping, homebrew-serving blind pigs we must conclude that it is because Ontario's strictness forces purchasers to go to illegal vendors.

And when we find Quebec comparatively free from those petty law-breakers, we must conclude that it is because Quebec's liberal treatment of light beverages is not only turning its citizens from hard stuff to wine and beers, but is also helping to drive the bootlegger out of business.

For you can get a drink of good strong beer in Quebec at any reasonable hour, and in any part of the province that is not under local option. So why go to a bootlegger? While in Ontario, which has about one retail outlet for beer to 10 in Quebec, the hours and places at which you can get a drink of beer are very sharply restricted.

In brief, then, the general opinion of unbiased Canadians is this:

That the best liquor system is one which turns drinkers' habits from liquor to beer, by making beer cheap and strong and easy to get while keeping liquor higher in price and making it harder to get.

Old Law Bars Sale Of Beer, Milk Drink

WESTMONT, N. J., Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Sell beer in Haddon Township? Horrors! Even malted milk shakes and grape juice are unlawful.

This, in effect, was the report to the township committee of Mark Marritz, its solicitor, when asked if the township could license the sale of beer. He found that a referendum would be necessary to repeal a local option ordinance of 1873 which bars every kind of malt, vinous or spiritous beverage.

Asparagus Recommended As Appetite Stimulant

Noted Health Authority Urges Inclusion of This Succulent Vegetable in the Healthful Diet

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator From New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

If the members of your family have lagging appetites and lack enthusiasm about their food, they need a stimulant or tonic. I can think of no better appetizer than asparagus. Include this vegetable in your menu and I feel sure the delicate flavor and succulent taste of asparagus will prove beneficial.

For many centuries asparagus has been used as an herb. The early Egyptians and Romans believed that asparagus healed the tired heart and prevented many ailments. Though asparagus is no longer considered a "cure all," it is generally accepted as a valuable and important part of the diet.

Asparagus is easily cultivated. It can be raised in any well-drained, fertile soil. Abundant sunshine and temperate climate are necessary for its growth. A bed of asparagus once started and given proper care will produce stalks for 15 to 20 years.

The vegetable contains many important and necessary substances. It has important mineral salts, vitamins and cellulose. Because of its mineral salts and alkaline reaction, it is of value in preventing any tendency towards acidity.

"White" and "green" are the two principal varieties of asparagus. The green kind has a tall, thin stalk, all of which can be eaten. In the white variety, the tender portion consists of about five inches of the stalk.

Some prefer white asparagus and others prefer the green variety. It is usually a question of locality. In New England and the southern part of the United States the green variety is more popular. In the West and Northwest the white is used more often.

When you purchase asparagus be sure it is fresh. The stalk should be straight and the tips pressed close together. Asparagus should be kept in a cool place until cooked.

Young, tender asparagus only requires washing before it is cooked. Old asparagus should be cleaned of scales, peeled and scraped, and the tough ends removed. Tie the asparagus together and place in a deep kettle of salted, boiling water. Be sure that the tips are above the water when cooking.

I am often asked whether asparagus has a bad effect on the kidneys. This question is usually asked because, after asparagus is eaten, a sulphur product is liberated in the intestines during digestion. It is later excreted through the kidneys.

For this reason asparagus is not advised in the diet of sufferers from kidney trouble. For healthy persons, however, it is one of the best of vegetables.

"COUNTRY CLUB" affixed to an especially intriguing salad sandwich or cold plate, seems to give the dish an added Summer appeal.

It must be a man's dish, however, to carry off the Country Club idea, not a tearoom type. Perhaps sophistication in flavor is the determining element.

Here are a number of sandwiches that could be termed a Country Club assortment.

* * *

HAM AND EGG DOUBLE DECKER SANDWICHES — ½ cup minced boiled or baked ham. Mayonnaise. 4 hard cooked eggs. 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Salt and pepper to taste. Bread.

Add enough mayonnaise to the minced ham to make it spread easily. To chopped eggs add Worcestershire sauce and seasonings. Cut three slices of rye bread for each sandwich. Butter and spread one slice with ham. Cover with another slice, buttered, spread with egg mixture, lay on a crisp leaf of lettuce and top with the last slice of buttered bread. Cut sandwiches in halves. When white bread is desired a large sandwich loaf, which makes eight whole slice sandwiches will cut into sixteen hales. If you have veal roast on hand, use that to replace the ham. In either case you will have a Country Club sandwich that makes the family ask for another sandwich meal.

* * *

HAM AND RADISH SANDWICHES—Slice the contents of a seven-ounce can of ham loaf thin, or slice cold baked or boiled ham into 18 narrow slices. Lay them on narrow slices of buttered bread cut to fit. Cover with thin slices of radish. Dust lightly with salt, and top with another piece of buttered bread.

* * *

TOASTED CORNED BEEF SANDWICHES—Slice corned beef thin and place on slices of buttered bread, wholewheat. Spread with prepared mustard and cover with another piece of buttered bread. Toast and cut in oblongs. This makes 6 to 8 whole slice sandwiches which will cut into from 12 to 16 halves, or a large number of narrow oblongs.

* * *

CORNED BEEF AND CELERY SANDWICHES—Chop enough corned beef to make one cup. Add ½ cup finely chopped celery and ⅓ cup chili sauce and spread between slices of buttered wholewheat bread. Add a leaf of lettuce and slices of crisp cucumber. This makes 10 to 12 whole slice sandwiches which cut into from 20 to 24 halves.

SANDWICH—Spread squares of buttered toast with deviled ham. Sprinkle thickly with grated cheese and place under a broiler flame until the cheese is melted and browned. Serve at once.

* * *

HAM AND TOMATO SANDWICH—Spread bread with butter and then spread ½ the slices with deviled ham. Top each with a slice of ripe tomato and cover with leaf or lettuce spread with mayonnaise. Cover with rest of the slices of buttered bread and cut as desired. This makes from 4 to 6 whole slice sandwiches. This sandwich may be grilled after the tomato is added and the last assembling omitted.

* * *

DEVILED HAM AND CRESS PINWHEELS—Cut crusts from all sides and ends of a long sandwich loaf. Cut in thin slices lengthwise of the loaf. Spread with softened butter in which has been added a few drops of lemon juice and a little chopped watercress. Then spread with deviled ham made very soft with mayonnaise. Roll up tightly and wrap in a damp cloth. Chill for some time, then cut int thin slices which will be circular in shape.

* * *

TROPICAL SANDWICH—Spread thinly sliced and buttered white bread with peanut butter. On one slice spread drained, crushed pineapple, and on the other sprinkle moist cocoanut. Put the two together and cut in small sandwiches.

* * *

PINEAPPLE JAM SANDWICHES—Mash 1 package cream cheese, add 2 tablespoons drained, crushed pineapple and 1 tablespoon blackberry or black current jam. Spread between thin buttered slices of Boston brown bread. This makes from four to six whole slice sandwiches. Cut in small, fancy shapes.

* * *

COUNTRY CLUB SALAD—Cut cold baked ham and cooked veal into small dice and add an equal amount of diced celery and 2 tablespoons broken walnut meats. Moisten with mayonnaise to which 1 teaspoon sugar has been added, and 1 tablespoon soy sauce one-half hour before serving. Chill thoroughly and serve in beds of lettuce, garnished with slices of ripe olives and sections of tomato. This salad served crisp and generously makes a splendid Sunday supper main course.

What Would You Do If You Became Burden to Family?

Here is one of the bravest and most beautiful stories that has ever come into this column.

It is the story of a tragedy, and of how one fine woman, stricken helpless after a lifetime of devoted mother-service, met that tragedy.

What would you do if such a fate befell you?

Would you let your children sacrifice themselves for you—accept that sacrifice as payment for all you had done—darken their young happiness with the shadow of creeping death?

Or would you do what this Great Mother did?

Her son tells the story reverently, gratefully, through loving tears. Tells it to Ann, who came in agony, wondering whether she should balk her own beloved mother's desire to go to a home for the blind, and so set her daughter free.

Dear Ann:

Let your mother go, if she wants to. It won't be any reflection on your love for her. She will be happier. I can tell you from experience, too, that it will be better for both of you.

HOME LIFE HAPPY

I am sitting here a little lonesome, but with the feeling that not only I, but my brothers and my sisters, have done all we could to make a very dear mother happy. This sweet person left us just six weeks ago, leaving us with many sweet memories.

I am the baby of a family of six—five boys and one girl. My father died when I was only nine. My mother didn't let this get the best of her. She just rolled up her sleeves, found something to do to keep us together, and held on to her small income. Our home life was very happy.

One by one my sister and brothers left to make homes of their own, but I, being the baby, still had a few years to go before stepping out for myself. Mother and I were happy, and the home was the meeting place of all my friends, my sister, my brothers and the grandchildren and in-laws. They all loved to visit.

Then, just when things seemed the happiest and brightest, Mother had a stroke which rendered her helpless. The family nearly went insane. We were going to devote our lives to repaying her for her devotion to us. After about nine weeks, she became stronger, but knew she would have to have someone do everything for her, even to feeding her. She knew too, that she would never walk again.

Then the shock came. She insisted — positively insisted — on going to a place where invalids were taken care of. We all felt that this was terrible, but Mother was firm.

So the family each gave something each month, which was added to her own income of $35 a month, and for 27 months Mother was happy and contented, in a place where she was surrounded by love and kindness that we had not, ourselves, the time to give her.

We arranged things overselves so that every day Mother saw one of us, and over week-ends we would wrap her in blankets, put her in the car and give her a little ride.

What I want to bring out is this: If Mother had not held to her point, the hardship of taking care of her would have fallen on some one member of the family. The result would have been weariness, discontent, a desire to be free and able to be among people again.

GIVES ADVICE

As it is, we all have the happiest memories. The brothers, sister and in-laws are all the best of friends, ready to help each other. And she was happy, too, feeling that she was not a burden to any one.

Now, Ann, Listen to your Mother. Let her go. See that your sister and brothers don't forget her, but go to visit her as often as they possibly can—And she will be happy, and you will all be happy, too, because you'll all have a fair chance.

You will be showing more real love for her by doing that, instead of devoting every hour to being with her—and getting crabby and feeling overburdened. DONALD.

Doesn't this world seem better, after reading that? Aren't you prouder of your human race? If it doesn't, and you aren't—there's something wrong.

Fay King Questions 'Gad About' Mother's Value

By FAY KING.

The woman whose mind and heart are solely centered upon her home and children is not apt to be appreciated in these days of activity.

She is contrasted unfavorably with those other wives and mothers who manage careers as well and go flying about the country.

We seem to forget that all the great men and women who are now occupying the spotlight in world affairs are still the children of old-fashioned mothers.

It will be some time before we can judge the activities of children raised by these modern gad-about mothers. Even so, we now point to a number of successful career women who have not raised their children to adult age. And to a few of their children who have set poor examples already.

Given in Marriage

A Sequel to Heart Of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Philip Veritzen Is Accused by Lillian

As I said that the story of King Georges of Trees visiting Paris was a distinct factor in upsetting both Noel and Mary, in connection with the sojourn in Paris planned for Mary, Philip Veritzen sprang to his feet and began to pace up and down the room with all the grace and impressiveness which I had been told characterized his portrayals of roles, when he was a "star," before he became the greatest theatrical producer of his time.

He had given an exhibition of iron composure. Now, if I were not mistaken, he was about to give a temperamental impersonation of a maligned and suffering benefactor. And something deep within me cried out that one portrayal was as false, albeit as good theater, as the other.

VERITZEN OBJECTS

"I suppose," he said at last, stopping and looking at me accusingly, "that they believe I planned this trip of Mary's purposely to coincide with the sojourn of King Georges in Paris."

"Well, didn't you?"

For a panic-stricken second, I thought that I had spoken aloud the thought that was in my mind. Then I realized that it was Lillian who had uttered the words. Lillian, who, with head thrown back, was regarding him through cynically mirthful, half-closed eyes.

Mr. Veritzen whirled and faced her. "Lillian," he said hoarsely, "don't goad me too far. I will take almost anything from you, but this—this monstrous accusation is too much."

But Lillian was undaunted by either his words or his manner. She continued to regard him with amused eyes and presently snapped her fingers as if trying to attract the attention of a canary.

"Come off your perch, Phil," she said. "You can't keep up that pose before Madge and me, although you may get by with it with the kids. I don't believe they consider it as more than a disastrous coincidence. They are young and credulous, you know, and you'll probably be able to convince them that you'd planned Mary's trip over there out of the goodness of your heart, and that the story of Georges' visit incognito to the French metropolis came afterward.

"But I know you as if I'd strung you on wires and put you together; and I know you haven't yet given up that crazy dream of yours to marry Noel to Olina."

She rose and went over to him and put her hands affectionately upon his shoulders, ignoring the fury in the gaze he bent upon her.

PRAISED BY LILLIAN

"Dear old boy," she said in a tone unbelievably soft, after the blistering one she had used but a second or two before, "why do you thresh about this way, as if you were a horse refusing to be taken from a burning building? You are so darned lovable, so generous, so normally high-minded that it just sinks those of us who love and admire you to have you go completely haywire on this particular subject.

"I thought this was all settled, washed up completely, when you gave Madge those promises last Christmas. You've kept one of 'em—that about giving Noel his mother's money—and so far you've gone ahead with Mary's training without any hitch. But as for the marriage question, you made a magnificent gesture giving Madge the sole control of the time of their marriage, and then you proceeded to try your darndest to wean Noel away from Mary by throwing him with that unspeakable little beast of an Avis Arlen."

Mr. Veritzen gave an angry exclamation and tried to sheer away from her grasp, but Lillian's hands were so tightly clasped upon his shoulders that without roughness he could not get away.

"You—you are making a preposterous accusation," he said thickly.

"Oh, no, I'm not, darling," Lillian retorted, "and you know it better than anyone else. You know very well, and so does everyone else, 'the stuff you pulled when you were on that trip with the little chimpanzee and her mother last summer, and what you tried to do when you had them down on Long Island as your guests this summer. Until you became convinced of the utter undesirability of the girl, you tried in every possible way to get Noel interested in her, so that he would forget Mary.

"And now that you find the marriage of Olina and Georges has been postponed, you're all set to try to throw Mary in Georges' way again in the hope that you can put a wedge into the affair that way and split it wide open. But don't you see, can't you see, Phil, what you're doing to Mary, if you throw her into Georges' company over in Paris?"

She stopped and looked steadily into his wrathful eyes with her still brilliant ones, and with amazement I saw him wriggle ever so slightly, much as a confused child might have done.

"You will pardon me, I hope," he said, with his customary grandiloquence, "but I haven't the slightest notion of what you mean."

"I hope you haven't, Phil," she said gravely. Then, looking at him steadily, she added, "I know you haven't realized the full enormity of the thing. But don't you see that the friendship of Georges and Mary over here in America was one thing, when Georges was willing to renounce everything for love of her—even to live over here, if necessary. But now he is King of Trees visiting in Paris, the most suspicious, the most hard-boiled city in the world. What price a little American girl's reputation over there, if Georges paid her even the slightest attention? Don't tell me you can't see what that would mean to Mary, Phil!"

Hints for the Household

Grape stains will vanish from enamel and white paint if you wash them with baking soda.

When mixing batter, put a pinch of salt to the floor before it is wet; this will prevent lumps

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

The Lightner Slam Lead Convention

Mr. Theodore A. Lightner is conceded by all who know him to be one of the greatest analysts among Bridge players. He has contributed a great deal to the theoretical and practical developments of the Culbertson or Approach-Forcing System of bidding. Among other contributions of his to the game is the name "One Over One" as applied to a suit response of one to partner's Opening bid.

Recently expert players have been turning their attention more and more to the proposition of the play of the hand as distinguished from the bidding. Mr. Lightner has developed for use against Slam bids what is known as the "Lightner Slam Lead Convention." This convention provides that when a player bids a suit and subsequently doubles an opponent's Slam contract, his partner must not open the suit bid by the Doubler. The reason for this is obvious: if opponents, after an Opening adverse bid, have reached a Slam contract, they are prepared to have the suit originally bid opened and, in fact, the opening of that suit may be the determining factor in the success of the contract.

One of the hands played in the recent international match in London, where America and Great Britain contested for the possession of the Charles M. Schwab Trophy, gave a splendid opportunity for the use of this convention. The hand was:

East, Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.

	♠ A K Q 10 7 6 4 2 ♡ — ◇ 6 ♣ A Q 9 4
Mrs. Culbertson ♠ 9 8 5 ♡ A 10 8 7 6 5 2 ◇ A 7 2 ♣ —	West North East South	Mr. Culbertson ♠ J ♡ 4 3 ◇ K 10 9 8 5 ♣ J 10 6 5 3
	♠ 3 ♡ K Q J 9 ◇ Q J 4 3 ♣ K 8 7 2

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	1 ♡	2 ♡
Pass	3 N T	Pass	6 ♠
Pass	Pass	Double	Pass
Pass	Pass

My bid of one heart was a mild type of psychic. The distribution and the fact that our opponents were vulnerable were the determining factors in the making of the bid. Col. Beasley's bid of two hearts obviously was a Slam invitation, and Sir Guy Domville's bid of three notrump made certain that our opponents would play the hand for six.

FREE BRIDGE BOOKLET

Readers of this newspaper may have a free copy of "Bridge Rules and Etiquette," by Josephine Culbertson, through special arrangement. Address Mrs. Culbertson in care of this newspaper, INCLOSING A 3-CENT STAMPED, SELF-ADDRESSED ENVELOPE.

My husband was in the lead when I doubled and, of course, I hoped that he would choose as his Opening lead the suit of which I was void. Unfortunately we had forgotten to announce to our opponents that we were using the Lightner Slam Lead convention, and so Ely felt compelled to make the ordinary, accepted lead of a heart. In consequence, the Slam was, of course, made. Had we announced the convention, my husband would have led a club, which I would have ruffed, returning the Ace of diamonds for the setting trick.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Both sides vulnerable.
The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Pass

You, South, hold:

♠ A K J 9 5 ♡ A J 9 ◇ 8 ♣ A Q J 4

What do you bid?

Answer—Four clubs. This is a very strong bid and is a definite Slam try. Since a three-club bid by you would be inferentially Forcing, a four-club bid—an unnecessary Jump—tells your partner that if he has a good two-spade bid he is to take some positive action rather than just bid four spades. If you bid only three clubs and your partner bids three spades, as is expected, you cannot be content to just bid four, as your hand is too good. In this instance you will have to bid five spades and play the hand there if your partner passes, and conceivably go down one trick. The four-club bid gives you Slam try immediately and at the same time enables you to play the hand at four if partner merely responds with four spades. If he responds with anything else, you, of course, will either immediately contract for a Small Slam or use the Four-Five Notrump Convention.

DON'T TRIFLE WITH COMMON CONSTIPATION

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Brings Relief

Constipation gets its grip on a person almost unawares. It often starts with such little things. Headaches. Listlessness. Bad complexion. Unpleasant breath. If unchecked, it may seriously impair your health.

Fortunately, you can avoid this danger by eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides two things needed to overcome common constipation: "bulk" and vitamin B. ALL-BRAN is also a rich source of iron for the blood.

Biological tests demonstrate that the "bulk" in bran is similar to that in leafy vegetables. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears out the intestinal wastes.

How much better than taking unpleasant patent medicines. Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. Serious cases, with every meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Formal Wedding Invitation

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—What is the courtesy required when invited to a very formal church wedding when you cannot attend and when you are not acquainted with the bride or her parents, but are a friend of long standing of the groom's parents? Is a reply expected?

2—Is a gift expected?

READER.

1—A wedding invitation to the church only does not require an answer. Of course, if the invitation is to the reception or to the wedding breakfast or luncheon or supper, it must be answered in the formal, third person manner. The difference is that in one case the hosts do not necessarily have to know how many guests to provide for, and in the case of the reception or breakfast, places must be arranged for.

2—Not necessarily. A wedding gift is sent only when one wishes to send one.

Mourning Attire

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Kindly advise me whether or not it is just as proper to wear all white for mourning as it is to wear all black? MRS. B.

Yes, all-white is as deep mourning as all-black. And what a pleasant and kind regulation this is. For it means that white may be worn in summer, and many women, too, wear it in the house at other seasons, too.

PRUDENCE PENNY'S RECIPES

in gelatin. Cool. When beginning to set, fold in stiffly beaten egg whites and whipped cream. Pour mixture into cookie-lined pie plate and sprinkle with nuts. Chill and serve. Makes one 8-inch pie.

* * *

PRINCETON CUP—1 cup cream, 1 teaspoon powdered sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup diced oranges, 15 chocolate snaps coarsely crumbled.

Beat cream, add sugar and flavoring. Chill. Fold in oranges and crumbled chocolate snaps. Serve in individual glasses, garnished with section of orange. 6 portions.

* * *

MAPLE NUT CHARLOTTE—1 cup cream, 4 tablespoons crushed maple sugar (or 4 tablespoons powdered sugar), ¼ teaspoon maple flavoring, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 1 egg white, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 14 butter cookies.

Whip cream until stiff, and add maple sugar, or powdered sugar and maple flavoring. Add salt, stiffly beaten egg white and vanilla. Fold in all but 3 tablespoons of crumbled Priscilla cookies. Fill parfait glasses with mixture and sprinkle with remaining crumbled cookies. 6 portions.

* * *

MINUTE CURRIED VEAL—1½ pounds stewing veal, cooked; 3 tablespoons butter or cooking fat, 1½ cups finely chopped cooking apples, 1 onion, minced; 1 to 1½ teaspoons curry powder, salt and pepper, 3 cups veal stock; 30 butter crackers, ¼ cup cream (optional), paprika.

Brown veal in butter, add onion and apple, and cook gently for 3 minutes. Add seasoning, stock, and crumbled crackers, and continue cooking 3-5 minutes. Add cream, if desired, and serve hot sprinkled with paprika. 8 portions.

* * *

DEVILED HALIBUT—14 soda crackers, crumbled fine; 2 cups cooked, flaked halibut, ¼ cup chopped celery, 1 teaspoon chopped parsley, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, ¼ cup catsup, salt and pepper, 1½ cups milk, 2 tablespoons butter.

Reserve ¼ cup cracker crumbs for topping. Mix balance of crumbs with all ingredients except butter. Put mixture in buttered baking dish, sprinkle with crumbs, dot with butter, and bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) 20 minutes. 6 portions.

* * *

HUNGARIAN STYLE ASPARAGUS—3 tablespoons butter, 15 crackers, 1 No. 2 can of asparagus, salt and pepper, ½ cup sour cream.

Melt butter in frying pan and lightly brown finely crumbled crackers. Put drained asparagus in a greased baking dish, season and cover with cracker crumbs. Pour cream over all. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) until browned, about 15-20 minutes. 6 portions.

* * *

CORN MUFFINS — 1¼ cups flour, ½ cup cornmeal, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 2 tablespoons sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 egg, 1 cup milk, 2 tablespoons melted butter.

Sift dry ingredients together three times. Add slightly beaten egg to the milk and butter. Stir quickly into the dry ingredients. Pour instantly into well greased muffin tins. Bake in 425 degree oven until done about 20 to 25 minutes, depending on size of muffin.

* * *

FRUIT SALAD — Lettuce, 2 peaches, halved, 2 well-flavored apples, 1 cup cocoanut, 2 tablespoons lemon juice or orange juice, ½ cup mayonnaise, 2 tablespoons grated orange rind.

Place halved fresh peaches on crisp lettuce on salad plates. Cut unpeeled red apples julienne style, mound over the peach half. Sprinkle with cocoanut generously. Top with the mayonnaise thinned with orange or lemon juice and to which the grated orange rind has been added. Serve immediately.

* * *

SAUERBRATEN — 5 pounds chuck or beef from the round, 4 or 5 onions, salt and pepper to taste, 1 teaspoon mixed spices, vinegar, 12 prunes or 4 or 5 gingersnaps.

Place meat, onions, salt and pepper and spices in a dish, cover with white vinegar and cover tightly. Let stand about 12 hours. Then turn meat and let stand another 12 hours. Heat skillet, grease well, and after drying meat well dipped in flour and brown on both sides. Brown onions. Heat vinegar and spices. Add a little water and add all to meat and simmer slowly until done, adding prunes or gingersnaps for flavoring. When done, take out meat, strain gravy and thicken with flour. Add a little sugar to taste.

* * *

LOBSTER SALAD—1½ cups diced lobster meat, ½ cup diced celery, vinegar, mayonnaise, lettuce.

Remove the meat from fresh boiled lobster, chilled. Reserve the creamy or green fat together with the coral. If there are eggs on the tailfins save them also. Cut the meat not too small and sprinkle over it a very little vinegar. Mix very crisp celery and lobster together and enough mayonnaise to moisten and flavor the whole. Arrange the salad on the center of a bed of crisp white lettuce, bordered with green lettuce leaves laid under outer edges. Pour on remainder of the mayonnaise and sprinkle over it the coral, well pounded and if liked, the eggs and a few capers. Garnish with the claws. Sometimes lettuce leaves are arranged on a platter in cup-like clusters of two or three each, and the salad is divided equally among the clusters.

* * *

SPANISH PRUNE CREAM—1 cup stoned and stewed prunes, 1 cup boiling juice of prunes, ½ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, 1 cup whipping cream, 1 package grape flavored gelatine.

Dissolve the gelatine in boiling prune juice, add sugar, cinnamon. Push prunes through sieve or potato ricer. Add to gelatine mixture, beating thoroughly. When thick as molasses, fold in the stiffly beaten cream. Chill until firm. Pile in sherbet glasses. Serves eight.

* * *

BROWN BETTY—2 cups finely chopped apples, 2 cups seedless raisins, 2 cups soft bread crumbs, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 cup brown sugar, ½ teaspoon nutmeg.

Butter a baking dish. Put in a layer of apples, cover with layer of raisins, sprinkle with sugar, then a layer of bread crumbs. Dot with butter and sprinkling of nutmeg. Repeat until all materials are used, having the last layer crumbs and sugar and dotted with butter. Cover and bake in hot oven till apples are done. Uncover and brown. Serve with cream or hard sauce. Serves 8 persons.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Facts About Trench Mouth

Not long ago I told you about a certain disorder called "canker sores." Since then many inquiries have come to me concerning another disease of the mouth called "trench mouth," which should not be confused with canker sores. The cause of canker sores is not known, but trench mouth can be traced to an infection by a known germ.

Dr. Copeland

The medical name for this disease is "Vincent's Angina," and it was first described in 1883 by an American dentist. At that time little attention was paid to the disease. It was not until the World War, when it was found to be especially common among the allied troops engaged in trench warfare, that the disease was recognized as a serious ailment.

When the gums are healthy and free from infection and pus, they are strong and resistant to pressure. Individuals who suffer from trench mouth complain of swollen gums which are spongy and bleed upon the slightest pressure. When the teeth are brushed the sufferer complains of tenderness and pain. As a rule, the breath has an offensive odor and there is a bad taste in the mouth.

Trench mouth may be so serious as to disturb the general health of the individual. I know of persons who suffered from this disorder for many months but never suspected that the real trouble was in the mouth. In severe cases, constitutional disorders, weakness, fatigue, headache, loss of appetite, the marked mental depression are additional symptoms of trench mouth. Occasionally the sufferer may run a high fever and have profuse bleeding from the mouth.

Bear in mind that the disease is highly contagious and easily transmitted from one individual to another. The sufferer should take the necessary hygienic measures to prevent spread of the infection. He should use a separate towel, tableware and glassware and avoid contact with other members of the family. Kissing is prohibited.

The disease should be treated by a physician as well as a dentist. In some cases it is necessary to inject certain medicines into a vein of the arm. This treatment can only be given by the physician. The dentist will apply certain antiseptics to the infected areas, and after the infection has been cured, he will fill all cavities, remove dead teeth and repair or complete the bridgework. Neglect of this dental care will lead to the repeated attacks of trench mouth.

I cannot overemphasize the importance of periodic visits to the physician and dentist. Do not wait for some definite disturbance of health before you get advice. At regular intervals submit to a complete examination. Bear in mind that regular inspection of your teeth will prevent unnecessary dental decay, insure the health of your mouth, and protect you from such serious disorders as trench mouth.

COMEDY, DRAMA, MUSIC -:- Cobb, Baker, Holtz, Dragonette, Jane Froman -:- ON AIR TONIGHT

W. A. Magee Broadcasts NRA Talk

Potash and Perlmutter, Irvin Cobb, Lou Holtz and Phil Baker furnish the fun, and Rosey Rowswell supplies the philosophy. Betty Boop, Jessica Dragonette, Phil Victor Young, Jane Froman and the Columbia Symphony contribute to the musical menu.

Miss Froman

* * *

Magee on NRA

A former Pittsburgh Mayor and representatives of the soap and drug industries air their views on the Recovery Act. William A. Magee speaks from the KDKA studios at 10:45. M. D. Griffith and Robert L. Lund are heard over the same station at 7:15, discussing "NRA and You."

* * *

Drama Thrillers

The Stamp Adventurers' Club dramatizes the story of a lowly blacksmith who became the hero of Poland when [illegible] country was attacked by Russians. It's on WJAS at 7.

The dreadful experiences of Russian aristocrats during the Red Revolution are enacted on the First Nighter drama, heard over KDKA at 10.

* * *

Berezowsky Conducts

Nicolai Berezowsky directs the Columbia Symphony orchestra, playing Tchaikovsky compositions over WJAS at 11. Howard Barlow, the regular conductor, is on leave of absence.

* * *

Argentine Travel

The American Ambassador to Argentina, Alexander W. Weddell, gives a travelogue on the Argentine and urges North Americans to travel in South America when he speaks over WCAE at 10.

* * *

Husbands and Hogs

A "Husband and Hog Calling Contest" is staged over CBS-WJAS Saturday afternoon at 2:45. Male voices of quantity, not quality, will call home the bacon. Feminine farmers will call their husbands home.

Ben Bernie will be ye old maestro of ceremonies.

Columbia Picks Young Composer As 'Dean of Modern Music' To Rival Whiteman

By AIRCASTER

Newsreeling around radio row—The Columbia Broadcasting System is to have its dean of modern music as the National Broadcasting Company has its Whiteman. The maestro elevated to this status is Johnny Green, the 27-year-old composer, musical modernist, arranger and whatnot. Johnny Blossoms forth September 3 at 8:30 for the unveiling of a Sunday series of concerts with a 45-piece orchestra and Gertrude Niesen as a soloist and is calling the event, which will feature concertos in jazz, etc., "In the Modern Manner."

Miss Niesen

Mexican Mystery

CHICAGO—Mystery prevails hereabouts concerning the very large audition piped from Mexico City for 30 minutes Wednesday night, and for 30 more minutes from Chicago, under the direction of the sponsors of Amos 'n' Andy. All the company officials, radio production men and the Lord and Thomas agency were instructed beforehand to bend an ear. The Mexican show samples came from XDW.

Seibel Deluged

PITTSBURGH—George Seibel, literary and dramatic critic of the Sun-Telegraph has received an avalanche of fan mail as a result of his Century of Progress broadcast last Sunday. One letter alone was signed by 66 Long Island listeners.

Local Highlights on WJAS Tonight

Globe-Trotting

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, lades and gentlemen:

What would the poor homeless kittens do without the Globe-Trotter?

Last week, when Mrs. Matthews wanted to find a home for a kitten she had found, the appeal was made from here, and now kitty is comfortably situated in Mt. Lebanon with Dorothea Rawa.

What a guy? Just Nature's little helper.

Having discovered that the women are getting a little leery of his advice for care of the children and management of the household, he's gone back to caring for birds and finding homes for cats.

* * *

Stop me if you've heard this one, but one of the listening family—Martha Fullman—buzzes in a story about her cat which never misses a noon broadcast, always is there in front of the receiver. The real lowdown, as I am informed by her younger brother, is that that's kitty's feeding time and the cream saucer also is there.

That's like the letter I received telling me how much the writer's father enjoys the broadcasts. He always gets his best naps then.

* * *

McKeesport—The work on the new Pittsburgh Postoffice Building is tied up due to jurisdictional disputes between the various craft unions. The plasterers' differences are to be aired in court.

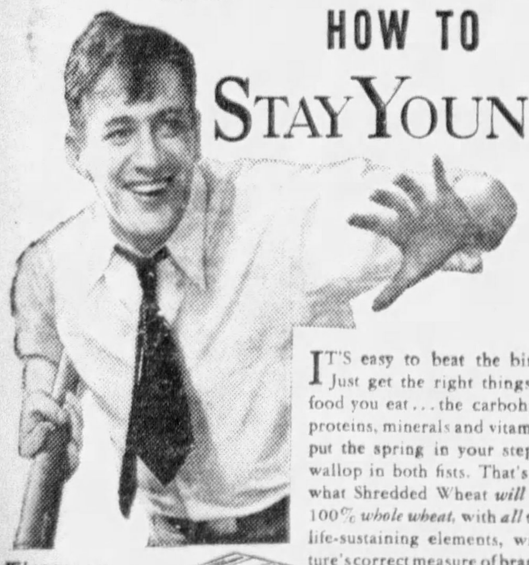
HERE'S ONE DAD WHO KNOWS HOW TO STAY YOUNG!



IT'S easy to beat the birthdays. Just get the right things in the food you eat . . . the carbohydrates, proteins, minerals and vitamins that put the spring in your step and a wallop in both fists. That's exactly what Shredded Wheat will do. It's 100% whole wheat, with all the vital life-sustaining elements, with Nature's correct measure of bran. Nothing added, nothing taken away—ready cooked, ready to eat. Tastes great, too! Golden-brown biscuits, a generous helping of milk or cream, topped with fruit. Try this treat for ten mornings. Or order it for a sensible lunch. And step along with the happy hosts who eat Shredded Wheat . . . and stay young!

When you see Niagara Falls on the package, you KNOW you have Shredded Wheat.

Maestro of the Malts

Just as Ben Bernie is acknowledged "maestro" of the air, so is good old Blue Ribbon recognized as maestro—leader—of the malt. Year after year it has been far in the front in sales and popularity because people found it decidedly better than any other. When you want the utmost in malt quality buy the "maestro" of the malt—Blue Ribbon.

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

It shocked me no little to read the gazettes about the passing of Jean Malin . . . It startled me because just before I returned from the Hollywoods—I swapped sass with him over his change of routine . . . Malin simply wouldn't stick to his act. He wanted to leave all that stuff behind him, he remarked . . . And I scolded him for it, arguing that his forte was being funny, after his fashion, and not being the dude he tried to be . . . And that he was funny only when he was thrashing a heckler with his sly talk, and skipping all over the place . . . But Malin had made up his mind to be other things, and cussed out those of us who argued against it . . . And so I teased him a lot and made him unhappy—and now he haunts me . . . I saw a postcard he had sent his wife the day he was killed . . . It had an affectionate line or two which concluded: "I'll be home Wednesday" . . . His remains returned Wednesday . . . He made many of us laugh during his brief stay in the Broadway asylums, and he was a good-natured guy, who gave his coin away generously—to those who were in need, which is something to salute his memory for, at any rate . . . I don't like to hear about youth dying . . . Death is for old people.

That Costello woman's manner fascinates me . . . I can't savvy the talk about "Stormy Weather" not bringing the composers of it any juicy returns . . . The contagious song, it appears, was murdered by popularity! . . . The lads who prepared it made much more money on lesser known ditties . . . There hasn't been a popular new dance since the Rhumba . . . I like the song deliveries of the attractive Colleen Woodward at the Ha-Ha. . . . And I get mellow when I see an old lady with an arm around an old man's shoulders sitting at a Cotton Club ringside . . . The lyric of "Lazy Bones" comforts me so . . . No wonder the melody of it has a lilt—it was done by the lad who composed the memorable "Star Dust" . . . There ought to be a readable column in something entitled: "Things People Have Asked Me Not to Print" . . . Wonder if Jesse Lasky's "The Power and the Glory" movie will be the hit it gave every indication of being when it was previewed? . . . It is packed with beauty . . . Sometimes I wonder if the transients sleeping in the park are more comfortable than I am . . . Sleeping under the stars must be swell—when you don't have to.

Wonder if the new manager of that Broadway theater, who also monitors the office edifice next door, tosses and turns in his slumbers? . . . He probably doesn't . . . Until he got his new post a little old man was contented . . . The little old man had made a living, meagre as it was, from polishing the boots of the building tenants. He had been slaving there a dozen hours every day for many years, and with his $20 a week, supported his tribe and managed to send a son to college . . . And so the new manager told him that he mustn't come there anymore, because the manager had rented that concession to a nearby barber bootblack—for $25 a month. . . . It probably is true. I mean the legend concerning Miss Dietrich. They say now that Marlene finally realizes that her mannish attire did her no box office good in the provinces, where the saner citizens do not go for the trousers on women—and that she offered huge monies to have the plates destroyed revealing her in pants. . . . Her latest likenesses in the newspapers show her in skirts, which is more like it.

There isn't a more horrible squelch than the one Billy Haines employs on gay people who startle him when he isn't looking . . . It serves to stifle them forever—so insultingly comical is it . . . It would lose its wallop in ink . . . Among other women who make me sick are those who foxtrot with a dangling hand . . . Nobody apes Mae West so well as her kid sister, due soon for a radio hookup . . . And none of the shadow-show favorites excites the audiences on the West Coast so much as Miss West . . . When those trailers are screened naming future attractions and their stars, nothing happens until her name appears—and then the roof bends . . . What you remember most about "Toni" Lanier after you leave her is the miniature toy dog resembling her hound, which she totes when her Schnauser isn't with her. It is a fad that will click with dog-lovers . . . Why she is called "Toni" eludes me, considering her name is Camille, and her heart has been used as a football by famously known fellows . . . And she is as sad as the Lady of the Camelias . . . Plus a sense of humor, however . . . Frixample—she can't make up her mind . . . She doesn't know whether to remain in New York or go to Hollywood and be married for a couple of weeks . . . I'll never wager a coin on a wheel or a pair of cubes again . . . Not after reading a book, fashioned only for professional gamblers (by a card and dice firm of Chicago, no less!)—on how simple it is to take a chump.

Never been to a dinner yet where Will Rogers flopped . . . Nor have I ever heard him repeat himself — although Heywood Broun has remarked that a man who doesn't, is a coward . . . The ruling of that league of authors and composers is something to groan about . . . Gordon and Revel, for instance, two of the newcomers, had the distinction of hearing their several hits played on the air more than any other songs . . . For which they received a $50 check for a period of three months . . . Another man who once wrote a major hit like "Poor Butterfly" or something like it—drew $1,500 for the same period — because, it was explained, that composer was a hit-writer long before they were . . . Although the man hasn't written a good song since! . . . I'd rather be me—always wondering from where the next paragraph is coming . . . For the first time I sat against a hamburger wagon-stand counter and heard a counterman named "Slim" and other towners of Hartsdale, N. Y. (the other 5.20 at sunup), talk about newspapermen, with "Slim" giving his frank opinions on the subject . . . And I was most interested in their comments about me, but I left without surrendering to the temptation to say that I was a sort of a newspaperman—or to thank "Slim," who was fair enough in his opinions—and who certainly is representative of the group I aim at . . . And here is irony indeed . . . J. D. Wilson, an Atlanta truck driver, is beyond question the originator of the Reforestation Plan, which has promoted work for so many unemployed . . . Yet, Mr. Wilson can't get a job! . . . If the President could know about Mr. Wilson—there might be some recognition, or better still, a job—for the President has received all the applause for the "new deal" in which Wilson dealt the first hand . . . At the same time, dealing himself the joker . . . I can back the facts. He is certainly The Forgotten Man.

Players Get Jaunt to Hawaii

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 18.—A group of surprised and delighted film players are packing their trunks for a trip to Honolulu, where Cecil B. De Mille is suddenly rushing to photograph his new picture, "Four Frightened People."

The lucky stars who will escape sweltering days in the sound stages are Claudette Colbert, Herbert Marshall, Mary Boland, William Gargan and Leo Carrillo.

Lest you all be too envious, however, De Mille promises a difficult and even dangerous location trip. He'll try to inject realism into the plight of his four characters, who escape from a plague ridden vessel in an Oriental port and flee through the jungles towards civilization.

First of the company to leave will be De Mille and his technical staff. They will sail Saturday to survey the entire island group for suitable locations. The principals are to follow in a couple of weeks.

Oddly enough, Claudette Colbert will be making a trip from which her husband, Norman Foster, has just returned. Wonder whether Edna Best will run true to form and accompany Marshall? Henry Duffy has been trying to get her to take the lead in "There's Always Juliet." And she also has been up for a part at Warners.

Dixie Lee is back in the Cedars of Lebanon Hospital again. Walking down the steps the other day, she fell and broke an elbow. Bing Crosby rushed back from a Catalina fishing trip and put both her and the baby in the hospital . . . Occupying another room at the Cedars is Bert Levy, veteran cartoonist. He is recovering from a major operation . . . Both Clark Gable and Virginia Bruce checked out for home.

Victor Jory In Fulton

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Anything for a title, just so it's catchy, seems to have been the motive for the selection of the tag, "The Devil's In Love," diverting picture now showing in the Fulton with Victor Jory, Loretta Young, David Manners and Vivienne Osborne in the more prominent roles. The only devil in it isn't in love, and he's not in the picture very long, for he's soon murdered—it is that incident that causes most of the action.

The man is a brutal commandant of French army post in Arfica, and the crime is fastened upon the post surgeon, played by Jory. The real culprit is a servant the officer has abused, but poison has been given to him in medicine administered by Dr. Jory—and you know how that would be with a court martial. Well, anyway, that's how it is.

The innocent man is helped to escape by his friend, Manners, and he doesn't let the sands of the desert grow cold in getting out of there. Eventually he is back, escorting the fiancee of Manners, Loretta Young, and he cures a lot of fever, as a paroled prisoner, but not Manners, and that answers a problem, too, for Victor and Loretta have become pretty well acquainted by this time.

It is well-acted and is interesting, although reminiscent of pictures of similar theme. There is plenty of action, and some comedy, for which thank Herbert Mundin.

Canine Bays Greet Play Tryout

By GEORGE SEIBEL

All the canine population of Oakmont bayed boisterously last night, for a new drama was being tried upon them.

Mr. Seibel

"Manly Man" was its title and Alfred L. Golden was its author. It was played on the stage of the Oakmont High School, since the inspectors of asbestos curtains feared there might be a forest fire at the Willows. Had they no fear that the new comedy might set the town afire?

It isn't quite as hot as that, but it is an amusing farce built upon the hankering of neurotic women for expensive specialists to psychoanalyze them. The author describes his work as a comedy-satire, but it is not true enough to be classed as comedy, and not always funny enough to be real farce. Still there are hilarious situations and characters, with some lines that pack a mirthful punch.

Ralph Wilson plays George Morton, husband of Louise Morton, played by Lillian Malone. In the first act he is an idiot and she is a bully. By the close of the last act, under erotic and alcoholic stimuli, she has become a bully and she bids fair to become an idiot. And it all comes about because she has forced him to turn nerve specialist after he has lost his job—whereupon the checks roll in to the tune of thousands.

Ralph Wilson and Lillian Malone almost made you believe this "believe it or not" plot, although they had a tendency to overdo both the idiocy and the bullying. Harry Ziff as a lonely iceman and Helen Verosky as an inhibited female were more consistent, even though it is a well-known fact of natural history that ice men are never lonely, nor as frigid as their profession would lead one to infer, and though so charming and demure a damsel as Helen Verosky need not wait for an ice man to thaw her inhibitions. But their hypnotic scene was the best episode of the evening.

Madeleine Skelly Foust gave a veristic exhibition of nerves and Mrs. Stuart C. McFarland deserved the large commissions she received for luring customers into the cabinet of the neurologist. As for Hugh Vernon, who played the lover of the lady who turns her husband into a professor, he gets beaten up, but that is the fault of the part, not his own.

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Polly Rowles will be making her third appearance in a Stage Guild play when that organization puts on "Three to Make Ready" in the Arnold School next week. Miss Rowles was in "Springtime for Henry" and "Second Man." Robert Gill, who will play the male lead, has had parts in "Second Man," "He" and "Goodbye Again." "Three to Make Ready" is by Helen H. Mason, Pittsburgh playwright, and the presentation next week preludes a Broadway production of her work.

* * *

Queenie Smith, who has queened it in many a musical comedy and operatta, will let the lyrical drama struggle along without her assistance this season, providing the tuneless work, "The Blue Widow," in which she will play her first legitimate starring role, proves strong enough to carry her through the season.

* * *

Besides the two Eugene O'Neill plays, "Ah, Wilderness," and "Days Without End," the Theater Guild has 13 other plays from which to select the six works it plans to produce in the new season. Its first will be "Ah, Wilderness."

* * *

With four stages operating in Chicago, the World's Fair visitors are giving the legitimate theaters there more to be thankful for than the regular season did.

NAVY ELEVEN PLAYS PITT IN STADIUM

It won't be long now before the football season will be upon us. The annual Football Guide already is off the press, and the college stars are getting ready to enter their training camps. High school players will mobilize as soon as their classes are resumed early next month.

Art Rooney

Meanwhile it is apparent that Pittsburgh, long a hotbed of independent football interest, will be represented by a formidable team in the National Professional League, playing its home games at night until Sunday games are permissable at the fag-end of the season.

Art Rooney, owner of the local franchise, aided by his business manager, Dick Guy, former local sports editor, is doing a fine job of corraling a crew of stars for his entry, his master stroke so far having been the acquisition of Angel Brovelli, former fullback ace of the St. Mary's College team, of California, who was rated all-America timber by many experts last fall. Many teams in the league sought Brovelli, but Rooney outbid them all for his services.

Some idea of the cost of building and maintaining a squad of this caliber may be gained from the fact that Rooney offered Warren Heller, Pitt's all-America halfback of last year, $150 a game to play for him, but Fats turned it down to take a high school coaching job, with an eye to the future.

Rooney also is looking to the future. He does not anticipate earning a fortune in his first year as a professional promoter, but he believes the sport will catch on here this fall and that he will reap large dividends next year, when he will be able to play Sunday games at Forbes Field from beginning to end.

HERE ARE THE LOCAL COLLEGE SCHEDULES

Just to refresh your memory, here are the schedules of the local college elevens for this fall; cut them out and paste them under your hatband for reference:

PITT—September 30, W. & J., Stadium; October 7, West Virginia, Morgantown; October 14, Navy, Stadium; October 21, Minnesota, Minneapolis; October 28, Notre Dame, South Bend; November 4, Centre, Stadium; November 11, Duquesne, Stadium; November 18, Nebraska, Stadium; November 25, open; November 30, Thanksgiving Day, Carnegie Tech, Stadium.

CARNEGIE TECH—October 7, Temple, Stadium; October 14, Xavier, Cincinnati; October 21, Notre Dame, Stadium; October 28, W. & J., Stadium; November 4, Purdue, Lafayette, Ind.; November 11, Michigan State, East Lansing; November 18, Georgetown, Washington; November 25, New York University, New York; November 30, Thanksgiving Day, Pitt, Stadium.

DUQUESNE—Friday, September 15, Waynesburg, Forbes Field; Friday, September 22, West Virginia Wesleyan, Forbes Field; Friday, September 29, West Virginia University, Forbes Field; Friday, October 6, Bucknell, Forbes Field; Friday, October 13, Western Maryland, Forbes Field; Friday, October 20, Detroit, Forbes Field; Friday, October 27, Westminster, Forbes Field; November 4, W. & J., Washington, Pa.; November 11, Pitt, Stadium; November 18, open date; November 25, Geneva, Forbes Field. All Friday games will be played at night.

DUKES MAKE EARLY START

The Pitt schedule shows three new foes, Navy and Centre at home and Minnesota away. Tech plays Michigan State for the first time and the opening game brings a clash between Howard Harpster, its young new coach, and Pop Warner, former Pitt mentor, now at Temple, and Duquesne plays all of its games at Forbes Field with the exception of that with Pitt at the Stadium and the W. & J. game at Little Washington, and will have three games under its belt before Pitt gets under way and four before Tech swings into action. The Bluffites' first seven games will be Friday night affairs.

The meeting between Warner and Harpster, who is young enough to be his grandson, will be particularly interesting. This will be Harpster's first season at Tech, following three fine years at Geneva College, and, in spite of his football genius, his prospects are none too promising. He will be short on material and will be playing a tough schedule. Warner, on the other hand, falls into a host of playing talent in his new berth in Philadelphia, and will be backed up by all of the wily strategems of a coaching experience that dates back 37 years to the time he was graduated from Cornell University, where he was a star player. He has coached at the University of Georgia, at Cornell and Carlisle Indian School twice each and at Pitt and Stanford, and is generally regarded as one of the greatest coaches of all time. It cannot be said that Harpster's baptism of big league coaching fire will be made under the most auspicious circumstances.

Pitt should have another powerful team, despite the loss of many stars from last season, and Duquesne figures to add considerably to its already good reputation under the direction of Coaches Elmer Layden and Joe Bach.

SHORT VIGNETTES OF SPORT

The most ardent rooters for the success of Ted Yarosz in his battle with Vince Dundee at Forbes Field, Monday night, will be his widowed mother and seven brothers and sisters . . . Teddy claims he's never had a bloody nose in all of his 69 professional bouts . . . Capt. Al Williams, the famous aviator and former pitcher of the New York Giants, now located here, is a close friend of Sam Pryor, Jr., former Pittsburgher, now of Greenwich, Conn., and New York, well known as the pal of Gene Tunney.

Johnny Datto, Filipino boxer, learned to play a guitar in Alaska years ago and now is making valuable use of his ability as a member of a quartet performing nightly at Dresden Terrace, a night club on the Babcock boulevard . . . He also sings and his troupe is known as Johnny Datto and His Rascals.

Those New York Yankees are going from bad to worse, and if they do not check their slide soon they'll be lucky to finish in the first division, instead of being the club Joe Cronin's Senators will have to beat out for the American League pennant . . . When Hal Schumacher blanked the Reds the other day, it was the Giants' twentieth shutout of the season, which, with the other low score games it has won, explains why Bill Terry's club is up there leading the National League procession.

The correct name of the Japanese boxer on the Coast who frequently is referred to as Joe Teiken is Jo Tei Ken . . . With the articles calling for 160 pounds, Ted Yarosz probably will spot Vince Dundee upwards of five pounds in their battle.

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Primo Carnera in exhibition, 3 rounds; Harry Dublinsky vs. Frankie Bojorski, 10 rounds, and Edouardo Duarry vs. Eddie Latko and Jimmy Gilligan vs. Harry Boyle, 6 rounds each, Academy High School Stadium, Erie.

Meyer Grace vs. Kid Azteca, 10 rounds, Mexico City.

Kid Appolonio vs. Bobby Calmes, 8 rounds, San Francisco.

Art Rooney, promoter of the Primo Carnera exhibition professional boxing show to be held in the St. Peter's A. A. Stadium on the North Side next Thursday night, reports indications of a sellout for the affair. Tremendous interest has been generated, especially among Italian admirers of the world heavyweight champion. Carnera will donate his services, with receipts going to the needy of the North Side.

Carnera opens his Western Pennsylvania invasion at Erie tonight, when he shows in the Academy High School Stadium for Promoter Apples Meyers, with a Harry Dublinsky-Frankie Bojorski bout serving as a main bout background.

Next Tuesday, Primo shows in Johnstown, and, on Wednesday, he will exhibit in Youngstown. He will arrive here on Wednesday morning and will stay over in Pittsburgh for at least a day after the show and then will move on to Chicago to attend the World Fair and then resume his barnstorming tour until it lands him in California.

A bout between Al Salbano and Tiger Joe Randall has been added to the preliminary bill for the Vince Dundee-Ted Yarosz show at Forbes Field next Monday night, but the Sunny Jim McVey-Carl Montebano bout, announced yesterday, is out. Montebano didn't want to fight McVey, and McVey's manager rejected the terms offered for a match with Al Gatchel, of Cleveland.

Fight Results

At New York—Patsy Perroni defeated Isadore Gastanaga, 10 rounds; Vernon Cromier and Pete DeGrasse drew, 6 rounds; Tony Dominguez defeated Paul Pirrone, 6 rounds; Bob Olin and Al Gainor drew, 6 rounds; Mike Belloise and Lew Farber drew, 6 rounds; Leonard DelGenio knocked out Joe Regis, 1 round; Jackie Aldare and Paddy Creedon drew, 10 rounds; Joe Pennino knocked out Meyer Rowan, 5 rounds.

At Sioux Falls—Johnny Martin and Batting Nelson drew, 8 rounds; Billy Bridges defeated Joe Rossi, 8 rounds; Eddie Carr knocked out Joe Mack, 6 rounds; Lew Foster defeated Tut Jackson, 6 rounds.

At Paterson, N. J.—Obedian Walker, Umberto Arce battle declared no contest, 9 rounds; Young Stanley Ketchell knocked out Joe Zacco, 3 rounds; Vic Meadows knocked out Johnny Armona, 3 rounds.

At North Adams—Joe Gorman won by a technical knockout over Vincent Green, 9 rounds; Hooky Jackson knocked out Paul Arnado, 6 rounds; Sammy Rambolo knocked out Joe Mangold, 6 rounds.

At Pasadena—Benny Miller defeated K. O. Christner, 10 rounds.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: THE THREE WONDERS OF LOCH LOMOND—Loch Lomond, considered the Queen of Scottish Lakes, was formerly celebrated for the presence in it of three wonders. They were: "Waves Without Wind," explained by the swell and roll of waters toward the head of the lake, caused by limited local gusts, while the shores remain calm. "Fish Without Fins," explained by the belief that viners used to swim in it from aisle to aisle. "The Floating Island," a natural raft of timber, rushes and the like, which occasionally would appear in the Loch.

BUCCOS INVADE BOSTON FOR TOUGH SERIES

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—George Gibson and his second-place Buccaneers were not in the best of spirits today as they boarded a Boston - bound train. The Pirates still were peeved over what they considered shabby treatment on the part of the Brooklyn management.

Ralph Birkofer

The Dodger officials not only called off yesterday's scheduled contest between the Pirates and Dodgers on questionable grounds, but they added insult to injury by booking the postponed game for Sunday, September 10. Now at this particular period the Pirate card is heavy with dual bills; they are scheduled to play Max Carey's crew in doubleheaders at Forbes Field on Saturday, September 9 and Monday, September 11, so that the two clubs meet in three straight doubledeckers, with a Sunday jump from Pittsburgh to New York and return included.

TOUGH ON PIRATES

Today is an open date on the playing card of both teams, yet the Dodger bosses ignored the fact as they moved the postponed game back to next month. Inasmuch as the Pirates are in the thick of the flag fight their resentment seems justified. The Dodgers, on the other hand, are going nowhere this year.

The Pirates are slated to open a four-game series with the Braves tomorrow. A single game will inaugurate the series, a synthetic dual bill being carded for Sunday. That state of affairs means that the contest slated for Monday will be moved ahead for the sake of the Sunday turnstiles and the teams will have an open date on the succeeding day.

BIRKOFER RECALLED

The disappointment of the Pirates was softened, however, in the knowledge that Pitcher Ralph Birkofer, Pirate farmhand at Toronto, would soon be back in the fold. A big sensation with the Leafs, Ralph has won 16 and lost seven games for Dan Howley since he was sent to the International League club by the Pirates under a 24-hour option. President W. E. Benswanger, of the Pittsburgh club, announced last night that Birkofer had been recalled. He will join the Pirates either in Boston or New York next week.

The big southpaw was one of the most promising players the Pirates displayed in their spring training period, but Birkofer needs work and Gibson made a wise move when he farmed him to a club that assured him plenty of toil. Ralph weighs at least 200 pounds in pitching condition he likes work.

Loughran Signs To Box Sharkey

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—The Arena Corporation has announced the signing of Tommy Loughran, erstwhile light-heavyweight titlist, for a 15-round bout, September 27, with Jack Sharkey, former heavyweight champion, and said they expected Sharkey's signature soon.

PARKER, YOUNG WEST PENN GOLF FINALISTS

FRED WEPPNER, BRAND LOSE IN TOURNEY

By TOM BIRKS

R. B. Parker, of Highland, and Knox M. Young, Jr., of Shannopin, are battling in the 18-hole final of the West Penn amateur golf championship over the Highland Country Club course this afternoon as a result of victories scored in the semi-finals this morning.

Parker furnished one of the biggest upsets of the tournament when he defeated Fred Brand, Jr., of Shannopin, 4 and 3, to advance into the final round. Brand had been one of the pre-tournament favorites to ascend the throne vacated by Maurice LeBosquet, 1932 champion.

MEDALIST VICTOR

Young, who was the medalist in the qualifying round, eliminated Fred Weppner, of the Pittsburgh Club, 3 and 2. The cards:

Parker, out	343	454	464—37
Brand, out	454	454	454—39
Parker, in	445	443
Brand, in	455	543
Young, out	444	354	454—37
Weppner, in	355	454	454—38
Young, in	544	554	3
Weppner, in	455	454	4

SECOND SIXTEEN.

H. Miller, Aliquippa, defeated R. Boucek, Highland, 2 and 1.

LAPPAN WINS TITLE

James T. Lappan, with a 5-and-3 victory over C. M. Scott, won the Pittsburgh Field Club title yesterday in the final match of the championship tournament. The women's title will be decided today with Barbara Warmcastle meeting Mrs. C. I. Wendt in the final round.

Mrs. H. W. Christie, of the home club, led a field of district women stars in the one-day invitation tournament at Butler yesterday, scoring a gross 87. Mrs. C. E. Cox, of Oil City, won the low net award with 93-15—78.

Senators Cancel Deal for Gray

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Sam Gray, veteran righthanded pitcher with the St. Louis Browns, technically was a member of the league-leading Washington Senators for a few hours yesterday, but as far as the Senators were concerned, he again is a member of the Browns.

Griffith said Manager Joe Cronin, when informed of the deal, reached Gray in St. Louis by telephone and discovered that he has been suffering from a sore arm. Washington immediately canceled the deal.

Brooklyn Club In Court Again

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—The affairs of the Brooklyn National League baseball club, a source of many and complicated disputes among the owners of the franchise since the death of Charles H. Ebbets in 1925, again have been brought into the courts.

The Ebbets heirs yesterday obtained an order from Surrogate George Wingate compelling the executors of the Ebbets estate and the directors of the ball club to show cause why they should not be examined concerning various affairs of the club, notably its purchase of minor league properties.

BASEBALL COMEDY

—By NICK ALTROCK—

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—Pardon my stockbroker's patois, but when, as and if, our Washington club meets the Giants in the world series, do you realize they'll both be piloted by two managerial cubs? This is the first season Joe Cronin and Bill Terry have wigwagged orders to their men, and for a couple of Boy Scouts I think they've done right well.

Nick Altrock

The start of the season the Giants were unanimously awarded seventh place. The only thing that kept the experts from giving 'em the cellar was the fact that Cincinnati was in the league. Then Terry took the Giants and did a levitation act with 'em that even those cigaret ads didn't explain. Nobody knows exactly what keeps 'em up, and nobody can seem to pull 'em down.

Joe Cronin also went in for this miracle stuff—and I don't mean salad dressing. The Yankees were supposed to run away smash the A. L. race and leave male p[illegible]ington and Athletics at under its [illegible]ning post. But Joe fact that [illegible]noa." to the runaway does not neig his spurs into the ing up." [illegible] and look at us now on [illegible]mutuels!

WOMAN CHAMP KEEPS TITLE

For the fourth time within five years, Mrs. Margaret Curry reigns as the woman golf champion of the city. Yesterday, in the final round of the tournament, she defeated the only opponent who has been able to wrest the title from her grasp since she first won the laurels in 1929, Mrs. Eva Blair, 5 and 4.

Mrs. Blair was off to a fine start yesterday, and at the end of the first nine holes was 1 up. At the turn, however, Mrs. Curry got back on her game and at the end of 18 holes led, 3 up. She never relinquished this advantage. The cards:

MORNING ROUND

Mrs. Curry, out	565	644	354	—42
Mrs. Blair, out	466	634	544	—42
Mrs. Curry, in	453	443	456	—38—80
Mrs. Blair, in	462	556	565	—44—86

AFTERNOON ROUND

Mrs. Curry, out	454	535	355	—39
Mrs. Blair, out	466	444	354	—40
Mrs. Curry, in	544	43
Mrs. Blair, in	553	54

In the second division, Mrs. Myrtle Stearns won the crown, defeating Mrs. W. F. McAnalty, 1 up, in 18 holes.

Carl Kauffmann, many times city champion, and three times national public links king, added another title to his collection yesterday afternoon when he defeated Alex Shacoski in the 36-hole final round for the County Parks crown, 3 and 2, at South Park.

The first half of the match was played at North Park last week, when Shacoski, playing great golf, led at the finish, 1 up.

Kauffmann squared the match on the first green yesterday, took the lead for the first time on the third and from then until the end never was headed.

CHICAGOANS GAIN FINAL

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—James McArthur and William Moore, both of Chicago, will meet Sunday for the national lawn bowling singles title, but the rest of the trophies belong to the Pasadena (Cal.) team. The Californians won the team title Tuesday, and yesterday triumphed in the East-West and doubles contests.

Perroni Gets Easy Win Over Gastanaga

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Despite the attractions of a promising fight and its boasted cooling system, plus the removal of the no-smoking ban, Madison Square Garden's experiment with an indoor summer fight show failed to bring much promise for the future when only about 5,000 fans turned out last night to see Patsy Perroni, young Cleveland heavyweight give Isadore Gastanaga a sound whipping.

Perroni, who weighed 189 to the husky Spaniard's 190½, took the aggressive from the start and had little trouble with his opponent's wild right-hand swings.

VINES BEATEN BY SHIELDS

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Ellsworth Vines, national tennis champion, today was widely outplayed by Frank X. Shields as that powerful New Yorker ran up a straight set victory in the semi-final round of the Newport Casino tennis tournament. Vines, Casino victor for the past two years, was eliminated by a 6-2, 6-4, 6-4 margin.

Shields, who has been playing spectacular tennis in the recent major eastern grass tourneys, was even more impressive against the Davis Cup ace than he was when running up his straight set victory over Frankie Parker, brilliant Milwaukee youngster, in yesterday's quarter-finals play. He made only 55 errors in the 28 games against 85 for Vines, who had the surprising total of 54 nets and three double faults.

Weather conditions were decidedly unfavorable, the court was soggy, and thick waves of fog from the harbor drifted over the players continually. A heavy shower broke while Vines was making his last stand in the ninth game of the deciding set. It forced a halt in the semi-final duel between Wilmer Allison, Vines' Davis Cup teammate and his runner-up here last year, and Clifford Sutter, the New Orleans star, which started shortly after Shields and Vines got under way.

Allison had a set lead when the rain halted the match. He dropped the first to Sutter at 6-3, but took the next two at 6-4 and 6-2.

WOMEN ACES BATTLE AT FOREST HILLS

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—After three days of sparring around against inferior opposition, eight survivors in the women's national tennis championships at Forest Hills found themselves locked in a battle royal today where everybody was hitting for keeps.

All four quarter-final matches promised to be hard fought, and with the exception of Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, there wasn't a one of the girls with any kind of a guarantee she would be among those present when the roll was called at nightfall.

MRS. MOODY FAVORED

There were few, if any, ready to predict that Mrs. Moody would drop a set in her match with Mary Heeley, of England. The seven-time winner from California has come to be regarded as something of a lion among the lambs.

Alice Marble, the blonde San Franciscan, who takes a terrific swipe at the ball from either side, was given an excellent chance of upsetting Betty Nuthall, of England, winner of the 1930 tournament. The British star was well extended to put out Carolin Babcock, 6-4, 6-4, yesterday.

Dorothy Round, the British Sunday school teacher who won a set from Mrs. Moody at Wimbledon, appeared to have her work cut out for her against Sarah Palfrey, the Boston girl who almost over night has become an important figure in women's tennis.

CHAMP MEETS FRIEND

Helen Jacobs, the defending champion, was paired against her closest friend in tennis circles, Josephine Cruickshank, of Santa Ana, Cal., and it looked like a tough day for Helen. Josephine turned loose a dazzling game yesterday to sweep aside Peggy Scriven, of England, with the loss of only three games, while Helen dropped seven before she turned back Freda James, of England.

With the doubles tourney still in the second round, Mrs. Moody and her veteran English partner, Elizabeth Ryan, and the combination of Miss Jacobs and Miss Palfrey looked like the teams to beat. They won by identical scores of 6-1, 6-1 yesterday.

SENATORS TIGHTEN LEAD

WEAVER WINS THIRD GAME IN ROW

Associated Press.

While the New York Yankees were finding that Lou Gehrig's brand new major league endurance record, established yesterday when "Buster Lou" played his 1,308th consecutive game with a minimum of ceremony, was about the only bright spot they have seen on their current Western trip, Washington's Senators were equaling a record of sports and at the same time learning that Monte Weaver can be of great assistance to them in their pennant drive.

Weaver, who was rendered inactive during the large part of the season by a sore arm, let the Chicago White Sox down with four hits to win his third straight victory since he got back into service by a 14-1 score. It was the ninth in a row for the Senators, equaling the season's long run mark, made by the Yankees.

YANKEES LOSE

The fact that Gehrig became the official major league "iron man" by surpassing the record set by Everett Scott, former Yankee shortstop, before Lou broke into the big league and Babe Ruth's celebration of the end of his two-day vacation by busting his twenty-seventh homer of the season still couldn't save the Yankees from a 7-6, 10-inning defeat by the St. Louis Browns.

Gehrig received a silver cup from William Harridge, American League president, as he carried his unbroken string of games which started when he went in as a pinch hitter on June 1, 1925, to its record length.

The Cleveland Indians continued to make life miserable for the Philadelphia Athletics by plastering out 19 hits for 33 bases off George Earnshaw and three throwers who followed him to win the series final, 15 to 4. The Red Sox beat the Detroit Tigers, 6-2.

GIANTS WIN

The New York Giants again improved their position in the National League, taking another game from Cincinnati by a 7-2 count, while the weather kept their leading rivals inactive. The Giants rapped Benny Frey for five runs in the first inning and made it easy for Bud Parmelee by pulling off five double plays.

The second place Pittsburgh Pirates and third place Chicago Cubs were rained out at Brooklyn and Boston, respectively, giving the Giants a four and one-half-game lead over the Buccaneers.

Boston's idleness enable the St. Louis Cardinals to gain a tie for fourth place by walloping the Phillies, 9 to 5.

LOCALS ATTAIN SEMI-FINALS

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN,
Staff Correspondent.

J. O'LOUGHLIN WINS

John O'Loughlin entered the semi-final bracket yesterday with fourth round victory over his P. A. A. teammate, Paul Sullivan, 6-4, 6-4, in light-hitting baseline contest. Kunkle, tourney surprise package, sprang his second upset of the week by eliminating Eddie Alcorn, former Panther net captain, 6-3, 6-4, with an agile forecourt display.

Broida had an exceedingly close call with Dave Devlin, hard-hitting Westmont partner of Kunkle, 7-5, 1-6, 6-3.

Margaret Carspecken, Morgantown flash, in quest of third leg on the local flagon, breezed into the feminine finale with quick, impressive win over Sara Moore, capital hope, 6-1, 6-3. Mrs. Miller, another Washington star, drove well to down Miriam Sullivan, lone Pittsburgh women's contender, 6-3, 6-3, and thereby earned right to encounter Miss Grimes.

Favorites survived the men's dual tilting, Broida and Alcorn, 1932 premiers, edging out the Shannopin outfit, Bob Lampus and Irvin Goodman, in a quarter-final joust, 9-7, 7-5, and thus meriting a match with Kunkle and Devlin this afternoon.

TITLE DUELS TODAY

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Champions will emerge today in three divisions of the Northwestern Pennsylvania tennis tournament, but major interest centers in the semi-final rounds of the men's singles.

Byron Bauer, of Erie, six times winner of the tournament, meets George Seewagen, of Bayside, L. I., in a match that, barring upsets, will virtually name the champion.

LOCAL RIDERS WIN

TECH ISSUES GRID CALL

By JESS CARVER

The youthful Howard Harpster, head football coach at Carnegie Tech, who is as young in years and he is in the coaching game, isn't going to be pestered with a regiment of footballers when Tech's pre-season training camp is thrown open.

The Howitzer, as he has been coyly nicknamed by the well-known J. Lucius (Lefty) Lee, has invited 32 variety candidates to report for duty (and in shape) Tuesday morning, September 5.

Thirty-two men isn't very many for a big time college football team. Pitt will have more than 50 at Camp Hamilton a week later and the chances are better than 8 to 5 that the Dukes will have even more on the Bluff. But the Howitzer, who returned to his Alma Mater from Geneva, isn't used to working with more than 30 or 35 and apparently he isn't going to change his pace this fall.

Only 20 of the 32 men who will come to camp have had previous varsity experience. The others are either recruits from last year's Plebes, or men who have previously been in school but have never turned out for the team.

The Tartans are fortunate in having a quartet of experienced ends, and as many tackles and guards. No seasoned center is available and there is a paucity of backfield material.

Guards—Burzio, Dresher, Heinzer, Anderson and Kohout.
Tackles — Croft, Forsman, Doloway, Nutter, Hudson and Moore.
Centers—O'Toole, Spencer, Trbovich and Boyd.
Halfbacks—W. Spisak, Brewer, Carlson, Vorderburg, Bowser, Sanford and Graham.
Fullbacks—Mihm and Sayles.

Art Rooney announced the signing of another wingman for his local professional eleven yesterday. The newcomer to the Pirate roster is Bob Galloway, who starred at end for George Washington University last year.

Rooney also has signed Bob Deacle, Wash-Jeff's hard-hitting fullbacker.

In a swell spot following their important triumph over the Whitaker nine last evening, the Books take on Dormont in a postponed City League struggle at the Dormont High School field this evening. The contest takes the place of the regularly scheduled Dormont-Cochran game.

By beating Whitaker last evening, Books took the lead in the second half title race, and a victory over Dormont will put the team "in." Last evening's score was 7 to 3, giving Books a margin of half a game over Whitaker.

The Cleveland Giants will be the attraction at Greenlee Field tomorrow evening in a double bill starting at 6:15. The Pittsburgh Crawfords, back from a most successful Eastern trip, will have Satchell Paige hurling the first game.

JUDGE LEADS CASTERS

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Judge E. E. Cavanaugh, of Fort Dodge, Ia., today led in the competition for the national all-around bait casting championship, although he had not won a first place. Cavanaugh finished runnerup in the fly casting for distance and the three-eighths ounce bait yesterday, for the best average. Anthony Accetta, of Cleveland, won the fly casting event with an average of 115 feet 4 inches.

GRAPHIC GOLF

ALIGNING THE CLUBFACE AT IMPACT

One of the essentials of golf is a good grip. A golfer accustomed to one way of grasping the club generally has so sensitized that he can tell the condition of the clubface at all times. This comes in handy on those innumerable occasions when the clubface should be at right angles to the intended line of the ball's flight. It is an easy matter to see that a ball hit in this manner has a maximum chance of traveling toward the objective. Should the clubface be a bit open and yet come onto the ball in a direct line the sphere will travel off to the right. While often this trouble may be due to a faulty or untrustworthy grip it is also at times a case of the left arm being bent at impact. Make sure the left arm is straight at this point. Let the left arm do its share in both the up and downswing along the pattern of Macdonald Smith above.

BABE TO GIVE CLUB BREAK

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Unless the aging Babe Ruth (baseball speaking) feels as if he can play the entire season next year, the New York Yankee management needn't worry about compensating him for all the 154 games.

This the great home-run slugger revealed while here with the Yankees for their series with the St. Louis Browns.

Asked if his layoff during the first part of the series was any indication that he planned to retire in 1934, the Babe replied:

"I can't answer that, because I don't know. But one thing is certain—I'm not going to sign a contract for next year unless I feel that I can play the full season. It would not be fair to the owners to sign for a full year and then play only a third of the season."

De Mar Captures Cleveland Marathon

CLEVELAND, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—The loping strides of Clarence De Mar, 45-year-old New Hampshire school teacher and factory worker, carried him to his eighteenth marathon victory yesterday as he won the Irish Day grind of 26 miles, 385 yards, in two hours and 54 minutes.

After a brush with Mel Porter, of Newark, N. J., another veteran distance runner, De Mar let out his stride near the halfway mark and the left Porter and the 29 other starters in the ruck. He finished five minutes ahead of Percy Wyer, of Toronto, Ont. Harold M. Sutton, of Cleveland, was third, with a time of 3:14.

HEARST MEET ENTRIES SET

By WARREN BROWN,
Universal Service.

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—If they come by "land," it's polo. But if they come by "sea," it's outboard motor racing—for thrills, I mean.

Speed, spills, continuous competition, will make up the second annual William Randolph Hearst gold cup regatta to be presented Sunday at the north lagoon of the Century of Progress.

Here you will have outboard motor racing at its peak. National champions in all divisions, driving through the waters of the lagoon the most perfect models of craft and motor, competing, for upward of seven hours, for the gold cup and other adequate prizes that are emblematic of the championship in the largest regatta ever held in North America.

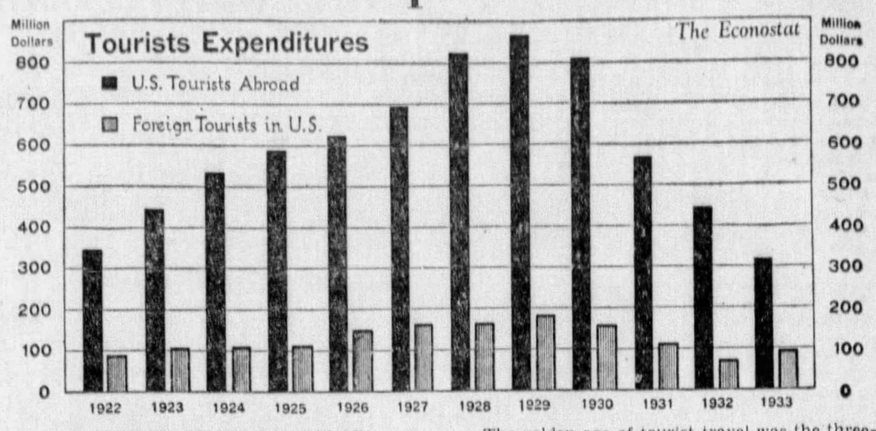
From 10 o'clock in the morning until late in the afternoon more than 200 outboard motor racers will be churning up the lagoon, making their breath-taking turns, their speed flashes on the straightaway, some of them—maybe a lot of them—overturning in the mad scramble.

Pedley to Join Western Poloists

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Eric Pedley, of California, Tommy Hitchcock's personal choice as the greatest No. 1 in polo, was flying out of the West today to ride against Hitchcock's Easterners in the final match of the intersectional championship series Sunday.

When Hubert W. (Rube) Williams, the West's fiery back, suffered a fracture of his right leg as the East won Wednesday's match, 12 to 8, his team's chances of winning the series appeared blasted. But Pedley, who was unable to make the trip with the Western team, was prevailed upon to lend his aid and last night left Los Angeles by airplane.

Dollar Depreciation Curtails Tourist Expenditures Abroad



By JOSEPH STAGG LAWRENCE
Editor of the Econstat

The accompanying chart represents foreign tourist expenditures in the United States and American tourist expenditures abroad, important intangible items in the flow of international trade.

Our own tourist expenditures are service purchases which may be classed with imports. In the case of merchandise this consists of silk, rubber, coffee and manufactured goods. In the case of tourist expenditures the purchases consist of transportation, hotel accommodations, scenery and entertainment.

Both factors, the tangible and the intangible, occupy an important position in what is known as the balance of trade. On one side of these are the goods and services which America buys from abroad and on the other side are the goods and services which other countries buy from us. Over a period of time these two must balance. During shorter periods when they are out of balance correction is made by the export of gold for loans.

The present course of the American dollar in the field of foreign exchange is not helping either imports or tourist travel. According to consular reports abroad and estimates of the American Express, American travel has been cut approximately 15 per cent in volume. If we take into account the decline in prices the drop in this item must be very substantial.

The golden age of tourist travel was the three-year period 1928-1930 when Americans spent an average of $834,000,000 each year abroad. This was an enormous flow of purchasing power which made it possible for other countries to buy more goods from Americans, such as cash registers, typewriters, printing machinery and our great raw materials exports such as cotton, wheat and tobacco.

It is the size of these American tourist expenditures which made it possible for us to maintain year after year a favorable balance of trade, that is to say, a balance in which we seem to be sending more goods each year abroad than we are receiving. The difference was made up by the importation of things which we did not see in the account, such as meals in Paris and boat rides on Lake Lucerne.

The decline in the purchasing power of the dollar has had the effect of reducing the number of American expatriates abroad. These people who had been living for years on dollar remittances now find that these dollars can not be converted into as many francs, marks or sterling as they could in previous years.

The same drop in the buying power of the dollar which has affected tourist travel and American residents abroad has also affected imports. For the time being this is a source of satisfaction to American exporters and to domestic manufacturers who have been suffering from foreign competition.

BUSINESS :: Uncertainties Preclude Hook-up of Pound And Dollar

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—There seems to be little disposition on the part of leading British financiers and economists to hitch the pound sterling to the American dollar.

Such a policy is conceded here to have attractions if England knew where it would lead; if she knew definitely what percentage rise in the domestic price level is America's aim; if there were a reasonable certainty that, having reached it, this country would stop there.

* * *

Dispatches to the Federal Reserve Board say that if these points were clear then England could hitch her pound to the American dollar by elaborating a policy on the following lines: She might settle in her own mind the domestic commodity value of the pound that she should like to see established. Then she could attempt to estimate the dollar-pound exchange which represents equilibrium between the two countries, and to establish that rate.

* * *

If the rate were adopted by agreement, one or the other of the two countries would perpetually be having either to slow down or to accelerate the application of its domestic policy to keep in step with the other.

On the other hand, it was said that if the pound were linked to the dollar without agreement, then England would be leaving to America to settle the rate of progress of her own policy.

The policy of President Roosevelt to allow the dollar to find its own level was described in the dispatches as "perfectly intelligible."

STOCKS STEADY IN QUIET TRADING

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Although the buzzing of the inflation bee was not quite so pronounced today, financial markets maintained most of their substantial gains of yesterday in quiet and uneventful trading.

After an opening upward flurry, in which various stocks advanced a point or more, the share market settled down to watch for further developments from both Washington and Chicago. While the dollar again was heavy in terms of sterling and European gold currencies, this seemingly was not considered as important as in the previous session. Grains moved up at the start, but profit-taking was encountered and the upswing paused. Cotton held around its Thursday's closing level. Bonds generally were steady to firm.

Some renewals of public participation was reported in yesterday's flareup, but it was mostly of the odd-lot type. More business of this character appeared in the early hours today, but volume, in most cases, was small. Professionals continued to pass stock back and forth on the floor, with intermittent waves of enthusiasm, and orders on the specialists' books, either to buy or sell, were still exceedingly slim.

While London economists, coupled with the advance of sterling against the dollar, indicated that the President's use of wide inflationary powers could be expected sooner or later, the more conservative financiers here continued to maintain neutral opinions. Although speculative elements were cheered by news from Washington that the President was being urged to adopt new inflationary measures, market observers pointed out that thus far no positive action has been taken toward either drastic currency or credit expansion.

It is known that, even in the President's official family, there are two distinctive sides on the inflation question and, up to date, the Executive has shown no leaning toward either. Some Wall street bankers feel that, if business and industry retain even sizeable portions of their recent gains, the inflationary situation probably will keep its status quo. At the same time, however, the concensus is that the movement toward recovery will not be permitted to lag too greatly.

Week-end trade reviews reported recessions from the midsummer peak were somewhat larger than a week ago, but found there had been no serious slowing down of industry and that the possibility of any sizeable recessions was now remote.

GRAIN UPTURN LED BY CORN

Repeating yesterday's performance, corn first of all the cereals made a big early jump, and inspired active new buying in all the speculative pits.

Reports of persistent deterioration of the country's corn crop attracted unusual attention. Opening 2⅝ to 3⅜ cents higher, corn afterward continued strong. Wheat started unchanged to 1 cent up and subsequently rose all around.

The new soaring of corn values carried quotations to almost the maximum limits which Board of Trade rules permitted in any one day. At this point, lively profit-taking developed, and the market receded more than 1½ cents from early top figures, with wheat falling back to slightly under yesterday's finish. Corn, however, retained material advances, and served as a bracing influence on other commodities, all of them showing power to rally and acting in a more normal manner than has been the rule for a long while.

WALL ST. SEES RISE AFTER LABOR DAY

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Apparently the only thing which keeps stocks up is the general idea that the market will rise after Labor Day because of further inflation.

It is almost universally the opinion that the administration at Washington is definitely and irrevocably committed to a program of forcing the prices of wheat and cotton higher, and that to do this it will have to resort to a renewed drive on the dollar.

The average Wall street man still reasons that the President has almost unlimited powers in inflation. How, then, can he allow a break in prices which would destroy the semblance of returning prosperity which has been born of anticipated inflation?

Already there are signs of growing discontent among farmers, who see the prices of wheat and cotton slumping while the prices of manufactured products rise and living costs mount higher. What must a politician with the power to touch off an inflationary rise in prices do? Can he help but apply the match?

LITTLE LIQUIDATION

This is the way Wall Street reasons. Accordingly there is little disposition to liquidate holdings, and there has been a tendency to buy on recessions. The general idea is that "after Labor Day," the rise of last May and June will be renewed.

Market letter writers are almost unanimously bullish, and generally assert that a "base is being laid" for the fall rise.

There is some consc i. all this. One would certainly figure it to be the probability. Yet one disturbing thought is that the stock market rarely does what everybody expects. And another question is suggested by the thought that the market may have exhausted the inflation factor and have discounted the rise based upon it.

'KICK' PERHAPS SAPPED

If, for example, the hopes of business recovery through the NRA experiment should prove to be ill founded, and if the cruder forms of currency inflation should be adopted, is it not possible that the stock market would begin to discount the usual bad results of such inflation?

In short, by anticipating inflation have we not deprived the thing of much of its kick?

I don't know. No one can know. But it seems unwise to be too sure about the matter.

If an early rise in the market were sure, the market would have been rising by this time, simply because traders do not wait for a sure thing to happen.

If NRA should continue to run into difficulties and agriculture should be injured by the combination of crop shortages and large carry-overs, attempts to make a bull market in stocks will be greatly handicapped.

MAY REVALUE DOLLAR

It is even possible that the administration may decide to revalue the dollar at some definite gold content and thus remove the uncertainty concerning its purchasing power which has been such a serious drawback to business plans and to government financing. That would knock the leading bull argument on the head.

In short, these are critical times, and so much depends upon arbitrary Washington policies that only guesses are possible. That is the penalty we pay for adopting a political control over economic life. All we can do is to await the next experimental move in a business football game.

The outlook is not clear. The action of the market is doubtful, and if anything disappointing to the bulls. Any position at present seems to me to be a mere gamble.

CHAPTER XXXII.

Mulrooney finished his call to headquarters. His words had been imperative. Every policeman and detective in the city was commanded to be on the look-out for Lucky Cavanaugh. His description was broadcast over the police radio to every patroling car.

Wanted on suspicion of murder, the call was to bring Lucky Cavanaugh in dead or alive.

With his hat pulled tightly down on his head, Mulrooney left the house. From the bedroom window upstairs, Leni saw him leave. He looked a great deal like a maddened bull ready to charge the first object that crossed his path.

Leni, ordinarily, had no telephone in her bedroom, but occasionally she had Celeste connect up an extension with a 25-foot cord which was plugged in downstairs. It was quite possible that Cavanaugh would phone her, and she had Celeste bring in the portable French phone. This accomplished there was nothing to do but wait.

Lucky had asked her not to worry. Well—that was perfectly sound advice. What had worry ever accomplished for anybody?

There was nothing sensible to do except to keep calm and keep her heart up. The years to come could not possibly be as hard as those behind her. No sooner had one danger been over than a new one had taken its place. It had been like those hurdle races were finally they run smoothly to the finish on a level stretch. Life, very probably, was like that—near the finish.

ONE DANGER REMAINS

She sat down at her dressing table, rested her elbows upon it and cupped her face in her two warm palms. What a strange life I've led, she thought, looking into the glass. There is no one else on earth like me. I have been at the bottom and at the top. It's queer about life. Now—right now—it's ending or beginning. I don't know which.

Then she opened them and looked into the mirror that was so close to her face. Over her shoulder on the far side of the room a closet door was slowly opening. It opened wide and out of the shadowy recess beyond stepped the familiar figure of Lucky Cavanaugh.

"It's all in a life time," Lucky said in the unruffled manner she loved. "Are you glad to see me?"

"Am I glad to see you? My darling!" she took a deep breath. "Darling, darling, darling!"

Her sensation that life was a dream continued. Events like this would not really happen to people in their waking hours. Yet Cavanaugh's arms around her were substantial and his lips upon her own were warm with the thrill that no dream could ever equal.

At last they drew back from their kiss.

"Why? How?"

"It's very simple," said Cavanaugh, smiling as though she were a child. "It would have done no good to cut and run. So I merely walked up the stairs and came in here. How did Mulrooney feel when he woke up?"

Leni was astonished at how casually they were able to talk. It amused her.

"I think every tooth in his head was aching," she laughed. "Poor Mulrooney! I felt sorry for him."

Her good-nature was infectious. For the first time, to the surprise of them both, the tumult of their mutual attraction died down and left them at ease. They could talk like pals—like friends—like husband and wife. They were talking of somebody else—not of themselves.

"I'm not worrying about Mulrooney—he won't even have a headache by dinner time," said Cavanaugh lightly. "I had to get away from him the best way I could But don't let it worry you, sweetheart."

They stood apart now, each marveling at the other's poise—the living current of sheer Life surging through them, trampling under all obstacles. In luck or out of luck, Cavanaugh realized that no other living woman could so fill him with physical and mental energy. With the tingle of Leni Luneska in his blood nothing was impossible to him. He could even forget the web of menace that now entangled his very existence.

"Do you know, sweetheart, you give me new ideas," he told her, studying her slender, elastic figure. "I know it sounds sappy—but you make me feel like I could go out and conquer the world. I want to do something I've never done before. You don't suppose I'm going to wind up earning an honest living, do you?"

UNAWARE OF TRAGEDY

It was a preposterous mood. How could two people forget the tragedies that had overtaken them and finding the giddiness of a celestial champagne bubbling around their hearts?

Both of them were, ordinarily, individuals of more than average sensitivities. No one had ever accused either of being callous, yet each, so very recently, had been brushed by the black wings of death.

The only explanation, perhaps, is that love is a principle akin to light which banishes darkness. It may well be that they had contacted a force of greater magnitude than most mortals are privileged to tune in upon.

This much is certain—for a brief while, Cavanaugh and Leni Luneska were unaware of the disaster and tragedy that swirled in their external world. In Leni's bedroom with the windows open and the curtains gently moving in the breeze, with the sun shining and the flowers growing in the garden beneath, they lost completely their remembrance

This the cynical may not believe—that they rested upon the bed side by side, hand in hand, telling each other how much they had to live for. They were both fatigued, and relaxed in nerves, half drowsy.

"We have already survived so much together that I don't believe even an earthquake could separate us now," Leni said.

"Never!" was the emphatic reply.

"Unless people are in love," Leni went on, "they live in a world where everything hurts. You eat and sleep and work, and it's just like wasting your time. Have you ever looked at the tired, unhappy faces in a crowd, Lucky? All those people on the streets—how many of them have found love? It's all so empty and silly and joyless—like playing a piano without strings. I wonder if everybody eventually finds love—or are we the only two on earth?"

Cavanaugh had been wondering about the same thing.

A new door to life had opened for him. He rested beside Leni Luneska and talked of things that had never passed his lips before. The shell that was hard and wise and witty fell away from him, and he was no more than a very young and—miraculously—a very innocent boy.

"People like I used to be don't know there are such things as this in the world," he said dreamily. "I used to believe that women and love and marriage and all the rest of it was something that was either pretty cheap, or, at best, a poetic myth. Either that or very much hotcha, like getting drunk. Words like 'beautiful' and 'wonderful' and 'marvelous'—I thought anybody who talked that way was a sap——"

The Junior Patrol Mail Box

We mailed many more armbands yesterday, fellows!

There are Junior Patrol clubs now in almost every Pittsburgh district and in many of the towns around Pittsburgh. Every member of the Junior Patrol who doesn't already belong to a club should either join one that is already going strong in his neighborhood or else he should start one of his own.

Just exactly what a club does is up to the Captain and the members. To be a Captain, a fellow should be elected by the other members, and then when he sends in his membership roll of at least 10 names, he is eligible to get an armband. Of course, you can have as many members in your club as you want.

NEWS NEWS NEWS NEWS

Betty Massa, of 428 Beatty street, wants instructions for starting a Patrol. Just see the above paragraph, Betty—and any other member who wants to start a Patrol. The best way, maybe, is just to ask all your friends if they would like to join and after they join they can ask all their friends, and pretty soon, you have a real big club with 20 or 30 members. You can elect Lieutenants, too.

Kathleen Whalen, of 844 Maple avenue, Turtle Creek, says that she is going to start a patrol, and she likes the Mail Box. Remember, fellows, the Mail Box will be more interesting if you will write in to headquarters and tell us all the news and what good deeds you have done.

James Fryman, of 612 Florence avenue, Avalon, writes, wondering why he didn't get his armband. That's because we didn't have your name on your letter, James—be sure to write your entire address clearly on every letter you write. It saves delay, and Uncle Sam doesn't bring the mail back.

Other recent armband winners are Ernest Arzberger, of 5433 McCandless avenue, Pittsburgh, and Richard Bardes, of 1602 Oak Grove avenue, Swissvale.

It begins to look as if Snuggins and Perce are kidnaped, doesn't it? We're sure glad that Spike and Bill are on the job and tracking down whoever took them away—if someone did. It's all a mystery so far, and we'll have to wait and see what really does happen next. Maybe today there is an explanation.

Today be have a letter again from Capt. Anna Mae Glitsch, of 1248 Dickson street, North Side. She writes:

"I m reporting seven new members. We all went to your picnic and had a grand time. We are anxious to receive the cards and buttons for the new members. I received my Captain's armband and was very happy to get it."

And now here's a letter from Thelma Jane Burton, of 820 Hazelwood avenue. She sends in a pledge for her girl friend. Fine, Thelma, and now that you have such a good start, why don't you and your girl friend get together and start a club of your own?

Say, listen to this fellows! Looks as if we are going to have the longest distance Patrol in Altoona—here's a letter from Bob Murray, of 428 Second avenue, Altoona. He writes:

"I have 10 members already although I am not in your club yet."

The thing to do, Bob, is to send in your pledges for all your members, and then send in your roll as soon as you are elected Captain. You'll get your armband, and your club can start right away having good times and helping others.

THE LAST WORD—Be sure your address is full, correct and complete, fellows, on all the letters and pledges you send to headquarters. THIS IS MOST IMPORTANT.

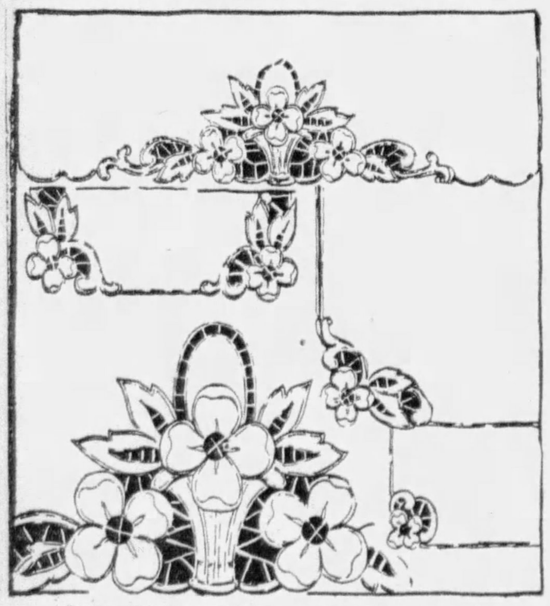
PATCHWORK QUILT PATTERN



CUTWORK MOTIFS PATTERN 516

By LAURA WHEELER

When some form of needlework enjoys popularity, there is always a good reason for it. Take cutwork for instance. The most expensive linens in the shops feature it; the thrifty and clever needlewoman enhances her linens with it. Why? You need only see cutwork on a bed or table linen to know the reason. Its rich beauty—its simplicity of design makes it a choice decoration.

Pattern No. 516 offers a pair of motifs 4½x22½ inches, the right size for regulation pillow cases (the edge for the back of the pillow cases is also given). The motifs are so designed that they can be cut off at each end and form motifs for a pair of 15-inch towels or the ends of a scarf. There are also four corners 4½x4¾ inches (two and two reverses) and six 2½-inch corners for tea napkins. The pattern contains directions with illustrated stitches for doing cutwork, and suggestions and yardages for a variety of linens.

Send 15c for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

A Queer Card Index

During the last year we had the quaint deckle-edge notion that repeal would knock off the old established New York speakeasy.

There were supposed to be around thirty thousand delirium shoppes in town. So we figured it would be a neat idea to have something to remember them by.

People save ancient coins, parchments and stamps. So why not start a collection of prehistoric alcohol caves?

Get the calling card of each creep joint and classify it. We did. Well, we found that there weren't thirty thousand. There were fifty.

We ain't sure whether the boys printed cards special for us, but we have an assortment that would make your tonsils play leap frog with your ears.

Some day those cards will be as valuable as Babylonian clay tablets. They represent thirteen years of American tribal life.

Some of the names are pips. There's the old barn, the new barn and the middle-aged barn. The cock-eyed igloo, the pedestrian's dead storage and rubber-legged garage.

The tootsy-wootsy, which was a speakeasy to instruct the children. For that matter, they even had a speak for nursing mothers.

The brokers had their own rum alcoves. The polo set patronized a select hole-in-the-wall over on the avenue. The Second Avenue Yacht Club had no deep water nor wharves. Which was a good thing for the safety of the members. The first reaction you got from Manhattan throat polish was to hanker to kick somebody off a wharf.

We understood that even the government ran a speaky-spacky-Spokey in New York for a while and that there was quite a scandal when a revenue agent was tossed out so hard he came back and raided it on the first bounce. We forget the name of that one. It was some kind of a divan or something. We are not going to print the first name because it may be still operating.

When enough time has elapsed and we have all the cards tabulated we will give an exhibition in Carnegie Hall or the Metropolitan Art Galleries. Then, future generations will learn how we lived with the benefits of the higher culture, benevolent legislation, a wild desire to succeed and a stomach pump.

In the meantime, we wish to inform out-of-townies that some of the cards are still palpitating and active for the benefit of those patricians whose slender wrists are too delicate to lift a heavy beer mug.

BE A PITTSBURGH BOOSTER
To Your Friends in Other Cities

Now, Concerted Action!

The Conference of Mayors and Burgesses Called by Mayor Herron Is an Excellent Idea.

The word from Washington as to the prospects for the construction by the federal government of storage reservoirs at the headwaters of the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers, to protect the tri-state district from flood, is favorable. The project seems almost made to order for the NRA program of public works. But it is never a mistake to make assurance doubly sure, and Mayor John S. Herron is doing something of that nature in calling a conference of the mayors and burgesses of the district to promote the plan. It is a capital idea.

The Mayor has asked the chief executives of nearly 100 cities in the upper Ohio and the Allegheny and Monongahela valleys to join with him at a meeting in the City-County Building next Wednesday afternoon in devising ways and means of obtaining immediate consideration of the flood protection project.

The meeting will serve to call attention to the fact that the project is of truly federal character in its scope, since it will show that not Pittsburgh alone, not Pennsylvania alone, but other cities and other states will share in the benefits.

It is a job for the United States government, and a job that should be done now.

An Impressive Plea

Col. Church's Support Adds Strength to the Demand for Better Conditions for Miners.

At an earlier stage of his life Col. Samuel Harden Church was a high official of the Pennsylvania Railroad and a personal friend of Andrew Carnegie. His associations are largely with men of wealth, with the heads of corporations, and with adherents of the laissez-faire ("let well enough alone") school of economics.

Consequently one might expect that in contentious matters the colonel would side with capital against labor, with employers against the employed, and with supporters of the existing industrial system, against advocates of a radical change. This makes all the more impressive Col. Church's plea in a radio address Wednesday night for better wages and better living conditions for the coal miners.

A quiet study that he has made has forced him to the conclusion, Col. Church said, that "coal conditions as they affect our workers are ghastly."

Col. Church makes no accusations against the operators; but the Sun-Telegraph believes that if the operators could be induced to admit that conditions are as bad as Col. Church says they are, there would be greater hope of improvement.

August Is Going

Better Buy Now!

This, as the calendar will tell you, is the 18th of August. Only 13 days before the month is out.

If you are wise, you will dig down into the family sock and buy what you can now, for use later.

August is traditionally an "off" month.

Prices for many necessities and luxuries are usually lower at this time than at any other.

And this August will undoubtedly mark the lowest level that the country will see for years to come.

Factory costs are rising.

More persons are going to work, which means more demand for the things the factories make.

Hence prices are already on the upgrade, and where they will climb before Christmas nobody knows.

The one sure thing is that they will be far greater than now, and that you can buy less with your dollar then than you can now.

Of course, by buying at once you will help recovery, but what interests you more is that you will help yourself.

Buy in August. Save money. You cannot save it if you wait much longer. You can save it by spending it NOW.

Inexcusable

There Can Be No Justification for Giving City Relief Jobs to Persons Not Needing Relief.

When Council appropriated $300,000 for work relief the people understood, of course, that the jobs would be given to persons who otherwise would have to appeal to public charity.

But the Sun-Telegraph has found a college boy, home on vacation, whose father is steadily employed and whose sister is a school teacher, on the city's work relief payroll.

We do not know how many other cases like this there may be, but it is inexcusable that there should be a single one.

Get Garbo!

As far as it goes, the plan of the County Commissioners to make a movie showing members of election boards at their work is all right.

As far as it goes, but it doesn't go far enough. It needs Garbo to assure an audience—Garbo striding stealthily across the damp floor of an ancient garage, jerking out a wrinkled ballot and exclaiming, in the most Duse manner:

"Wan vote for Yonson. Aye tank Aye go home."

SUN-TELEGRAPH'S PLATFORM

For Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania

A better, cleaner, more beautiful city.
Improved transit facilities.

Complete utilization of water resources
Development of air transportation.

Another Milestone

(Copyright, 1933.)

Have YOU joined the "Buy-in-August" campaign?

The NRA program is one milestone in the nation's progress back to prosperity. It is spreading employment, raising minimum wages and increasing the public buying power.

The next thing needed was to make that buying power fully effective. And August is the very time to do so.

Bargain prices prevail in August. Prices already are going up. August prices may not be obtainable again for a long time to come.

By spending now the customer gets big value for his money, the merchant clears his shelves and orders more goods, the factories buy more raw materials and hire more hands—and public buying power increases again!

The Hearst newspapers suggested the "Buy-in-August" campaign to help business and the public throughout the whole country.

YOU can speed the campaign along and benefit yourself by joining the campaign NOW.

Go to your store and purchase at August prices the things you ought to have.

Marry-Go-Round

Man Has Woman Guessing

Since woman began claiming her "rights," men have been quietly helping themselves to a lot of woman's privileges.

* * *

I don't mean that they have been carrying vanity cases and powdering their noses on the sly; nor even that they have taken to wearing fancy beach pajamas—though why shouldn't they? Pajamas were once a purely masculine garment. They've simply been so "feminized" that men have taken to the cover of a beach-robe in their stead. A man has his PRIDE!

* * *

But, one of the things to which man has helped himself is woman's "fascinating mystery." Woman was once called the "mysterious sex"—and got away with everything short of murder on the strength of that supposed charm.

Now it is MAN who keeps woman guessing—and waiting.

* * *

Not that any woman cannot tell what a man will DO, under almost any given circumstances. But WHY he does it, is becoming a bigger problem to her every day. She simply cannot fathom what's going on behind his forehead or above his ears.

* * *

WHY will he spend half the summer trying to wedge his way into a girl's affections—and then suddenly turn around in a panic and try to wriggle out of them?

* * *

Why will be carefully sidestep the woman who makes herself a human sacrifice on the altar of his whims in order to sit at the feet of a woman who walks all over his neck.

* * *

Why will he marry a woman who is the exact antithesis of his notion of an ideal wife—and then spend the rest of his life striving to make her over according to the conventional pattern?

Why will he frankly and ardently make love to a woman who means nothing to him—and run for safety from the woman who is beginning to mean SOMETHING to him?

* * *

Why will he spend weeks struggling AGAINST a girl who honestly wants to marry him—and then, when she suddenly turns her attentions to another man, try to snatch her back again?

* * *

Why will a girl with the face of an artist's model, the brains of a genius and the figure of a mannikin leave him utterly cold, while a little dumbbell with a weak chin, a twinkle in her eye and a vacuous laugh will leave him choking with emotion?

* * *

Why does he secretly admire women nearly twice his age when he's 20—and scorn to bother with any woman over half his age when he's 50?

* * *

Why does he talk and dream of finding a woman who will be a pal and an inspiration to him in his work—and then spend most of his marrying years playing around with lightweights who distract him from his work?

* * *

The truth is that man is always and always HAS been "the mysterious sex." There never WAS any mystery about a woman—except in a man's imagination.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Aug. 18. — Thoughts while strolling: The way to break a dry spell is give a lawn party. Jules Glaenzer always seems rushing to get a chair for someone. Most of the lights on the Gay White Way are now red. No leading man holds his age so well as Conway Tearle.

Arch Selwyn, a Kansas City (Mo.) boy, who made good in the city. The tune "Valencia" makes me think of a liner shoving off. Count von Luckner is a pocket edition of Carnera. And Vincent Lopez ditto for Fiorella La Guardia. Whatever became of Tempest, of Tempest and Sunshine?

One-word description of Sylvia Sydney — Japanesey. Nifty name for a sportsman—Laddie Sandford. Katherine Brush's mischievous twinkle. I keep thinking of a friend of mine in St. Louis who awakened to find a burglar peering into his face. The roots of his hair ached for days.

Jay O'Brien's tiptoe manner. One of my favorite people—Montague Glass. In a lifetime I've never seen a roaming Armenian peddler sell a rug. That crackerjack display window at Hudnut's. Maury Paul's soapy shine. I linger around those tar wagons to acquire that clinging taste, like melon or fog.

Heywood Broun never arrives normally. He suddenly looms. How bravely the actors carry on! Louise Groody's delightfully retrousse nose. Smart alec farewell on a Broadway curb: "See you at the opera some odd Monday!" Irene Hayes' red hair. Step closer. And I'll now sell the medicine.

Some one post cards all the way from Capetown that the longest word in Shakespeare is "honorificabilitudinitatibus" which is in "Love's Labor Lost." Those who can't pronounce it can get the effect by one long sweep across the family zither.

* * *

During one of the earlier hard-up spells in New York I launched —of all people—an advertising soliciting career. Each morning in an office on West 34th street I was given a list of prospects and 50 cents carfare. The job lasted 20 days without getting closer to a prospect than his office boy. It was such a depressing experience that ever after in passing the building I had a sinking feeling. Today I noticed it was being dismantled. So I stood awhile watching the steam shovels. Yet I found myself suffering the same miserable pang. I came home and told my wife of my melancholy. "What do you want them to do?" she inquired. "Blow up the block?"

* * *

A refuge those troubled days was a movie hard by the old Herald Square Hotel. The doorman from Dayton, O., and a double for Victor Herbert used to slide me in with a faked reach for a ticket. The fare was sobby melodrama and I came out with eyes slightly red. But the crying was about something else.

* * *

I was magnificently young. But the boy grew older and there was no outlet for tears. Often during the past three years I have noticed —and how well I spot the symtoms!—young folk struggling along streets to keep back the freshets. They can't fool me. They have just come from a disappointing rebuff. And when I see them memory dips sharply down hill. I want to tell them it will probably be all right.

There lives in Boston a retired butler, a cordy Scotsman named MacGregor, who opens many huge estates on Long Island, Newport and Narragansett. He brings a hand-picked crew, then staffs the establishments with careful selections. He is said to make enough during these few weeks to keep him in comfort the rest of the year.

* * *

John Drew used to have a butler named Hector III. His father and grandfather were distinguished for buttling before him. And then there was Wilson Mizner's owl-eyed left-over valet-butler from the Yerkes menage. Mizner called him "snigglefritz."

* * *

Folk, bless 'em, turned more than ever before to dogs with the depression. There has been an increase of 118 dog shops in the greater city since the crash. The phenomenon of taste has been the growing popularity of the dachshund. Among the few enterprises to prosper during the slump was manufacturing of dog foods.

* * *

Speaking of dog hunger, two gluttonous so-and-sos across the room have their noses glued to a crack under the kitchen door right now and dinner is three hours away. But they heard a skillet rattle.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

HOW ABOUT THE MOVIES? DO THEY "POISON OUR CHILDREN?"

GIVE THEM FALSE IDEAS OF LIFE . . . START THEM ON THE ROAD TO RUIN?

AND SHOULD WE HAVE LAWS MAKING MOVIES SAFE FOR THE YOUNGSTERS?

Here's a mother who thinks they do—and we should. And, no matter how hot it is, there's a letter that will make you sit up and think . . . and then grab the old pen in reply.

Dear Miss Robinson:

I wonder if you wouldn't say something about the terrible movies that are put out, to make gangsters, or worse, of our youngsters. In fact, it seems to me the duty of all decent people to do something about this question.

On every side you see pictures put out with no regard whatever for what innocent children may get out of them. I think it is an outrage. Silly love escapades . . . pictures about thugs and other undesirable people . . . scenes of drinking and carousing . . . divorce, broken marriages, unfaithful wives and husbands . . . they sweep in a lawless tide through the theaters of our land.

Of course I know you can't expect men who are out to make money, to not make pictures they know will have a big "box office" success. THEY DON'T CARE WHAT BECOMES OF OUR YOUNGER GENERATION, JUST SO THEY GET THEIR PROFITS. I think they're a blot on this country, and something should be done about it.

I live in a community where there are a lot of children. Mine are grown up now, so I'm not speaking for myself. They grew up before the movie craze hit this country. I don't have to worry about them. But the children of my younger neighbors flock to the neighborhood movie all the time, and I'm telling the world that some of the things they see are totally unfit for childish minds to come in contact with.

I THINK THE LAWS OF THIS LAND SHOULD BE TIGHTENED UP, IN JUSTICE TO OUR INNOCENT YOUNGSTERS, SO THAT THESE UNSCRUPULOUS MEN WOULD BE COMPELLED TO CLEAN UP THEIR STORIES AND PUT OUT DECENT ONES.

I hope you will publish this letter. I knew a great many people agree with me that movies are a menace to our children, and we should fight to clean them up.

Mrs. K. Morton.

Some truth to that? Yes. There are scores of silly films . . . trashy, vulgar, downright vicious pictures —which aren't good medicine for adults, much less for youngsters. And every public spirited organization in the country should take up the cudgels against such exhibitions.

But—

Does that mean that everything should be prettied up to conform to the needs of the Dear Little Children? Does it mean that Hollywood should be compelled to go lollipop, so's Junior and Sister won't get naughty notions?

It certainly does NOT!

Movies are primarily an adult amusement, and there are countless topics which are perfectly fit for adult consideration, but not fit for a juvenile audience. For example, there's that magnificent stage play—"Rain." If "Rain" came to your village theater, would you take the little folks to see it? Of course you wouldn't. The very idea is shocking. That play wouldn't hurt YOU—might even be good for you. But for children? NEVER!

YET WHEN IT COMES TO THE SCREEN, DO YOU, AS A PARENT, THINK TWICE BEFORE HANDING LITTLE JOHNNY HIS DAILY DIME?

Chances are you don't. And if you do, there are a thousand other mothers who say—"Yes, darling, run along—" not even bothering to discover whether the picture is Alice in Wonderland or a Hotcha Gangland Carousal.

So I'm all for agreeing that "there oughta be a law"—

BUT INSTEAD OF PUTTING THE COOKIE CUTTER ON THE FLICKERS HOW ABOUT RIDING HERD ON FOOL PARENTS AND MAKING THEM RESPONSIBLE FOR THEIR CHILDREN'S PLAY HOURS AS WELL AS THEIR STUDY HOURS?

Time was when parents were supposed to have a job and WORK AT IT. And if they didn't, the whole community landed—pronto!—on their necks. But nowadays—ma "can't be bothered." And if little Willie—having graduated from gangster films — eventually spends a dozen years in the Big House, eating on the tax payers' money . . . why that's just the tax payers' bad luck!

HOW ABOUT MAKING IT THE PARENTS' BAD LUCK?

Or are you one of those who believe that family cares mustn't be allowed to cramp Mama's style?

At which point, if this hasn't become a Free-for-all, it should. So open the door and let 'em in.

You've had ideas about the movies—here's your chance to air them.

WHAT, IF ANYTHING, SHOULD BE DONE ABOUT 'EM?

SHOULD THEY ALL BE MADE "FIT FOR CHILDREN?"

OR SHOULD THERE BE A STRICTER CENSORSHIP, WITH CHILDREN EXCLUDED FROM CERTAIN FILMS?

OR WOULD YOU DO AWAY WITH ALL CENSORSHIP AND LET THE YOUNGSTER SEE ANYTHING AND EVERYTHING —REGARDLESS?

Isn't It So?

Text for Today He hath shewed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?—Micah, vi:8.

The Human Side of the News

Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach's Remarkable Collection Of Old Books—A Naval Officer Offered Samoa's Throne

By EDWIN C. HILL

RAMBLING through the news, one comes upon many kinds of collectors—men and women whose minds slant toward the acquisition of objects beautiful or rare or in some way unique. It seems to be inherent in the human cosmos, this passion for collecting. Small boys have it. Empty the pockets of any one of them and you find his treasure, his pet collection.

Some folk collect postage stamps, like King George of England. Some collect paintings, as was the special passion of the late Benjamin Altman. The range is illimitable and amazing. But probably the most interesting of all collectors, engaged in one special field of acquisition, is Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach, the world's most celebrated collector of rare books and manuscripts.

He is the possessor of what is often called "The Ten Million Dollar Bookshelf," and he has just added to it a first folio of Shakespeare. It comes from the library of Lord Rosebery in England, and it cost Dr. Rosenbach $61,900 to transfer this unique printing of the works of the Bard of Avon to the Rosenbach treasure house in New York.

Dr. Rosenbach is 57 now; a heavy-set, spectacled, alert and amiable gentleman who has brought to the fascinating sport of collecting rare books and manuscripts all those qualities of imagination, quick decision, foresight and bold venture which marks the giants of commerce and industry.

He was born to his life's work, coming of an old Philadelphia family which was engaged in the book business. In a period of 10 years alone he spent $25,000,000 for the treasures he coveted. A man of education and culture, yet with a shrewd knack for business, he combined the interest and profits of book buying and selling with his passion for collecting. Visitors to his libraries are frequently astonished to hear that most of their contents are not for sale . . . It is difficult to apply the money yardstick to a piece of faded paper upon which Dickens has penned the "Christmas Carol" or upon which Oliver Cromwell has inscribed a letter to his wife.

Dr. Rosenbach's Unique Library

THERE is nothing in the world like Dr. Rosenbach's library and bookshop in New York. The library is a beautifully furnished room, lined with cases of rare and valuable volumes. In addition, there is the treasure room, a compact affair with well-filled shelves on all sides, but still having room for such items as the new first folio of Shakespeare. Either there, or in his Philadelphia treasure house, is to be found the prize of the collection, the original manuscript of "Pickwick Papers," all but a single page which is in the British Museum, and two or three pages which are missing altogether.

There, too, is the Gutenburg Bible, for which Dr. Rosenbach paid $106,000; the manuscript of the libretto of Wagner's "Die Meistersinger," an item which cost him $58,750; the $51,000 signature of Button Gwinnett, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, and a gentleman, it appears, who signed little else, the fact which makes his signature so valuable in the eyes of collectors. And until recently one could have seen the manuscript of Lewis Carroll's "Alice in Wonderland."

One could go on for hours describing his libraries and their fascinating contents—the series of Robert Burns manuscripts, the finest Shakespeare collection extant, Washington's letters to Benedict Arnold and thousand other rarities which excite the mind or stir the heart.

And much of the thrill of the chase has gone with the gathering of the trophies. Many times the great collector has startled the world with the prices he paid. His favorite story is the search he made for fifteen years for one book. It was the first volume ever published on sports, printed in 1486. Time after time he was hot on the trail, only to lose the scent. He had about given up hope when a man came to his office one day, quite by chance, with a book wrapped up in a newspaper, and offered it for sale. It was the missing book, for which the doctor had combed the world for fifteen years. That's the thrill of a lifetime for a collector, the thrill that is more wonderful than comes to an ordinary man when he wins the Calcutta Sweepstakes.

Naval Officer as King of Samoa

MENTION in the news of the Samoan Islands of the South Seas recalls the curious fact that an officer of the United States Navy, Captain Charles S. Ripley, purely a white man, of course, is the legitimate king of the islands if he cared to claim his rights.

A curious story lies behind Capt. Ripley's royal rank. Since early colonial days the Ripleys have dwelt along the rockbound coast of Maine as sailors and fishermen. The sea was in their blood and the salty tang of it in their adventurous nostrils. Early in the Nineteenth Century one of the family sailed away for China, by way of Cape Horn, and never returned. Many years later his great-grand nephew, Charles S. Ripley, called at the Samoan archipelago as an officer of the famous old ship Vandalia of the United States Navy. That was during the tense days when we were having trouble with Germany over Samoa, and when there was prospect of war, even.

The Americans had befriended old King Malietoa, who looked upon all Americans as his friends. When the Vandalia dropped anchor in Samoa Harbor and Malietoa saw young Ripley he became curiously interested, even excited. He plied him with questions about his home and his family, and when the answers satisfied him, he told the young American officer that many years before, when the grandfather of Malietoa was a very young man, a shipwrecked American sailor named Ripley had married a Samoan princess of the house of Malietoa, the royal house.

That oldtime New England Ripley became an ancestor of the royal line, of Malietoa himself. Young Ripley easily identified the Ripley of the long-ago as his own great-great uncle, and at Malietoa's insistence went through the ceremony of becoming Malietoa's son by adoption, a formality which made him the legal heir to the throne of Samoa. Then Malietoa went to his father, and Mataofa, backed by the Germans, seized the throne. An international commission was named to straighten out the tangle, and after a careful investigation of the royal archives, decided that Lieut. Ripley, of the United States Navy, was the legal and rightful King of Samoa.

He was requested to enter into his kingdom but declined. The reason was that he had married a wife who preferred the known comforts of Colorado to the doubtful glories of royal rank in Samoa, and so the lieutenant said then nay, with what secret pangs no man may know.

Kipling once wrote a story about "The Man Who Would Be King." Capt. Ripley achieved peculiar celebrity as the man who would not be king.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Why don't you select good qualities about people and speak of them when you allude to such persons?

Why so few complimentary statements to make of your friends?

If you were entirely free from faults there might be some excuse for the avidity with which you seize upon the slanderous gossip floating about.

But you are not—you are as human as the rest of the world.

Possibly that is the reason why you draw attention so often to the faults of others.

If you looked for the good you'd find it and it is equally true that if you look for the bad you will be just as successful in finding unfavorable points.

If you deal in slander or gossip you have [illegible] taste.
